Kewaskum School District Responds to Gun-related Language Used on Campus

Just one week after the Robb Elementary School shooting in Uvalde, Tex., the Kewaskum School District sent out e-mails to parents regarding talk of guns by students, on campus, on Tuesday, May 31

"I don't think students... realize how serious it is and that there are significant consequences attached to these actions," said Kewaskum School District Administrator Dr. Mark Bazata via e-mail to this journalist on June 3, just days following two separate incidents in which Kewaskum elementary students were overheard making statements about firearm-possession – once before school hours at a club activity and once during the school session – on Tuesday, May 31.

Shelley Hyde, Kewaskum Elementary School principal, sent an e-mail to students' parents on the 31st stating that the two incidents had occurred and that neither statement was credible, nor was anyone at the school nor in the community ever believed to be in danger, throughout the process.

Bazata sent a follow-up e-mail encouraging parents to have frank and honest discussions with their children about the appropriate place to discuss gun ownership.

"I think the key is: The importance of parents talking with their children about how seriously we take any threat of violence, even if students think they are just joking," said Bazata. "It only takes a few minutes, but parents talking to their children about these issues, especially when they are hearing so much of it in the media, is of critical importance so we don't run into these issues at school in the future."

Neither Bazata nor Hyde provided detail as to how old the students were discussing guns on school property, however, the incidents were reported at the elementary school, which encompasses students in fifth grade and younger.

Looking Back 125 Years

BY ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

The Village of Kewaskum will step back in time this weekend as historical reenactors set up camp along the Milwaukee River in River Hill Park.

The encampment is part of the 125th Founder's Day Anniversary celebration, hosted by the Kewaskum Historical Society this weekend, June 10-12. The weekend is packed full of activities, featuring live music and entertainment, a parade, 5K walk/run, and food, beverage and craft vendors.

The historical reenactors will hold demonstrations from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 11. Visitors will be able to catch a glimpse of what life was like in 1895 when the village was incorporated.

"We are portraying as much life and history at the time of the founding of the town as we possibly can," said Wayne Rettig, a reenactor who is organizing the encampment. "We are going to have a Woodland Village, so there will be wigwams there and fur traders, so that is kind of a nod to the early history. Then we will have a section we are devoting to horsepower, so we will have draft horses and standard horses for riding."

Various things that horses pulled will be displayed, from plows to a horse-drawn hearse.

"We will have a working chuckwagon there and we will be doing open-fire cooking demonstrations. We are also representing a little flavor of the industries at the founding of the town, so in addition to farming, we also will have a blacksmith and a cordage maker, who will have a contraption that spins together twine to make a rope," Rettig said. "In addition, we will have just regular family camps there with the people who would have been coming to the area and living out of tents while they got settled into building cabins and carving out a life out of the Kewaskum countryside."

On Friday, students in the Kewaskum School District's summer school program will visit River Hill Park. Rettig and

On Sponsorship

Dear Reader,

Most area residents understand the importance of being in touch with day-to-day happenings. They appreciate getting trusted local news online as it happens, with additional in depth reporting via the weekly printed newspaper.

The editors and reporters of our subscriber publications and websites go to great lengths to cover school board meetings, city council meetings, high school sports, and just about everything else we can think of regarding the goings-on in our region. We do this to strengthen everyone's awareness of what is happening, good or bad, and to make sure we do not become a "news desert".

To continue this stewardship, we need your support. We need your sponsorship as you re-subscribe or give a gift subscription to a friend. We need the retailers you support to sponsor advertising programs in our paper and on our website. We can't do this on our own; we need your help to "sponsor" local news coverage in order to keep our community strong and vibrant.

After the rash of shootings, the question on everybody's mind has to be – could it happen here? Due to a threat posted on social media that warned Fond du Lac High School could get shot up and recommended students stay away if they could, classes were cancelled for the day after Memorial Day.

While the police investigated, life was put on hold for students and teachers. Though the threat is now concluded to be non-credible, they just couldn't take the chance. School resumed on Wednesday with an increased police presence.

The massacre at Robb Elementary in Uvalde, Texas has brought home, if nothing else did before, how no place is safe from active shooter incidents. Least of all our schools. According to a newsfeed on Google just over the holiday weekend, there have been 14 shootings. Which has to have us all wondering, is the whole world going nuts?

In my workplace, we have a process in place for dealing with exactly this kind of a situation. Yet can we ever be totally prepared for such random acts of violence? We need a solution now. But a certain powerful lobbying group will oppose any attempt to ban assault rifles such as the one used in Texas – stating guns don't kill people, other people do. Conveniently overlooking the fact certain types of weapons just make killing both easier and increasingly efficient. Ridiculously, they assert these are only hunting guns. What or rather, who is hunted with them is never clearly announced.

While there are many factors involved besides the too easy availability of firearms, when does our society say enough?

Until the overdue influence of such vested interests can be overcome, the slaughter of innocents will continue. And as each tragedy proves, there is no place to run or hide. Nowhere is safe. Not even in the smallest towns.

'Boring' Weight-loss Tips

ROY SMALLEY
CONTRIBUTOR

"Success is the sum of small efforts, repeated day-in and day-out." – Robert Collier

This article will probably bore you.

Seriously, the process of losing weight is not very interesting.

Many have an inspiring story about their decision to make a life change. But, ask the people who've made and sustained dramatic physical transformations, and you'll likely find their "how" far less compelling than their "why."

"He who has a why to live for can bear almost any how." – Friedrich Nietzsche

If your only reason for losing weight is a doctor's advice, you'll find staying committed harder.

Finding not just a reason you should do it, but a reason you want to, can be the fire you need under your feet.

In my 30s, I was sedentary and obese. I wanted to be healthier by the time we finished our first adoption, but I just didn't have the gumption beyond some occasional half-hearted "dieting."

Then someone dared me: A 12-week weight loss challenge with cash on the table. Being naturally competitive, this was fuel for my fire.

With reading and research, I started structuring things to help meet my goal.

"A goal without a plan is just a wish."

– Antoine de Saint-Exupéry

Preparing ahead of time means good choices become easier to make in the moment.

Dinner was one of our problem areas. We'd usually get home from work not knowing what to make, too frazzled to figure it out, and too hungry to make good choices.

Studies show cooking for yourself makes meals healthier: lower sugar, salt, and fat, and better portion control.

So, we developed the habit of planning two-week meal calendars – easy, healthy meals that could be made quickly, or sit in the slow cooker, or go prepped from fridge/freezer to oven.

Planning enough to have leftovers made lunch easier the next day.

Advance preparation also helped my daily exercise. I'd schedule a week of workouts on a wall calendar, making it easier to maintain my movement mindset.

"Know thyself." – Socrates

Knowing your own patterns can help you set up systems that encourage success-minded behaviors – like driving a route home past the gym instead of the donut shop, or scheduling workouts with a buddy who won't let you off the hook.

Maybe it's packing those treats from Aunt

Martha into individual baggies in the back of the cabinet, so they're out of sight and harder to binge.

It could be taking the batteries out of the remote and storing them in a drawer, making it harder to skip that run because: "TV."

"Knowing thyself" also means being aware of what you're eating, drinking and doing during the day.

Under-hydration increases fatigue, and makes it harder for your body to use blood sugar – each of which can magnify food cravings. Start every day with a glass of water, drink a glass before and after every meal, and sip it throughout the day.

Poor sleep can lower your body's levels of leptin – the hormone that signals "I'm full" – making you more likely to overeat. But, if your job or your new baby keeps you from getting a solid six to eight hours, there are other natural ways of boosting leptin.

Regular exercise increases leptin sensitivity. Develop a regular weekly routine that includes strength training and cardiovascular conditioning.

Eating mindfully helps boost leptin sensitivity. Slow down during meals, and get away from phones, TV, paperwork and other distractions.

Stress is a leptin killer. Finding ways to relax and de-stress improves leptin response, while decreasing your risk of heart disease, diabetes and cancer.

"Everyone has a plan until they get punched in the mouth." – Mike Tyson Occasionally, stuff goes sideways and we miss a workout.

Don't sweat it – overall consistency is more important than any one workout.

If work gets too crazy to get to the lunch you packed, go with "plan B": Keep some healthy backup snacks (like protein bars or bagged nuts) on hand, and save that lunch for tomorrow.

If you must grab lunch on-the-go, items with lean protein and lots of veggies are good choices. Grilled chicken sandwiches are also good in a pinch!

Every once in a while, take time to think about what's working or not working for you, and what you might need to change up or improve on.

At age 51, I'm fitter and stronger than I ever was in my 20s or 30s. I chalk that up to developing healthy, consistent habits.

Keep in mind that we don't decide our future: We decide our habits, and our habits determine our future.

Artcentral Owners to Retire after 20-plus Years on Main Street

Store will hold 60%-off closing sale until final day on remaining product

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
ACTING EDITOR

“We opened in ‘01,” said Dan Schmidt, proprietor of Artcentral on Kewaskum’s Main Street while looking back at 21 years of framing village residents’ cherished art, mementos and family photographs. “But I did framing for years before that, and I did it as a stress reliever.”

Some Kewaskum residents likely best remember Schmidt as the long time village administrator, so the stresses of the day were often entangled with the interests of the village. At his home hobby shop, Schmidt learned to put his troubles into perspective (a framing pun wholly intended). Schmidt and his wife Phyllis bought the property at 129 Main Street in 1999, but it wasn’t until 2001 that the store opened. First, it was Phyllis managing the space regularly before Dan joined her for good in 2006 following his retirement.

“I wasn’t used to sitting and doing this stuff,” said Phyllis, noting that she left a career in the medical industry to become a framing shop owner with her husband.

Dan Schmidt’s resume, in addition to his work as the Kewaskum administrator in the, included being an enlisted member of the U.S. Armed Forces, working for a local energy company and working for Chrysler.

For Schmidt, after serving the village for so many years, framing became a healthy hobby, but it brought about one superfluous detail: People.

“You bought one piece of equipment and just started doing it,” said Schmidt’s daughter Jessica Trapp about the years before Dan and Phyllis purchased the Main Street shop. “Stuff just started growing and word of mouth got around, and mom wasn’t crazy about all these people coming through the house to get to his [workshop].”

Locals were eager to have their memorabilia framed by a pro, and that Schmidt was. He took a series of classes and passed several credential programs to acquire the skill.

“I went to school for it down in Chicago,” he said. “We made vacations out of it.”

Dan and Phyllis would lump fun activities into the often day or weekend long classes. The pair would also purchase art for resale in the galley portion of Artcentral throughout the years.

But the appeal was always the process for Dan, and there was something about the shared experience of finding art or antiques that triggered positive memories of his father.

“Back when I was like 10 or so, we would go to auctions together, and I would collect antiques,” he said. “With those pieces, you can’t just go to a [big box retailer] and buy a frame for it.”

Purpose-fitting the right materials for a specific piece of treasured memorabilia became a regular reward.

“It’s making something look better than when it’s just on its own,” said Schmidt, noting that he’s framed thousands of items of varying intrigue, size and quality. “You’d be really surprised to see what people want framed.”

Mirrors, clothing, shadow boxes, alligator heads and much more were all framed at Artcentral over the years.

“We even framed a window together,” said Schmidt’s granddaughter, Ashley Trapp, who has taken an interest in the family hobby. “An old barn window. It was like a half circle. We had to take the old actual window frame off the window and put a new frame around it. That was one of the more interesting ones.”

Looking forward, Schmidt will continue framing for fun, especially with his granddaughter, as the pair have bonded over the practice in recent years.

The store will remain open until the end of this June, and the 60%-off sale will run until the final day. The Schmidts are no longer accepting new framing projects, but they have walls covered in signed and numerical prints from popular regional artists and other art pieces collected over the decades.

Looking ahead, while Schmidt will certainly continue framing on his own accord at home, he and Phyllis responded in tandem when asked what they will miss most about operating the Main Street Kewaskum shop.

“People,” they said.

“I was always waiting for people to come in. I had a pot of coffee going all the time,” said Phyllis, who viewed her time there as several consecutive social hours with whomever decided to pop in that particular afternoon. “We will miss seeing people.”

And, as such, the Schmidts hope that everyone will stop by one more time to say “hello” and “goodbye.”

Their going-out-of-business sale will include all items inside the store, including display cases, office materials, desks and some of the frame and mat cutter.

The sale will begin Monday, June 13, and run through Monday through Saturday until June 25. Hours from Monday to Wednesday will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., on Thursdays and Fridays the shop will close at 6 p.m. and on Saturdays the store will welcome visitors from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

“Then we will close the doors!” said Phyllis.

There is no word, yet, on new ownership for the building, nor what is likely to replace the art and framing store.

Congrats to the Schmidts and their extended family, and good luck on your next chapter!

At this weekend's event, Rettig will portray Buffalo Bill. During a four-decade run, Buffalo Bill toured across the entire country and performed the show "Buffalo Bill's Best of the Wild West." The tour included over 65 different performances at more than 30 towns throughout Wisconsin.

While in Kewaskum this weekend, Buffalo Bill will be promoting his show, just as he would have done over a century ago.

"We are going to have kind of an advance party for the show that would have been touring through the area," Rettig said.

Rettig's performance this weekend will be a flavor of the full 90-minute "Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show" that he will present at Pinecrest Historical Village in Manitowoc on Aug. 13 and 14. He has been doing the show for the past 10 years.

Parents with children in the Kewaskum School District had a mixed reaction to the news, with varying opinions weighing in on the proverbial "Main Street" and on social media about the incidents and the school district's response; some argued the district should have done more in response to the claims while others lamented the pair of e-mails (from Hyde and Bazata) as intrusive.

Bazata, though, made no concessions for the school district's response and further-encouraged parents to have honest conversations about the consequences of discussing firearms on school property.

He acknowledged that Kewaskum, in no stretch of the imagination, was alone in needing to face this problem head on.

"I know many other districts are running into the same issue and are asking parents to do the same thing," he explained, adding that he received positive notes from Kewaskum Police Department Chief of Police Tom Bishop following the incidents, and the district will use his feedback to make updates to their overall security plan. "I've talked with Chief Bishop quite a bit lately, and he felt we did a good job. We will review our safety plan and make some changes to contact law enforcement earlier in the process."

Kewaskum was far from alone in the state in experiencing such incidents. Slinger Middle School went into lockdown on May 27 after a student made claims of possessing a weapon. Superior Middle School in northwestern Wisconsin experienced an eerily similar threat, which also took place on Tuesday, May 31. In Fond du Lac, classes were cancelled until June 1 due to a May 26 report (which reached local authorities by May 30) that a high school student spoke of possessing a gun. On May 25, the Lomira Police Department school resources officer also reported responding to gun-related language by students used on school property.

The senseless murders in Uvalde took place on May 24.

While Kewaskum school officials were cognoscente of parents' concerns, the overall messaging was reiterated that the school and community were never in danger, and that now, not later, is the best time to discuss with children the severity of consequences if they chose to talk about, joke about or discuss deadly weapons in a school setting.

"At this age, we know children hear a lot of information on the [television], [on the] internet and [on] social media and do not understand the seriousness or consequences associated with making statements like these," said Hyde in her e-mail to parents on May 31. "Please discuss with your children the seriousness of making comments or jokes verbally and/or in writing about weapons/violence at school, as there are severe consequences for this type of behavior."

KEWASKUM LIBRARIAN

Summer break is almost here, and I am sure your family has many fun activities planned. Please don't forget to include reading in your summer plans. This year we will have programming Monday through Thursday throughout the summer with family events, special teen programs, some adult activities, and a new Summer Learning Program with incentives for readers of all ages. Next week I will bring you information about our upcoming program and all we have planned, but this week I want to focus on why participating in your library's summer learning program is essential.

Are you familiar with the term summer slide? During the summer months, students are at risk of losing two-three months of reading and math skills if they are not engaged in learning activities. This decline in reading ability and other academic skills is called summer slide which happens when school is not in session. Although it can occur more with children from lower socioeconomic households, children from all levels will suffer a loss of skills if they are not engaged in learning throughout the summer.

This can be cumulative, and studies show that by the time a student reaches middle school, they've lost the equivalent of two years of learning to summer slide. Furthermore, the loss is greater at higher grade levels. Two-thirds of teachers have reported that they typically spend the first month of school reteaching skills lost over the summer. Findings from a report over 40 years ago shows that the public library contributed to the intellectual growth of children during the summer, more than any other public institution, including the schools. This is still true today.

Libraries are pivotal in preventing summer slide during the months without school. Summer reading or learning programs are offered at libraries and provide motivation to keep your students' educational skills sharpened.

Here are some other ways parents can help their children develop good literacy skills. Reading is reading. If your child is interested in a magazine or graphic novel more than a chapter book, that is perfectly acceptable. They are more likely to read something they chose over what their parent decided they should read. Don't worry if you think the material is not challenging enough. Summer is the perfect time to foster a lifelong love of reading and learning which is an integral part of our mission statement. Additionally, going back and re-reading an old favorite picture book can be the background for a wonderful memory. Set aside a reading time. This can be before your planned library visit or any other time. Setting a regular reading routine is a benchmark for success. Talk to your child about what they are reading. Better yet, discuss with them what you have read. Help them develop critical thinking skills. Finally, join the library's summer learning program, attend our quality programs and visit us frequently all year, but especially during summer. Help prevent summer slide.

Hope to see you soon.

A local group has been working hard for a few months to try and save their signs that are located along Highway 45 between Waucousta and Eden. Earlier this year, both Armstrong Apples and Tabor United Methodist Church received letters from the Wisconsin Department of Transportation about their signs on Highway 45. The DOT stated that this is in accordance with the Beautification Act of 1965. That regulates outdoor advertising signs on private land, located adjacent to the interstate, federal-aid primary highways, National Highway System, and MAP-21 routes receiving federal funds. The Armstrong Apples sign has been at that location for about 20 years, but is coming down next week as the state gave an extension of June 12 for that to occur. Tabor United Church put up its sign seven years ago and got township and county approval as well as a signed agreement with the land owner. The church appeal hearing is scheduled in July.

Blue Door Coffee Co. will open next week in the new Drexel Downtown building, but a First Sip event was held May 31. Many area business owners, government officials, law enforcement, and other area dignitaries attended. Special guest was Wisconsin Senator Ron Johnson, who spoke for about 15 minutes at the invitation-only event.

The Campbellsport Police Department may see some small changes as new staff is hired. If a part-time police chief is found, then the village will hire two full-time officers. Village President David Krebs explained that the village really only needs a part-time chief as the former chief spent only about half of his time with duties of the chief. At this time, a part-time clerical person will be hired. Five candidates for police chief have been interviewed and been narrowed down to two, who will ride along with the interim chief. If a part-time chief cannot be found, the village will re-think the restructuring.

During the last week of school, Campbellsport Middle School sixth graders culminated their health and fitness unit by participating in a Fun Run. The top four boy runners were Ostin Blanchard, Max Engle, Wyatt Blevins, and Owen Blevins. The top four girl runners were Ava Sippel, Mandy Gonzalez, Kylie Krueger, and Breanna Koput.

May Students Of The Month at Campbellsport High School were Takoda Elliot, Lily Lindgren, Jonathan Rajek, and Trent Carey.

A fundraiser is being held this weekend for Ella VanderGrinten called Paws For Ella. The intention is to raise enough money to help provide Ella with an autism assistance dog, which will help Ella with everyday living. Ella was adopted at 15 months from an orphanage in China in 2009. In 2010, Ella was diagnosed with autism.

Party On The Pavement in Kewaskum is scheduled for June 27.

Graduation ceremonies for the Campbellsport High School Class of 2017 took place June 4. Several pictures from the special event appeared in this issue.

Campbellsport High School Softball Team finished the season as Regional Champs. The Lady Cougars beat Poynette for that title. In the Sectional Semi-Final, Campbellsport played number-one seeded Laconia, which won the Division 3 State Championship in 2015 and 2016. The Lady Cougars lost to the Lady Spartans 6-2. Members of the Campbellsport team included Kaitlyn Schill, Taylor Schmidt, Alyssa Muench, Makaily Dittloff, Mandy Goeman, Maddie Mitsis, Kenna Sippel, Emily Guell, Morgan Fryman, Taylor Engel, Zoe Albert, Elly Emmer, and Larissa Lindsley.

The Campbellsport girls soccer team made history on June 3, beating Columbus 4-0 for the Regional title. It was the school's third Regional crown in girls soccer, but the first time the team won the title on its home turf. First round of Sectional play is June 8, with Campbellsport playing Mayville.

According to the report from Virchow, Krause & Company, the Village of Campbellsport runs about a two-and-one-half million dollar organization and its financial situation is about the same as last time the audit was done. One area that was brought to the board's attention was the water and sewer utility as the water and sewer rates are a little low. The sewer utility lost about $29,000 since last year's audit.

Kindergarten students at Campbellsport Elementary School had a graduation ceremony on June 7.

Eden Elementary School students walked around the Village of Eden on June 5 during the School Walk for Diabetes fundraiser. The students raised $2,681, the most of any school in the State of Wisconsin.

A throw of 135 feet, 10 inches at the State Track and Field Championships earned Henry Guell of Eden seventh place. His teammate at St. Mary's Springs, Nate Morris, won the championship in the event.

The 2007 EWC All-Conference Softball Team has been announced. Campbellsport had several players earning spots. Earning not only first team honors but also chosen unanimously were Haley Serwe (pitcher) and Alyssa McGray (infield). Other first team honorees included Kate Salter (catcher), Brittany Narges (infield), and Alli Zurn (outfield). Kallie Benike earned second team honors. Campbellsport Coach Rick Simpson was chosen as one of the two coaches of the year.

The Wisconsin Agricultural and Life Sciences Alumni Association recently recognized University of Wisconsin - Madison College of Agricultural and Life Sciences (CAL) seniors who received Activity and Leadership Awards at the spring commencement breakfast recently. Ryan Scannell of Eden, CALS student council, was one of the students honored.

A son, Camden Mark, was born June 4 to John and Brooke Kraus of Malone. A son, Caleb James, was born June 2 to Stephanie and Chad Beekman of Campbellsport.

The CHS Track Teams will send an impressive contingent of athletes to this weekend's WIAA State Track Meet - Dave Pentek in the 100 meter dash; Dave Doyle in the shot put; and the 3200 meter relay team of Kelly Kleine, Chrissy Berner, Kim Walloch, and Karen Feucht (alternates are Molly Tibbetts and Tabby Swaim).

Campbellsport's school board continued to struggle with procedure as veteran members and newcomers attempt to blend into a working board. Verlyn Grahl, board veteran and treasurer, continues to stress that board business should be conducted only at the board table. He does not like the board meeting in the library and he did not like that an interview was moved off the agenda to a different date. According to the article, it is the prerogative of the president to do so.

Also at that school board meeting, it was decided that the request for approval to construct a new weight room, girls locker room, etc. will not be on the annual meeting agenda. Instead, it will be sent to a study committee of district residents. The board agrees with the merits of the addition.

Timbers LLP, owned by Tim Perron/Al Fleischman, have indicated a desire to purchase the Schlaefer/Wright property west of the Village of Campbellsport. The village has expended $42,193.40 to extend water and sewer lines around the retention pond to that area. Police Chief Randy Karoses indicated in his report to the village board a need for better radio communication. This may result in securing a site for a tower.

As the school year ends so does the time two foreign exchange students spent at Campbellsport High School. Yvonne Born is from Berlin, Germany. She enjoyed her time in Campbellsport and will miss her new friends, big shopping malls, and macaroni and cheese. Amelia Correa is from Curitiba, Brazil. She will miss Campbellsport's friendly people and her host family when she returns home.

Jay Miller of Eden has been promoted to the newly-created position of director of warehouse operations for Dean Foods Vegetable Company of Green Bay. He's been employed by DFVC-Fond du Lac for the past 22 years and was midwest distribution manager before his promotion.

Campbellsport seventh grade math students were Regional winners in the Wisconsin Mathematics League of 203 schools with 159 points. The team's point total placed it seventh in the state. Team members include Kevin Miller, Carissa Serwe, Ed Uebelher, David Cook, and Nate McCarty.

The CHS Girls Varsity Softball Team's season ended abruptly on Saturday in a shocking 4-1 loss to Valders. The Lady Cougars had high expectations in tournament play, but fate wasn't with them.

Solid pitching performances have helped the baseball team earn two victories, 9-1 over Oostburg and 10-1 over Slinger.

A son, Casey Edward, was born May 23 to Mary and Ed Ruplinger of Mt. Calvary. A daughter, Tiffani Lyn, was born May 24 to Cheri and Russ Anderson of Mt. Calvary.

The Washington County Sheriff's Office is heading up security for the U.S. Open Championship, which is being held at Erin Hills. The staff began planning for the event two years ago. It was determined that Wisconsin State Patrol will take the lead on traffic issues and the Hartford Fire and Rescue would head up fire and EMS services for the event. To make sure there is enough coverage, deputies from the Waukesha County Sheriff's Office and the Dodge County Sheriff's Office are supplementing Washington County's forces at Erin Hills. A total of 156 professionals and amateurs are in the field, vying for the $2.16 million winning prize. The championship is expected to bring more than $130 million to the community.

Ann Enright of Boltonville and Karen Wollner of Farmington are among the 27 people injured in Monday's bus accident in Bosnia. A group left Chicago on Sunday on a pilgrimage to a shrine in Medjugorje. A runaway semi-trailer caused the accident, sending the bus down an 18-foot embankment. Enright's daughter, Kelly Goeden, said her mother suffered a black eye, a bump on the lip, a deep bruise on the inside of her leg, and had to have stitches to close a wound on her left elbow. Enright was treated and released. Goeden said Wollner had a really bad cut above her right ear and remains in the hospital.

Wisconsin's Dairy Industry By The Numbers

Wisconsin has the most dairy farms out of any state in the nation and makes a significant impact as a leader in the global dairy industry. Keep reading to find the latest stats and facts to help round out your dairy industry stories:

Economic Impact

- Wisconsin dairy farmers work with cheesemakers to craft over 600 varieties, types and styles of Wisconsin cheese, creating half of the nation's specialty cheese.

- The Wisconsin dairy industry generates a $45.6 billion economic impact, $1.26 billion in state and local taxes, and 154,000 jobs for the state annually.

- There are nearly 6,500 dairy farms in Wisconsin and 95 percent are family owned.

- Wisconsin dairy products are enjoyed by more than 300 million consumers around the world.

- These sources will provide additional details about Wisconsin's dairy farms, cheese and a breakdown of the economic impact by county.

Nutrition

- Dairy foods like milk and cheese are a natural source of immune-boosting nutrients needed for overall wellness. In fact — there are 13 essential nutrients found in milk including Vitamin A, Vitamin D, zinc and protein.

- The protein in dairy — whey and casein — keeps you feeling full longer, provides energy to fuel your day and helps muscles recover while you sleep.

- Fermented dairy foods like yogurt are linked to health benefits including reduced inflammation, improved digestive health and healthy immune systems.

- Milk offers a unique and powerful combination of essential nutrients — like Vitamin B12, zinc, iodine, calcium and protein — that are essential for immunity, cognitive development and performance.

Sustainable Farming

- The carbon footprint of a glass of milk is two-thirds less than it was 70 years ago, yet it still has the same nutritional benefits and great taste.

- Wisconsin has over 28 dairy-farmer-led watershed groups that protect hundreds of thousands of acres of land and water.

- Producing a gallon of milk has 19 percent less greenhouse gas emissions than it did in 2007. That's equivalent to the amount of carbon dioxide removed from the atmosphere by half a million acres of U.S. Forest every year.

- Thanks to the dairy community's focus on sustainability, dairy farmers have shrunk their carbon footprint by 20 percent, and use 21 percent less land and 31 percent less water per gallon of milk than just three years ago.

Female Farmers

- 2017 U.S. census data shows a 16 percent increase in the number of female farmers in Wisconsin, just over 38,500; women make up 35 percent of all producers in the state.

- Women landowners and farmers are a growing demographic. Many of them are leading local, state and national organizations such as Dairy Girl Network, Wisconsin Women in Conservation, Dairy Business Association, and Animal Agriculture Alliance.

History of National Dairy Month

- Dairy farming has been a pillar of Wisconsin's economy for more than 180 years.

- National Dairy Month started out as National Milk Month in 1937 to promote drinking milk. In 1939, June Dairy Month became the official title of the promotion and focused on greater use of milk and other dairy products.

- National Dairy Month is an annual tradition that celebrates the contributions the dairy industry makes to the state and the world. In Wisconsin, we celebrate National Dairy Month bigger than anywhere else with on-farm breakfast events and enjoyment of the world's best dairy products.

Ways To Enjoy National Dairy Month In America's Dairyland

Celebrate National Dairy Month this June with Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin (DFW) and explore all the ways dedicated dairy farm families make Wisconsin America's Dairyland.

Quality dairy products start with the best milk in the world, produced by Wisconsin's devoted dairy farmers. As one of the nation's top producers of dairy and supplier of more than half the country's specialty cheese, Wisconsin does dairy better than anyone. Dairy products are a natural source of immune-boosting nutrients, like vitamin A, vitamin D and protein that our bodies need, and dairy is the backbone to our state's economy providing $35.6 Billion in economic activity — Dairy is Good for You and for Wisconsin.

National Dairy Month pays tribute to the steadfast Wisconsin dairy farmers who contribute to their local communities, care for the land and animals, and produce delicious and nutritious dairy products. Dairy farming is a family affair in Wisconsin. In fact, over 95 percent of all dairy farms are family owned.

"Farming is a labor of love — a love of the land, cows, family and feeding the world," said Suzanne Fanning, senior vice president of Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin and chief marketing Officer for Wisconsin Cheese. "Wisconsin dairy farms often consist of multiple generations dedicated to producing high-quality milk, providing care for animals and improving the land for future generations."

Here are five easy ways to make this June a 'legen-DAIRY' start to summer fun:

- Experience modern dairy farming and meet local farmers by attending one of Wisconsin's iconic June Dairy Month farm breakfasts
- Enjoy fresh cheese curds or sample one of over 600 varieties, types and styles of Wisconsin Cheese

- Try a dairy delicious recipe
- Brush up on your dairy knowledge
- Look for the Proudly Wisconsin Cheese® and Proudly Wisconsin Dairy® badges when shopping at your local grocery store

The versatility and nutritional value of dairy products make it easy to participate in this month-long celebration. Dairy is a pure, farm-to-table food with an all-natural ingredient profile that makes smoothies creamier, desserts richer and summer picnics tastier.

Visit www.wisconsincheese.com/national-dairy-month/ for more information on National Dairy Month.

How To Involve More Young People In Agriculture

The agricultural industry will undergo exciting changes as it looks to overcome developing challenges in the decades ahead. Technology will continue to play a pivotal role in the agricultural sector, making agriculture an evolving and exciting career path for young professionals.

Much has been made of projections that suggest the world population is increasingly looking to urban areas to call home. Though data from the United Nations indicates urban areas could grow by 2.5 billion people by 2050, more recent UN data indicates that 90 percent of that increase will take place in Asia and Africa. All told, estimates indicate that rural areas will remain home to 3.1 billion people by 2050.

A sizable rural population and the challenges climate change and population growth will present underscores how important the agricultural sector will be in the coming decades. That means there should be plenty of opportunities for young people to make an impact, especially if more efforts are made to encourage them to consider careers in agriculture.

•Encourage agriculture-based curriculum. After recognizing that the majority of Kenyan students had no access to farming training and education, the organization Farm Africa initiated a program to make agriculture more accessible to students.

Students who participated learned about everything from keeping livestock to marketing produce for global markets. Similar programs can be encouraged in developed countries where opportunities in the field of agriculture figure to increase in the years to come.

•Emphasize technological advancements in the field. Modern young people are growing up with technology all around them, but few may be aware of the vital role technology plays in the agricultural sector. Young people's ears may perk up upon hearing terms like "robotics" technologies are now a big part of life on the farm. Recognition of that may compel more young people to pursue careers in agriculture.

•Highlight the challenges ahead and how agricultural professionals can help overcome them. UN projections indicate the global population will grow by more than two billion people by 2050.

Finding a way to feed all of those people in the face of climate change will be no small task, but it's a task that will require dedicated agricultural professionals. Educators and parents can emphasize these challenges when speaking to young people about a career in the agricultural sector, noting that such careers will present real opportunities to make a difference.

Young people looking for rewarding careers in an exciting, ever-evolving field can be encouraged to consider the agricultural sector.

American Cheese Is A Recipe Staple

With its silky texture, ability to melt and mild flavor, American cheese can do wonders for burgers and grilled cheese. American cheese can make quesadillas really sing, and it long has been a school lunch staple.

Although American cheese may not be part of high class charcuterie platters or coveted by French fromageries, it has its own unique place in the culinary landscape.

According to the online cheese purveyor Cheese.com, American cheese is a semi-soft, processed product made from pasteurized cow's milk and has a creamy, mild flavor. American cheese can come in yellow or white varieties.

American cheese is made from a mixture of cheeses, including colby and cheddar. Each slice of American cheese today contains less than 51 percent of curds, which means it doesn't exactly meet the definition of cheese as defined by the Food and Drug Administration. To be a true "cheese," a product has to be more than 50 percent cheese. American cheese is made from a base of cheese and combined with whey, milk proteins and emulsifying salts. This blend of ingredients helps American cheese melt without breaking or turning greasy the way a traditional cheese does.

According to the resource Serious Eats, the process for making American cheese was invented in Switzerland. In an effort to reduce cheese waste, scraps from various batches of cheese were melted together and formed into a new product. In 1916, Canadian-American cheese salesman James Kraft perfected and patented the technique. He produced and sold the first American cheese.

While American cheese has cheese in it, labels on the American cheese typically sold at the deli counter typically say pasteurized processed cheese. Those individually plastic-wrapped slices sold in the dairy case often go by pasteurized cheese food. The latter has a higher percentage of added ingredients that affect texture and meltability.

While true cheese connoisseurs may scoff at American cheese, the product certainly has had staying power and stands up in many recipes.

To obtain a summary of the source water assessment please contact, Dennis Aupperle at (262) 626-4310.

Educational Information

The sources of drinking water, both tap water and bottled water, include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.
- Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.
- Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff and residential uses.
- Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff and septic systems.
- Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which shall provide the same protection for public health.

Definitions

Term	Definition
AL	Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.
HAL	Health Advisory Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, poses a health risk and may require a system to post a public notice.
Level 1 Assessment	A Level 1 assessment is a study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system.
Level 2 Assessment	A Level 2 assessment is a very detailed study of the water system to identify potential problems and determine, if possible, why an E. coli MCL violation has occurred or why total coliform bacteria have been found in our water system, or both, on multiple occasions.
MCL	Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
MCLG	Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
MFL	million fibers per liter
MRDL	Maximum residual disinfectant level: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
MRDLG	Maximum residual disinfectant level goal: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
mrem/year	millirems per year (a measure of radiation absorbed by the body)
NTU	Nephelometric Turbidity Units
pCi/l	picocuries per liter (a measure of radioactivity)
ppm	parts per million, or milligrams per liter (mg/l)
ppb	parts per billion, or micrograms per liter (ug/l)
ppt	parts per trillion, or nanograms per liter
ppq	parts per quadrillion, or picograms per liter
SMCL	Secondary drinking water standards or Secondary Maximum Contaminant Levels for contaminants that affect taste, odor, or appearance of the drinking water. The SMCLs do not represent health standards.
TCR	Total Coliform Rule
TT	Treatment Technique: A required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Detected Contaminants

Your water was tested for many contaminants last year. We are allowed to monitor for some contaminants less frequently than once a year. The following tables list only those contaminants which were detected in your water. If a contaminant was detected last year, it will appear in the following tables without a sample date. If the contaminant was not monitored last year, but was detected within the last 5 years, it will appear in the tables below along with the sample date.

Microbiological Contaminants

Coliforms are bacteria that are naturally present in the environment and are used as an indicator that other, potentially harmful, waterborne pathogens may be present or that a potential pathway exists through which contamination may enter the drinking water distribution system. We found coliforms indicating the need to look for potential problems in water treatment or distribution. When this occurs, we are required to conduct assessments to identify problems and to correct any problems that were found during these assessments.

During the past year, we were required to conduct 1 Level 2 assessment(s). All assessments were completed on time.

Contaminant Health Effects

IRON Waters containing iron in quantities above the SMCL are not hazardous to health but may be objectionable for taste, odor, or color.

Additional Health Information

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Kewaskum Waterworks is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

The Mississippi Gang Comes to Wisconsin!

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

Late last December, I took part in a camping, canoeing and hunting trip with my daughter, Selina, in the Delta National Forest, which is located in west-central Mississippi.

One morning, I was one-and-a-half miles away from camp by canoe and on foot when a group of hunters came through that were using beagles to run deer, as it was also the dog/deer season in the State of Mississippi.

It was very hard for me to tell how they did this type of hunt, so after it appeared that they had completed what was a push of a large area, I introduced myself to them.

My new friends included a couple of young boys that were about six years old, three high schoolers and their parents: the elders were Joel Stewart and Dustin Hariel of Poplarville, Miss.

Within minutes, it appeared to me that I had made good friends and was told that I was welcome at their hunting camp anytime that I wanted, which is located in Delta and, like all the other camps in the area, off-the-ground due to flooding.

I also showed these guys a bear bait that I have out; Yep, I have a bear tag for this season, and they really got into that.

The other members of this group are Shane Smith and his 30-year-old son, Maverick, and his 26-year-old son, Stetson, who were exploring on their own, as was Joel Stewart and his 17-year-old son, Kade.

Today was truly a great day to be alive!

FRIDAY, MAY 27

HIGH: 78, LOW: 48

My first day of hunting, I made a key mistake: I thought I would be fine walking in the woods at 5 a.m.

It was too light, and I was busted by two toms from their roosts.

Yesterday, Maverick, Stetson and Shane all harvested turkey, and I realized that these guys are hunting machines.

This morning, I received a text from Dustin saying that he had whacked a turkey, and we met at my house and everyone was happy.

Meanwhile, the Stewart boys teamed up on gobbler number-four and, the next thing you know, everyone is at my house and we are having a turkey feast.

I am going to be perfectly honest, I felt like these guys were family/friends since we met and today really solidified that. As the days went by, I realized what incredible hunters and gentlemen they are.

One of the gobblers that Steson and Maverick bagged was a two-day chase and, in the end, Maverick crawled and Stetson did the calling.

In one situation, they witnessed a wolf on the close heels of a deer. They also witnessed a doe giving birth to a fawn, and they frequently spoke about what a great trip this was.

Kade and his father Joel did not harvest any turkey the first few days, but Kade scored on Saturday and Sunday and, in the end, the group called in and harvested 10 turkey, which – for big forest country and first time hunters in the state – is incredible.

I heard talk of an alligator hunt with fishing poles in the coming weeks and was given options of a host of different type of trips I could join them on in more than one year's time.

My guess is that my pals from Mississippi shall return.

ROUNDUP: Indians Baseball Falls to K.M.L in Regional

MICHAEL PROCHNOW
ASSISTANT COACH, KHS BASEBALL

Kewaskum, 2 at Kettle Moraine Lutheran, 3

It was a great Regional semi-final game between the top two teams in the East Central Conference (ECC), in which it came down to the last play but, Kewaskum (19-8), was on the wrong end of a 3-2 contest, as the Kettle Moraine Lutheran (KML) Chargers (20-7) came out victorious on Tuesday, May 31.

The Chargers, as of print time and coming into last week's postseason matchup, were undefeated ECC champs and were the eighth-ranked team in the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) Division 2 by the Wisconsin Baseball Coaches Association.

The game was tied at two with KML batting in the bottom of the seventh when a sacrifice fly scored the winning run.

The pitching was strong on both sides, as KML pitcher Landon Hagenow struck out nine, while Kewaskum pitchers sat down 10.

The Kewaskum Indians opened up scoring in the second inning, when Alec Cappozzo smoked a double to the fence to start off the frame. He advanced to third on a Dylan Soyk ground-out to second. With Matt Buechel up, the Indians put on a suicide-squeeze, which may have rattled the KML hurler, as he threw delivered a pitch over his catcher's head to give the Indians a 1-0 lead. Buechel then tripled and got stranded on third base to end the inning.

The lead would hold until the bottom of the sixth (with two outs) when the Chargers strung together a double and single. After two walks to load the bases, Derek May got the Chargers batter to strike out.

The Indians would then take the lead again in the top of the seventh, as Hunter Loser led off with a single and scored later on a Dylan Soyk single to take a 2-1 lead.

Unfortunately, for the Indians, one run was not enough as the ECC champs got an infield single to start the inning. The Indians would get out-number-one on a fielder's choice, but with one out and a runner on first, Charger Ben Zylka smoked a ground-rule-double to center field. Later, a single that hopped over Kewaskum's third baseman's head scored the tying run for KML, and then a sacrifice fly (which scored one run) ended the Indians' season, as KML completed the come-from-behind victory with a 32 final tally.

Landon Hagenow earned the win for the Chargers, as the sophomore ECC Player of the Year threw a complete game while allowing five hits and two runs while striking out nine and walking zero.

KML defeated University School of Milwaukee, 2-1, in the regional final on Wednesday, June 1, and was scheduled to host Whitnall after print time at Racine St. Catherine's on Tuesday, June 7.

Kewaskum, which finished the regular season with 19 wins and in second place in the ECC, will graduate eight players as the local high-school-nine sets its sights on 2023.

start out pitching. The girls wrapped the frame with only one run in for Eden.

First up to bat was Hartmann who started out with a great base hit to first.

The score was 2-1, Kewaskum, after the first inning.

In the top of the third, Kewaskum switched pitchers. Hartmann #4 made an outstanding double play to end the third inning 3-1 for Kewaskum.

The girls had quite a few issues in the top of the fourth, as they allowed Eden to score three runs. Eden took a 4-3 lead.

Kewaskum had the final home frame and played very well bringing in two runs to win the game, 5-4.

It was a great but intense game, and everyone played hard and supported each other. These girls did not give up, which was incredible to watch!

May 31

The Kewaskum girls walked away with their first loss of the year.

The Laconia girls were up to bat first, and Schnabe caught a nice fly to end the inning.

In the bottom of the first, Kewaskum made no runs, and both teams held strong for the second inning, as again no runs were scored.

In the top of the third, Pierce made a great third out by tagging the runner out at first.

In the bottom of the third, Wagner hit a great base hit bringing in Kewaskum's first and only run of the game made (RBI by Whitfield).

In the fourth, the girls lost their confidence and allowed five Laconia runs to cross the plate, which brought the score to 7-1.

Kewaskum had the last at-bat but could not pull through leaving the team with its first loss.

Campbellsport Softball Defends Title but in New Conference

CLARICE CASE
JOURNALIST

Despite a change in conferences – moving from the East Central to the Flyway this year – the Campbellsport Cougars softball team was able to rise above the new competition and win a conference championship for the second year in a row.

“You couldn’t take anyone lightly in this conference, so we had to come focused and ready to go every game,” said head coach Dan Heisdorf. “We pitched well, played good defense, and our hitters did enough to push runs across the plate.”

One of the biggest challenges this season was outside of anyone’s control: the weather. Campbellsport’s first seven games were rained out and several more were simply colder than desired.

Yet, neither the weather nor their opponents could stop the Cougars from achieving their goal of winning the Flyway, a plan they had set from the start of the season.

The Cougars finished the season with a 12-2 conference record, 16-6 overall.

Campbellsport had gone 14 years without winning a championship to now winning in back-to-back seasons.

“It’s always nice when you see your players achieve things they set out to do,” he said.

The team accomplished their goal, but some individuals reached their goals, too, added Heisdorf, as eight Cougars recently received all-conference honors.

“Our whole team deserves credit,” Heisdorf said. “Every game there was someone who stepped up and helped us win games.”

In two games, the Cougars won in the last at bat. One of those was a nine-inning game against Winnebago Lutheran Academy (WLA) wherein Campbellsport won, 2-1.

Unfortunately, Campbellsport’s playoff run ended sooner than expected after a close 4-3 loss to the underdog, Laconia, which just goes to show how tough this conference really is in softball. Laconia was an eight seed and lost in the sectional final, while WLA, a one-seed, will play in the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) State Softball Tournament this weekend.

While they won’t be in Madison this season, there was still plenty of Cougar pride felt at the conclusion of another conference-championship season.

“We had a tough loss to end our season, but I am proud of my team,” praised Heisdorf. “I would go to battle with them any day against any team.”

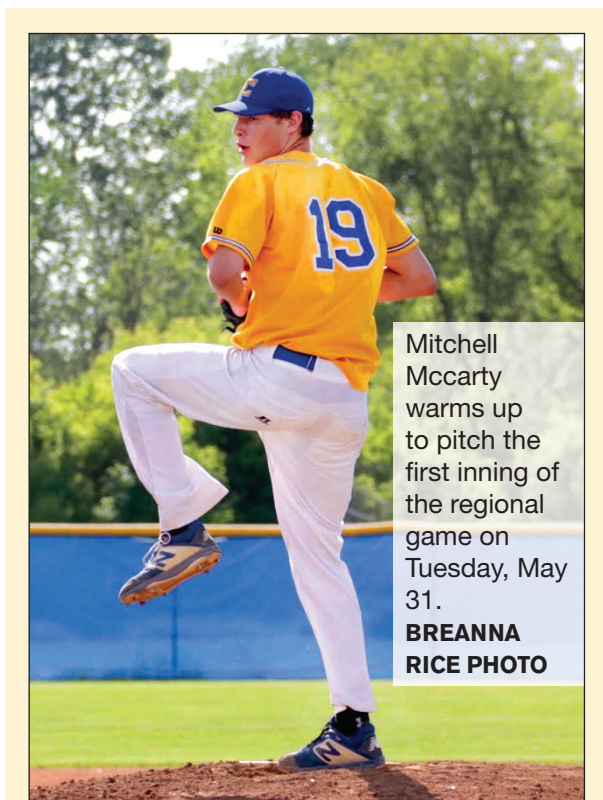

ROUNDUP: Cougars’ State Track Meet Results

The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association 2022 State Track & Field Championships took place June 3-4.

Five athletes from Campbellsport traveled to La Crosse to compete in the Division 2 Championships.

For the boys, Jerid Waddle finished in 17th place in the 200-meter dash preliminaries. Joseph Gardner finished fifth in the long jump finals.

For the girls, Santana Ryan finished tenth in the 200 and 400-meter dash finals. Lydia Toshner finished 11th in the 300-meter hurdles preliminaries. Aubree Koenings finished 15th in the discus finals.

Mitchell Mccarty warms up to pitch the first inning of the regional game on Tuesday, May 31.

ROUNDUP: Cougar Softball All-Conference Awards, Heisdorf is Player of the Year

DAN HEISDORF
CAMPBELLSPORT HIGH SCHOOL,
VARSITY SOFTBALL COACH

The Flyway Conference coaches met a few weeks ago to select the all-conference players for the 2022 season, and the Cougars had three Flyway First Team All-Conference players.

Senior Carissa Heisdorf was a unanimous first team selection. She led the conference in batting average at .560, hits with 28, runs with 26, on-base percentage at .633 and slugging percentage at .900.

Senior Kylie Zehren was also a unanimous first team selection batting a solid .393. She led the conference in earned-run-average (ERA) at 0.89. She finished second in the conference with 85 strikeouts as a pitcher, just one behind the leader (despite Zehren pitching 24 less innings). She had a 7-1 record in conference from the mound.

Senior Morgan Yahr was the final first team all-conference selection. She was the best nine-hitter in the conference, hitting .415. She was also the team's most clutch hitter getting the game tying hit against North Fond du Lac in the bottom of the seventh and then getting the game winning hit in the bottom of the ninth against Winnebago Lutheran.

The Cougars also had three Flyway Second Team All-

Conference selections.

Senior Brooke Flitter finished the conference with a pitching record of 5-1 and had 48 strikeouts.

Junior Kylie Krueger got second team by hitting .370 during the conference season and played solid defense in centerfield and at third base. Lastly, junior Kinsley Homuth got second team by hitting .353 in conference and finishing third in RBIs with 17.

Two Cougar players also received Honorable Mentions.

They were junior Ava Sippel who played errorless ball at shortstop and hit .375 in limited at-bats and junior Kaitlyn Goebel who played solid defense in the outfield and hit .302.

Carissa Heisdorf was also nominated and voted by the coaches as the Flyway Conference Player of the Year. Heisdorf, along with Flitter and Zehren, were selected by the Wisconsin Fastpitch Coaches Association to play in the Senior All-Star Game on June 14 in Wisconsin Dells.

Heisdorf (infielders/catchers) and Zehren (pitcher) were also put on the Wisconsin Senior Awards Players to Watch. The list will be narrowed down to five finalists for each of those positions and then one player will be picked to win the award at each position.

Congrats to all of this year's award-winning Cougars!
