Eleven CHS Students Pass CSWP Exam

The Campbellsport School District recently announced that 11 of its Campbellsport High School (CHS) seniors have passed the Certified SolidWorks Professional (CSWP) exam, which is geared toward professionals in the mechanical design industry.

SolidWorks is a solid modeling computer-aided design and computer-aided engineering application published by Dassault Systèmes, according to its website. The software was initially released in 1995.

According to information provided by CHS, the exam indicates a high-level of competence in the use of the SolidWorks 3D CAD program and the thorough understanding of mechanical design and parametric part modeling. The exam ran three hours and 20 minutes, and it consisted of three tests in the following areas: Part modification, configurations and assemblies.

The SolidWorks certification database lists a total of 44 students from the state of Wisconsin that have passed this exam; of those 44 students, 27 are from Campbellsport High School, according to the district.

"Congrats to our students and thanks to their teacher, Mr. Hein, for preparing them for this honor!" said a release from CHS.

A Celebration To Remember

BY ANNE TRAUTNER JOURNALIST

The Village of Kewaskum is celebrating its 125th anniversary with a three-day celebration on June 10, 11 and 12.

"Imagine Kettle Kountry Kolors, Crazy Daze, Early Farm Days and the Kewaskum Firemen's Picnic all wrapped into one weekend. Visitors will enjoy an 1895 encampment on the river, vendor show, Native American dancers, music, and plenty of food and fun," said Aaron Laatsch, a volunteer for the Kewaskum Historical Society and event co-chair.

The celebration will kick off on Friday, June 10, with a fish fry and music, and end on Sunday, June 12, with a mammoth parade and program about Chief Kewaskum and the Kewaskum family.

"We have been looking forward to this event for a long time. We have had so much community support and there are some really great things lined up," Laatsch said.

The event was originally planned for June 2020 but was postponed two years in a row because of the COVID-19 pandemic. Area organizations and businesses have come together to make it a grand celebration that can finally be held this year.

Festivities begin on Friday, June 10, with a fish fry by the Kewaskum Fire Department at River Hill Park from 4 to 7 p.m. The Kewaskum Big Band will perform from 5 to 6:30 p.m. and the Dwellers will perform party hits of yesterday and today from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

Entertainment continues at River Hill Park on Saturday, June 11. The lineup includes Whiskey In Me Tea playing Irish fiddle and guitar, 10-11:30 a.m.; Welcome Speech with Village Administrator Adam Gitter, 11:30 a.m.-noon; Goodtime Dutchmen playing polka music, noon-1:30 p.m.; Randy Peterson Family Fun Program for Kids, 1-2 p.m.; Downtown Harrison performing live music, noon-2 p.m.; Woodland Sky Native American Dancers, 3-4:30 p.m.; Whiskey Belles performing country, folk and American music, 5-7 p.m.; Rebel Grace performing contemporary country music, 8-11 p.m.; and fireworks by the Kewaskum Fire Department at dusk.

On Sunday, June 12, there will be a Historic Hustle 5K Run/Walk to benefit the Kewaskum Elementary School PTO at 8 a.m.; a 125th Anniversary Parade going through downtown Kewaskum at noon, followed by a special "Fifth Quarter" performance by the UW Marching Band at the Wisconsin 9/11 Memorial; and a presentation about Chief Kewaskum in the Kewaskum High School auditorium at 3 p.m.

Throughout the weekend, there will be a pioneer encampment along the river in River Hill Park. There also will be children's activities, a petting zoo, historic displays, craft and food vendors, carriage rides and refreshments.

"We have so many great events planned. It will be a celebration to remember," Laatsch said.

The Journey

Dear Reader,

Was it John Lennon who said, "We are all alone together?"

In some ways it is true. Have you ever gone to a party and met a bunch of celebrities and then never seen any of them again other than what everyone sees in the public eye? Bottom line, they probably don't give a crap about you... unless there's motivation that you're going to fund or produce their next song or movie.

For big dreams or small, everyone has their own path. So, welcome and cherish this solo journey of yours. Sure, engage with the few that actually, truly love you for who you are. But mostly embrace your own journey and leave something for those who will come up the path a little after you're gone.

Russell Not Seeking Re-election as Wash. Co. Clerk of Courts

Washington County Clerk of Circuit Court Theresa Russell has announced she is not seeking re-election to the role she has served since 2011.

Russell joined Washington County in 1989 and advanced through various roles before taking the department's top office through the election process.

"I am grateful for the opportunity to serve the county and its residents in this important role," said Russell. "I am proud of the accomplishments of my staff, who are an amazing team, including their work to digitize the court records maintained on paper and microfiche, upgrades to the audio/visual equipment in the Justice Center and being a leader in court collections in Wisconsin.

"It has truly been an honor to work with so many incredible people during my time as the clerk of circuit court," she concluded.

The Clerk of Circuit Court is a partisan elected position that will be on the Nov. 8 general election ballot.

"I look forward to seeing the clerk of circuit court staff continue to serve the residents of Washington County," said Russell.

A factory is a site of sights, sounds and smells. From the occasional harsh odor of chemicals to the imposing, endless assembly lines. One of the scents that strikes me nightly comes from a towering double stack of pallets used as shipping container bottoms. The waft from those pine planks carries me straight back to boyhood.

We lived in a sprawling farm house, where I wandered out to the attached structure that was a makeshift lumber room. My father stood at the table saw, the air hazy with that same green smell of pine amid swirling sawdust and the berserk snarl of the blade as it gnawed through scrap wood intended for the basement stove. Wasn't however, the only time my father worked that saw. He was the son of a long line of carpenters going back to our family's roots in the kingdom of Bohemia (later Czechoslovakia). Guess it's in our DNA.

I've assisted (mostly watched) Dad build the front porch on our house and a utility shed to store firewood. Amazed by his meticulous care with not only saw, hammer and nails but also a carpenter's square and bubble level. It's the kinda accuracy with the same tools I could only wish for. Mind you, I built a back entryway wind break as well as bookcases. Each got better looking, more finely constructed. Despite the fact I opted for nails instead of glue. Or countersinking them and covering the holes with putty. Nice touches but a bit beyond my rudimentary skills. If you have a door that doesn't fit right, I'm good with a plane. Even if I'll never fit the bill for the James Taylor tune, "Handyman."

Still, it's nice knowing I am not completely out of sorts around wood. Especially with such a lengthy family history of working with it. But with words – now there I'm just a sight better.

Lemonade Day Fond du Lac County

The Lemonade Day program is about more than just a Lemonade Day stand. In Fond du Lac County, it is a community tradition that has taken place for the past seven years.

Stands will be open on Saturday, May 7, from 11 a.m. – 2 p.m. There are 33 stands this year, with 132 youth and adult mentors registered in the program. Stands have been organized and mentored by Boys & Girls Club, Big Bro./Big Sis.; The ARC, Faith Lutheran, Sabish, Waters, Chegwin, Ebony Vision, St. Mary's Spring Academy, Lomira schools, St. Peters, and individual families that had youth wanting to do the program. Customers who visit stands will be asked to vote on their lemonade for 'Best Tasting Lemonade' award. For a complete list of stands visit <https://lemonadeday.org/fond-du-lac-county/stands-map> and <https://fonddulac.extension.wisc.edu/positive-youth-development/>.

Originally organized through Envision Greater Fond du Lac for the past seven years, Envision sunsetted the program, and approached UW Extension of Fond du Lac to continue the program. Ron Jakubisin, Positive Youth Development Educator states, "It's such a huge tradition in Fond du Lac and it wouldn't exist if not for Envision's talented staff, we are honored to continue this great tradition!" Jakubisin emphasized that the program also would not exist if not for the major sponsorship from Society Insurance and a grant from UW-Madison/Division of Extension. "The support from National Exchange Bank & Trust and Horicon Bank is also incredibly invaluable as they conduct Lemon Loans", Jakubisin added, "They give their time and staff as youth go through a loan interview to start up their stand business, it's fun and educational for everyone!"

Youth learn, with the help of a mentor/teacher and lesson book, how to set a goal, create a business plan by setting a goal, creating a budget, finding an investor, choosing a site location, creating an advertising plan, building a stand, and then report results. Youth also learn valuable life skills – leadership, teamwork, social skills, social responsibility, and a huge new sense of confidence in their abilities. Youth keep the money they earn. They are encouraged to spend some, save some, and share some with their favorite charity. In 2021, youth-run lemonade stands donated 91% of their profits to a local non-profit.

Myers to Headline 2022 Roots and Branches Seminar Series

Join Roots and Branches on Wednesday, May 18, at 7 p.m., for a special program with Melinda Myers at The Historic West Bend Theatre, 125 Main St.

Nothing tastes as good, and is as nutritious, as produce grown and harvested from your own garden. You control the inputs such as soil amendments, fertilizer, and pesticides so you know exactly what you're eating. Plus, if your family helps plan and plant the garden, they are more likely to eat the vegetables they've grown. And research shows the act of gardening can provide mental and physical health benefits well beyond the nutrients the harvest provides. You'll learn how to create a productive garden from the ground up. Melinda will share how to prep the garden bed for success, extend the growing season, maximize productivity, and keep plants healthy.

Known for her friendly and practical gardening advice, Melinda is an award winning, nationally recognized garden-

Myers will have copies of her Midwest Gardeners Handbook - 2nd Edition - available for purchase and personal signing at a reduced price of $25. Tickets for Melinda's presentation are $15 each at www.rootsbranches.org.

State Celebrates Arbor Day

Governor announces that Wisconsin has planted more than 9.3 Million trees since signing "Trillion Trees Pledge"

MENASHA — Wisconsin Gov. Tony Evers, on April 29, in celebration of Arbor Day and Forest Appreciation Week, announced more than 9.3 million trees have been planted in Wisconsin since the governor committed to the Trillion Trees Pledge just one year ago.

In 2021, Evers signed Executive Order #112, pledging to plant 75 million new trees in rural and urban areas and conserve 125,000 acres of forest in Wisconsin by 2030 in collaboration with public, private and non-governmental partners. When fully realized, Wisconsin's tree pledge will result in nearly 29 million metric tons of carbon dioxide stored over the next 50 years.

"Planting and conserving trees and forests is a simple and powerful tool for storing carbon and tackling climate change, and I'm excited about the progress we've made on Wisconsin's pledge to plant 75 million trees by 2030," said Evers. "Wisconsin's pledge builds on the good work being done by the forestry community to help safeguard water resources, provide wildlife habitat, and support rural economies by sustainably managing Wisconsin's 17 million acres of vast and valuable forests. This announcement also gets us closer to reaching our goals of a cleaner, healthier, and more resilient environment that will support the sustainable future Wisconsinites are ready for."

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) provided an annual report which details the progress made on the governor's pledge. According to the report, of the 9.3 million trees planted in 2021, the DNR supplied more than half of the seedlings, including 2.7 million that were planted on private lands, 1.1 million that were planted on DNR lands, more than 500,000 that were planted in county forests, more than 42,000 that were planted in school forests and more than 45,000 that were given to elementary school students last Arbor Day.

In addition, the DNR distributed 31.4 million seeds, which will likely grow into approximately 3.5 million future trees.

In addition to planting trees and distributing seeds, the DNR acquired conservation easements on nearly 12,500 acres in Oneida County, while its partners conserved an additional 1,600 acres elsewhere, preventing the conversion of working forestland to other land uses.

"The goal is to use trees and forests as a critical nature-based solution to climate change," said DNR Secretary Preston Cole. "When fully realized, the Governor's pledge is estimated to store nearly 29 million metric tons of carbon dioxide over the next 50 years in our forests and trees. That's about the same amount of carbon dioxide produced by 6 million cars in a year. DNR staff are producing seedlings in concert with private nurseries, not only meeting the needs of the growing public, but doing so in a manner in which we are fostering genetic diversity and looking for species that will thrive in our warming climate."

The DNR is coordinating the implementation of the pledge on behalf of the state of Wisconsin. The DNR's forestry program began in 1904 with the hiring of Wisconsin's first chief state forester, and the program is committed to working with partners to manage Wisconsin forests to provide ecological, economic, social and cultural benefits for Wisconsin residents today and in the future.

This announcement comes as the governor last week celebrated Earth Day by signing Executive Order #161 creating the Office of Environmental Justice, which will work to facilitate collaboration across state agencies to provide strategies to promote environmentally just policies and prevent disparate outcomes in communities across the state. Earlier in the week, the governor also announced the state's first-ever Clean Energy Plan, which identifies paths and strategies that aim to lower energy bills and prices at the pump for Wisconsin families, promote energy independence by reducing reliance on out-of-state energy sources, create an estimated more than 40,000 jobs by 2030, and invest in job training and apprenticeship programs in innovative industries and technologies.

For additional information about the Trillion Trees Pledge and the DNR's Trillion Trees Pledge 2021 Annual Report, visit the DNR's website at dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/forests/trillionTreesPledge.

Mark Loehr

Farm Family Carries on Conservation Legacy

Farming the same area of land for more than 140 years, Mark Loehr and his family know how important it is to keep the soil healthy.

In 2017, Loehr was approached by another local farmer, Craig Goeser, to help create a group where neighbors could share ideas about conservation practices. Together with a few others, they created Sheboygan River Progressive Farmers (SRPF).

Mark and his brother Joe jointly own Loehr Dairy in eastern Fond du Lac County, where they milk 500 cows and grow crops on about 1,000 acres. Loehr initially integrated a conservation practice of planting rye after corn silage harvest because the farm wanted to grow more feed for the heifers. Over time and with the help of SRPF, Loehr has introduced new practices and found many benefits that are protecting not only his family but the whole watershed community when it comes to water and soil.

"This group allows us to share different ideas and experiences. It connects us to other farmers. When it's time to make decisions on practices, we have a bank of knowledge from other members to draw from," Loehr said. "If there is something you're thinking about trying, you can learn from the network."

In 2017, Loehr started experimenting with a new practice — intercropping corn silage and soybeans. He knew that anytime you try something new, it's a learning experience and doesn't always work perfectly. In this trial, the farm learned the importance of spacing the corn and soybeans and incorporated drilling the soybeans in between 30-inch rows of corn. Corn is the main crop, while soybeans are secondary. Not only did Loehr increase feed and help his soil, he also found unanticipated benefits.

"We realized rather quickly that having beans between the corn allowed us to travel through the fields with more root mass much easier," he said. "Two-thousand eighteen and 2019 were very wet years, and we could tell the acres where we had the two crops together were less messy. We made fewer ruts and harvesting was much easier — that's why you try something new."

SRPF's 31 members represent 23,100 acres and approximately 12,150 dairy cows and beef cattle. The group collaborates with university researchers, environmental groups and community leaders to promote and implement innovative farming practices.

In 2021, members planted 7,288 acres of cover crops and 15,100 acres using strip-tillage and no-tillage. In all, conservation practices increased by 13% from the previous year. From 2018 to 2021, the use of cover crops increased by 150%, and four times the amount of acres were no-tillage. Some farmers incorporate multiple practices on the same fields.

All that work significantly reduces the chance of harmful runoff into streams and lakes.

Farmers last year potentially prevented an estimated 25,415 pounds of phosphorus from leaving the fields, decreased sediment erosion by 8,900 tons and reduced CO2 equivalents by 8,185 tons, according to an analysis shared by the state Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP), the University of Wisconsin-Madison and The Nature Conservancy (TNC). For comparison, a mid-size dump truck can carry 10 tons of sediment. One pound of phosphorus in a lake or stream has the potential to cause the growth of up to 500 pounds of algae, which can degrade water quality. The tons of CO2 reduction by SRPF members equal the greenhouse gas emissions from 1,764 cars driven for a year.

The modeling-based analysis calculated an estimate of the potential impact of cover crops, strip-tillage and no-tillage compared to more conventional methods typical to SRPF's area.

Loehr is impressed with increases in the adoption of conservation practices.

"We have young families, and we feel it's very important to provide our community with the healthiest foods that they can get. By implementing these practices, we feel we are protecting not only our family but the whole watershed," Loehr said.

As the director of agriculture strategies for TNC, Steve Richter works closely with SRPF to introduce new ideas and provide support. He sees how farmers are learning from each other and gaining confidence across the watershed by staying connected.

"There is a great interest among the SRPF farmers in practices that improve soil health and increase productivity, and these farmers are making these practices more accessible to others by sharing lessons learned," Richter said.

About Sheboygan River Progressive Farmers

Sheboygan River Progressive Farmers is a nonprofit farmer-led watershed conservation group in the Sheboygan and Fond du Lac counties in Wisconsin whose members explore farming strategies that lead to improved soil health, greater farming efficiency, sustained profitability and reduced environmental impact. Members share information gained through field trials with fellow farmers and strive to foster an understanding of the role of agriculture in the community. The group receives support from members and partners, including agricultural and environmental organizations and the state Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection. LORI KREIS
KEWASKUM LIBRARIAN

LORI KREIS
DIRECTOR, KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

I was asked if listening to an audiobook was reading and I immediately answered yes, it was. Since then, I have thought about that and if the activity of listening to an audio book should be considered reading or something else. Dictionary definitions refer to reading as the “the action or skill of reading written or printed matter silently or aloud.” That does not include listening to audiobooks since the spoken word is not written or printed. Listening to or reading printed word can be both the same and different action.

I will go back in history a bit. Audiobooks were invented 90 years ago with the establishment of a recording studio by The American Foundation for the Blind according to PBS Newshour. Soon after that, an amendment was passed by Congress allowing the Library of Congress to produce audiobooks. They were first used for people with disabilities and still are today with many options for people to read, yes read. We refer people to the Wisconsin Talking Book and Braille Library which provides audiobooks for people not only with vision impairment but also for those that are unable to read a printed book easily for a variety of reasons.

Whether you are reading printed word or listening to spoken word, you are still experiencing a book. You are learning and comprehending either way, and with different learning styles, one reader may read and retain better from the printed word while another may have better retention from hearing. And there are others that learn best from watching something. Of course, none of this is black and white, many people learn with a combination of styles. I know that I sometimes learn best by reading, but if the action is more physical, I retain best by watching and then through hands on.

Now, audiobook production is a huge industry with not only books on CD, but also apps where it is very easy to download a book to listen to. The library has two free apps for our users for this purpose, Libby and hoopla. I have seen a large increase in audiobook checkouts from these apps over time and it continues to grow.

I have found that some books are much more enjoyable on audio. Sometimes they are easier to understand, especially if it is a difficult dialect to read. Moreover, if it is read by a narrator that I appreciate listening to, then I find that book a real jewel. Ask me about my favorite readers or audiobooks because of the narrator. I would love to share.

Audiobooks were initially devised as an accessibility tool to reading and continue to be that. Their popularity for all readers cannot be discredited. Asking if listening to an audiobook is reading should not even be a question. They are available for everyone to enjoy a book in an alternative way to the printed page and yes, it is reading.

NAMI Strike Out Stigma Bowling Event Set for May 7

Millions of people in the U.S. are affected by mental illness each year. It's important to measure how common mental illness is, so we can understand its physical, social and financial impact — and so we can show that no one is alone.

NAMI Washington County is dedicated to positively impacting those living with mental health conditions by offering support, providing education, and raising community awareness. Each year, one in five U.S. adults experience mental illness each year, one in six U.S. youth aged 6-17 experience a mental health disorder each year, suicide is the second cause of death among people 10-34 years of age. The average amount of time it takes someone who suspects a mental health condition to get help is 11 years.

On Saturday, May 7, at King Pin Bowl & Ale

in West Bend, NAMI Washington County will be hosting the Strike Out Stigma Bowling event. The last event gathered over 15 teams and raised more than $7,000 to support NAMI WC programming. The registration fee for this year's event is $25 per person and there may be five persons per team. The registration fee includes three games of bowling, free T-shirt, free shoe rental, pizza and pitcher of soda. There will be an open bar. There will also be great raffle prizes including airline tickets. Trivia questions will be asked on the quarter of every hour starting at 1:15 pm for fun prizes. The event starts at 1 p.m. and ends at 4 p.m. To register please go to <https://www.namiwashingtonwi.org/strike-out-stigma/>. If you have any questions, please email executivedirector@namiwashingtonwi.org.

The Kewaskum School District continues working on its conceptual plan for the middle and high school building project, and architects are getting close to creating construction designs. The latest conceptual drawing was presented to the school board Monday night, and it was met with favorable reviews. Further tweaking is needed before the conceptual drawing is released to the public.

Last year, Spiros Industries underwent some construction as an addition was built to its facility in Kohlsville. During the eight months of construction, workers used the parking lot next door that belongs to the Kohlsville Volunteer Fire Department. Spiros Industries owners Jim Maronde and Dennis Backhaus wanted to do something for the fire department to show their appreciation. They presented a check for $9,725 to the fire department, which is enough money to pay for the entire JAWS unit that the department has been wanting for the past few years.

A lot of people around town added a unique new item to their grocery list last week. Grocery bags at Geidel's Piggly Wiggly had been decorated by area students to promote the Kewaskum School District's Gallery Night, an event that features artwork created by students throughout the district.

Literacy Activities at Eden Elementary School

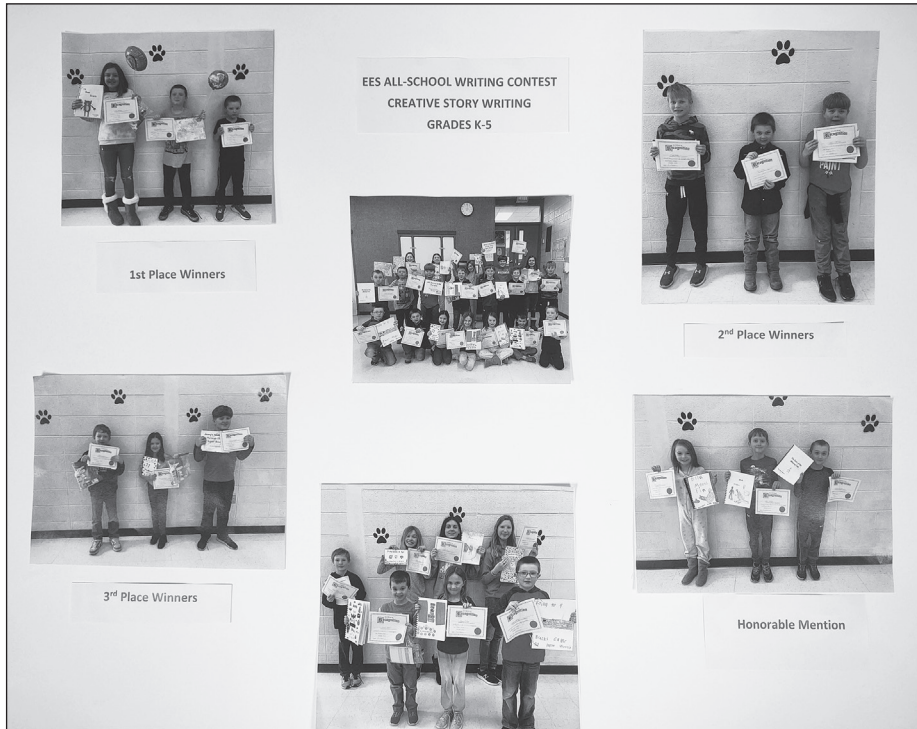

March came in like a lion at Eden Elementary School with a blizzard of literacy activities. Students completed reading challenges, writing contests, celebrated Dr. Seuss week, presented wax museum projects, reader's theater, and book bags, plus participated in the American Heart Association challenge.

In the first week of March, students and staff celebrated Dr. Seuss week by welcoming guest readers, dressing up in silly outfits, and inviting parents to join them in a Read Across America session. Activities included Ms. Sokol's kindergartners working on Yertle the Turtle stacks and Seuss hats, while first graders with Ms. Hess and Mrs. Dwyer created writing displays connected to I'm a Lucky Ducky. Officer Kieran Weed was one of seven guest readers who visited classes to share books during Seuss week. In addition, Chris Hagen and Clover arrived for their weekly Tuesday reading visit, with Clover all decked out in her Dr. Seuss hat for the reading sessions held 4K through fifth.

Dress up days always are fun for the students, but for this week outfits were connected to Seuss stories – dress as a favorite character in a book; Oh, the Places You'll Go, Wacky Wednesday, My Many Colored Days and the ubiquitous The Cat in the Hat.

On Monday and Friday everyone in the building stopped for 20 minutes and pulled out their books for Read Across America sessions, with parents joining students as they lined the halls and lost themselves in literature. To end the week on a fun note, students donned the trademark cat whiskers and Seuss hats.

The month of March also included a special visit from FANG (mascot) and Dayna (school liaison) of the Wisconsin Timber Rattlers. Students participating in the eight-week reading challenge had the opportunity to meet both and have their pictures taken with FANG, who was there to encourage everyone to keep reading and reach their home run goals. Overall, 115 students finished their class goals and earned a home run, which gives them a free ticket, hot dog, soda, and surprise gift from the T. Rats. The school game is scheduled for April 23, start time 1 p.m., with a special section set aside for families to sit back, enjoy a fun afternoon with other Eden families, and watch the T. Rats play ball. Information about how families can order extra tickets has been distributed to students. Congratulations to over half of the student body for meeting its Timber Rattler challenge.

While reading activities held precedence throughout the month, there also was the completion of the first, all-school writing contest that started in January. Grade levels were broken into three groups (K-1, 2-3, 4-5) and encouraged to write and illustrate original short stories. After-school Monday sessions had the library full of scribes drafting and polishing their creativity, as they built off of in-class written work or developed new characters in fascinating adventures. A special thanks to the Eden PTO for funding cash prizes for first, second, and third place at each level. After winners were announced, all 22 writers were treated to gift bags and treats. Congratulations to all the students for challenging themselves to reach beyond the norm and find an inner muse. Winners were first place: K-1 – Hank Liestikow, 2-3 – Gus Liestikow, and 4-5 – Lydia Wettstein. Second place: K-1 Cash Twohig, 2-3 – Logan Flaherty, and 4-5 – Brock Bothe. Third place: K-2 – Julianna Strand, 2-3 – Miles Wettstein, and 4-5 – Declan Flaherty. Honorable mention: K-1 – Autumn Flood, 2-3 – William McCarty, and – 4-5 Nolan McCarty.

Glossophobia, the fear of public speaking, affects about 73% of the population, according to The National Institute of Mental Health. Therefore, to prevent that fear from establishing itself, it is important to have students experience positive and fun opportunities to share with an audience. Thanks to the Wax Museum presentations developed in Mrs. Feucht's fifth grade writing class, students researched biographical information of people whom they admired, developed tri-fold displays, dressed as the famous individuals, and presented the first person biographies to an audience of family members and Eden students/staff. Some of the featured notables, from past to present, included stars in sports, music, the literary world, and independence fighters – Shaquille O’Neal, Kristi Yamaguchi, Carrie Underwood, Laura Ingalls Wilder, and Molly Pitcher. Through their recounting of famous lives, fifth graders learned how to present proper formal presentations that were informative and entertaining. And, hopefully, quell speaking anxiety.

Fourth grade students had opportunities to develop public speaking skills in simpler formats. Mrs. Reilly’s reading class developed book bags on their interactive read-aloud, How to Steal a Dog. Students needed to make connections to the main ideas of the plot and characters, bring in items representing those concepts, and explain their interpretations with classmates. Consistent experience of standing in front of an audience allows children to become more comfortable in front of others and more responsible in organizing content. Another event for fourth graders was participating in Readers’ Theatre groups for the lower elementary. The True Story of Little Red Riding Hood was shared with second grade classes, thus providing a real-life audience to develop how to work as a team, plus the skills of proper stance, body control, voice control, cueing, gestures, rate, and enunciation. Being able to present a story that the audience enjoyed allowed performers to relax and minimize nervousness when in front of others.

And, where else was literacy permeating learning? How about physical education. Under the direction of Mr. Leuhring, Eden students were able to participate in the Kids Heart Challenge, sponsored by the American Heart Association. Students and interested families raised, $4,021 for the worthy cause. In addition to learning how to properly do fundraising, many of the students also completed the online sessions for hands-on CPR and how to recognize the signs of a stroke. Additional reading material provided information on developing good eating habits, exercising, and learning about children who suffer from major heart issues. To the families and children immersed in these health conditions, the fundraisers are “heroes” who make it possible for medical care to progress. So, congratulations and thank you to our Eden heroes who, once again, looked beyond the smaller community and met a bigger challenge with resounding success. We are proud of you!

AN Outdoorsman's JOURNAL

A Cold Spring on the Mississippi

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

If you are a farmer, work outside construction or an outdoor writer, this spring has been a tough one. Rain, snow, always a solid wind and an air temp. consistently 10-25 degrees below normal has been making it very difficult, if not impossible, to get the job done.

This week my plan was to paddle-troll with my canoe on Lake Michigan near Milwaukee for salmon and brown trout.

A never-ending wind killed that plan three times.

With three days left before my deadline, I had a brainstorm.

How about I explore the backwaters of the Mississippi River near Trempealeau. I have hunted duck and winter-camped this area, but have not open-water fished it – that is – until last week.

TUESDAY, APRIL 26

HIGH: 36, LOW: 25

As I drove into Trempealeau today, it was snowing.

I launched my canoe and began paddling downstream in a 100% uninhabited area, at least as far as humans are concerned, then a northwest wind and current pushed my 17-foot canoe so that all I had to do was control it.

My plan was to put out a left and a right fishing pole with a planer board on each and a crankbait five to 20 feet behind each one.

Due to the winter-type conditions, I figured the fish bite would not exist.

I had traveled maybe a mile when the board with a blaze orange/yellow husky jerk behind it vanished,

Fish number-one was never seen but fought well and got away.

Fish number-two came soon after, and hit the same rig. Shortly into the fight, I was flying from a hard current and tail wind, and I did a soft crash in a bed of last year's wild rice. I, then, hand-landed a 27-inch northern pike.

Nothing mattered anymore, I had caught a fish!

For the next three hours, I explored in an area where I have spent at least 60 nights of my life winter-camping and had a nonstop show of water fowl, hard wind and raw natural beauty.

My second and last fish of the day hit the always-reliable blue/chrome HJ12 and it was a 19-inch smallmouth bass.

I built camp on a narrow island with the main channel 10-feet from my bedroll, and a waterfowl-loaded backwaters 15-feet on the other side. I put out two poles with minnows on each night and the following morning, but neither was hit by a fish.

I had caught a chill, so, naturally, I opened a can of Pabst Blue Ribbon, lit a fire and watched the world around me.

Toward dark, I decided I needed to man-up, so I skipped the tent and slept in the open on the ground; that was a wise decision.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27

HIGH: 44, LOW: 24

Here is a reality check as to how much worse things could be:

The island I slept on was eroding; ever since beaver trapping as a sport has become less popular, the beaver populations have exploded, and in this example, the beavers were eating at every tree that holds this island together. Now, in part because of the loss of root base, this island is eroding away.

Another example:

I am a swallow that flew up from Texas to live here for the summer, raise a family and then head back to Texas. I eat flying insects, and the only thing flying in the air is snow. I am extremely hungry. It is the only time of the year I get any action from Mrs. Swallow, and I have zero energy!

Today, I watched a muskrat hanging out in this patch of rotting wild rice stalks – he was above water. About five-feet above the water was a bald eagle, and it was using a solid east wind to perfectly hover above Mr. Muskrat.

I am totally amazed at how long the eagle could stay in one place.

With perfect precision, the raptor flawlessly dropped onto its prey, was up in the air and flew to its nest without missing a beat.

This adventure was inexpensive, and I honestly think it was meant to be.

If you can't make up your mind, and/or if your best friend is the fridge, your recliner or a screen: Throw them all away, and you will be better off than the island, the swallow or the muskrat!

-Sunset-

P.S. A friend that was going to get one of Ruby's pups (that is now five-weeks-old) had to back out.

This male is a dandy! Get a hold of me at sunsetoutdoors@tds.net if you are interested!

ROUNDUP: Cougars Baseball

The Campbellsport Cougars received their first season loss after a game against their non-conference rival the Kewaskum Indians

CHS BASEBALL

Campbellsport, 14 at Howards Grove, 1

Campbellsport traveled to Howards Grove on Monday, April 25, and brought home a 14-1 victory.

Cole Kaehne got the start for the Cougars on the mound on a cold, windy evening and held the Tigers to one run and no hits in three innings of work.

The Cougars got on the board in a big way in the second inning, scoring four runs, which was highlighted by a two-out single by Jalen Gellings.

The Cougars put it out of reach in the third behind a double by Noah Fleischman and a single by Joey Nerat.

Zach Mrochinski pitched three scoreless innings to finish the game off.

The Cougars played well in the field, again, turning two double plays for the third game in a row. Also in the field, Cole Karweick made a diving catch in the outfield to make an impressive out.

Offensively, Gellings, Fleischman, Nerat and Karweick all had multiple-hit games.

Campbellsport, 13 vs St. Mary's Springs, 1

On Tuesday, April 26, Campbellsport hosted St. Mary's

Springs on a very cold evening with the wind blowing straight in from center field.

Springs threatened in the first with a lead-off hit by Sam Baker, but Jalen Gellings held them scoreless with two strikeouts to end the inning.

Garrett Roehl got the home half of the first started with a base hit and made his way around to score after hits by Gellings and Mitch McCarty.

The Cougars added four in the second when Cullen Beisbier led off with a hit, and Braden Heltemes executed a sacrifice bunt and reached on a Springs throwing error. Roehl knocked in two with another single, and Gellings delivered the big blow with a laser beam over the left field fence.

Cole Kaehne led the Cougars third off with a hit, and Beisbier doubled off the fence, then Gellings doubled and McCarty added a single.

The Cougars added two more in the fourth and finished it in five.

Gellings threw a complete game and finished with three hits along with Beisbier and Roehl.

The Cougars reached the half-way mark of the Flyway Conference season undefeated with this victory.

Campbellsport, 11 at North Fond du Lac, 8

The Cougars traveled to North Fond du Lac on Thursday, April 28.

Mitch McCarty got the Cougars on the board in the first with an RBI-single, and Noah Fleischman had an RBI-double in the second.

Campbellsport had little answer for North Fondy's offense for the next few innings and found themselves behind 8-2. Campbellsport broke out in a big way in the sixth, sending 13 batters to the plate and scoring nine runs. Cullen Beisbier singled twice in the inning, and Jalen Gellings and Fleischman both added doubles.

Joey Nerat took over on the mound in North Fondy's half of the sixth and recorded six strikeouts over the last two innings to seal the victory.

The win improved Campbellsport's conference record to 8-0 and their overall re-

DAN HEISDORF

CAMPBELLSPORT HIGH SCHOOL, VARSITY SOFTBALL COACH

Winneconne, 3 at Campbellsport, 0

The Cougars traveled to Winneconne last Monday, April 25, to take on the eighth-ranked Wolves (Division 2) and came away with a 3-0 loss.

Senior Macey Clark, from Winneconne, shut out the Cougars for the second year in a row. Clark allowed six hits, four walks and struck out 14.

The Cougars had opportunities to score, leaving 10 runners on base, however, they could not get a clutch hit.

Carissa Heisdorf (two walks), Kylie Krueger, Kylie Zehren, Kaitlyn Goebel, Kinsley Homuth and Maia Morgan each had hits.

Brooke Flitter (2ip, 2h, 0er, 3k), Brianna Thompson (2ip, 2h, 2er, 3k) and Zehren (2ip, 1h, 1r, 1k) each pitched for the Cougars.

Coach's note: Winneconne's Clark will join Cougars Heisdorf and Zehren at Bryant & Stratton College to play softball next year. Campbellsport, 8 vs St. Mary's Springs, 0

On Tuesday, April 26, Campbellsport and

Springs entered the game tied for first place in the conference at 4-1, and the Cougars came away with a dominating 8-0 win.

With a strong wind and the temperature hovering around 29 degrees, the Cougars got their bats warmed up in the second inning. Kinsley Homuth, Maia Morgan and Brooke Flitter all got singles to load the bases. Homuth would score on a wild pitch and then Morgan Yahr hit an infield single to drive in the second run of the inning. After another wild pitch scored a run, Carissa Heisdorf came up and crushed a RBI-double to left field and would later score on a RBI-ground-out by Kylie Krueger to make the score 5-0.

In the third inning, Morgan and Flitter would single to start the inning and then Yahr would follow them up with a RBI-single to make it 6-0. Ava Sippel then stepped up to the plate and blasted a two-RBI-double over the left fielder's head to make it 8-0.

Sippel said on the chilly weather:

"Playing in the cold has been tough mentally and physically on me and my teammates, although when a big play is made, the energy and adrenaline make the weather feel a bit warmer."

Heisdorf, Morgan, Flitter and Yahr would each have two hits in the game. Flitter got the start on the mound and was amazing despite the cold temperatures, allowing only five hits while striking out 13.

Campbellsport, 12 at North Fond du Lac (NFDL), 4

In game one of a doubleheader against North Fondy, the Cougars won 12-4 while pounding out 18 hits. After scoring three runs in the first inning, they came back with four more in the second. Carissa Heisdorf hit her first home run of the season, then Kylie Krueger, Kylie Zehren, Kaitlyn Goebel and Kinsley Homuth all singled, as well. The Cougars scored four more runs in the seventh as Heisdorf drew a bases loaded walk, Krueger had a RBI-single and Zehren added a two-RBI-single.

Zehren finished with four hits (two RBI) and Krueger with three hits. Heisdorf (two RBI), Goebel and Morgan Yahr each had two hit, while Homuth, Maia Morgan, Kovi Hermann, Brianna Thompson and Brooke Flitter added one hit.

Zehren started in the circle and got the win. She finished with seven strikeouts.

Campbellsport, 12 at NFDL, 13

In game two, the Cougar defense failed to show up and committed seven errors which allowed eight unearned runs.

Going into the bottom of the fourth, they faced a 10-1 deficit. After a team meeting, the girls started their huge comeback. With two outs and one run in, Brianna Thompson doubled bringing in two more runs. Ava Sippel singled-in Thompson, and Carissa Heisdorf hit an RBI-triple to make the score 10-6.

In the sixth, NFDL added two more runs to make it 12-6, but the Cougars bounced right back.

Thompson singled, Sippel doubled and Heisdorf got hit by a pitch to load the bases. All runners would advance on a wild pitch, then Kylie Zehren hit a two-RBI-single to make it 12-9.

After NFDL turned a double play, the Cougars kept the bats going. Kinsley Homuth singled-in a run, and, following a Maia Morgan single, Brooke Flitter hit an RBI-single to make the score 12-11.

In the bottom of the seventh, Heisdorf hit a one-out single and advanced to second on a ground-out. Morgan Yahr then hit a clutch game-tying RBI-single to make the score 12-12.

"I was frustrated all game, because the second baseman was playing up the middle," said Yahr. "When they walked Zehren to face me, I was nervous, so I tried to stay confident. I hit the ball to where someone wasn't and when I saw Riss cross home plate, jumping up and down screaming, that made me really happy."

The Cougars would load the bases in the bottom of the eighth but could not push the winning run across and would, eventually, lose in the ninth.

Campbellsport had 15 hits in this contest, as Heisdorf had three and scored three runs. Zehren, Yahr, Morgan, Thompson and Sippel each had two hits. Homuth and Flitter each had one.

Flitter started in the circle and allowed only three earned runs in four innings of work. Zehren pitched five innings and struck out 10. She allowed one earned run.

cord to 9-0.

Campbellsport, 6 vs Kewaskum, 9

Kewaskum arrived in Campbellsport on Friday, April 29, and handed the Cougars their first loss of the season.

Hunter Loser got it started for Kewaskum in the first with a two-RBI single and was part of a third-inning rally with a double. Jacob Brzozowski also doubled in the third, and the Indians led 4-0 after three.

Kewaskum scored another in the top of the fourth, and Campbellsport answered with two-spot in the bottom of the inning, which was highlighted by hits from Jalen Gellings and Cole Kaehne.

The Cougars added two more in the fifth and two in the seventh on a Joey Nerat home run, but the Cougars could not catch the Indians before the final out was recorded.

Nerat finished 3-4 on the night, and Cullen Beisbier doubled for the Cougars.

Brzozowski earned the win for Kewaskum, and Loser and Matt Blank each collected three hits.

Campbellsport was scheduled play in Omro after print time on Tuesday, May 3. Due up, the Cougars will head to Mayville on Thursday, May 5, to play the Mayville Cardinals. First pitch at Fireman's Field is scheduled for 5 p.m. On Friday, May 6, the Cougars will head to Kettle Moraine Lutheran (KML) High School to play the Chargers.
