Campbellsport Plans to Open Second Tax Incremental District

A public hearing regarding "TID #2" will take place on Thursday, June 23

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
ACTING EDITOR

A new tax incremental district (TID) could be coming to the Village of Campbellsport, as the municipality has unveiled plans and boundaries for TID #2 in anticipation of a public hearing to be held on the matter this Thursday, June 23, at 5:45 p.m. in the village's Municipal Center at 470 Grandview Ave.

Tax incremental districts, which were introduced in the State of Wisconsin roughly five decades ago, allow municipalities to reinvest collected property taxes (from homes and businesses within the TID) back into the same district over a specified timeframe. Typically, the goal of a TID is to stimulate new public infrastructure, offset redevelopment costs and provide motive for business development and growth all the while limiting or eliminating costs to village taxpayers.

"It's proven to be one of the most successful tools to encourage development," said

Campbellsport Village Administrator Charlie Kurdy.

Kurdy, who joined the village in 2020, is a native of West Milwaukee, and he saw first hand, growing up, how beneficial TIDs can be to underdeveloped or underutilized spaces; American Family Field (then known as Miller Park) in West Allis utilized TIDs for the project, which entirely reshaped the portion of Milwaukee County.

"It allows a municipality to partner with developers, and we can give them different tools for financial incentive, land incentives, debt reimbursements... all dependant upon what type of development and how much development," explained Kurdy.

Campbellsport's first TID program was launched in 2011, according to Kurdy. TID #1 is located at the south end of the village – south of Campbellsport Dive, east of County Road W and west of County Road V. Several of the businesses located in the district were recruited to build into TID #1, and the new Valley View sub-

Birthdays

Dear Reader,

Recently I celebrated a birthday. At my age, this has become a dubious honor, with a certain amount of playful teasing from family and friends. I am as young as I feel, which on most days means feeling bright and vital. And yet, while some of my friends are stubbornly continuing to ply their trade, others are slowly winding it down.

In a way I am living in two worlds. Those who see me without knowing me might believe me to be much more of a boy than I really am because I'm still in the thick of crusading on campaigns, some meaningful and others silly. Yet on my honest days, I feel like I'm cobbling my body together to do this work, realizing as I go that some things don't work as well as they used to.

In the end, I guess it doesn't matter much since we all end up on one side of the spectrum or the other depending on how nobly (or ignobly) we lived our lives. But every morning we wake up and try again...which is noble in and of itself.

G.A. SCHEINOH
CONTRIBUTOR

June 21 was the first day of summer but we're feeling the heat early this year with a couple of 90-degree days already and another pair today (June 20) and tomorrow. These blistering afternoons take a fella straight back to childhood when the temps often neared triple digits.

Back then sunburns from playing outside most of the day were a common event. Nobody mentioned the danger of UV rays on the skin. Or warned that a person should limit their exposure and wear the highest SPF lotion when venturing out for extended periods. Little did we know.

Skip ahead to sweaty nights when I worked the buffer line at West Bend Company's East Plant. It was a dirty job, dust and polish spit back at the machine operator. Fans mounted high up only blew the hot air back down. One particularly nasty evening, after changing a wheel on the buffer and so blackened by the falling debris inside the machine, my own sister didn't recognize me.

Summer in Plant Fifteen at Mercury Marine is a similarly physically fatiguing battle against the rigors of heat fueled exhaustion. The prime difference being the management's concern for their employees. During the worst of it in seasons past, they provided cooling bands. Which, once soaked in water and twisted gave cool relief, whether draped around the neck or worn in headband fashion.

Surely the most sympathy goes to those who work in the foundry and must wear extra protective clothing that traps the body's natural warmth. As well as to folks with outside jobs; lanscape laborers and quarry workers.

While I can't quote statistics, it's a fairly safe bet, unlike cold weather which has us all commiserate with one another, heat divides. As temperatures rise, so do tempers. Here's hoping for once there's a change. Let's try and be nicer. We're all suffering through this together.

Vacant Land and How to Use It

AL WISNEFSKE
BROKER/OWNER
LAND & LEGACY GROUP

Vacant land can become an income-producing asset.

Here are four ways you can get started on your land today:

1. Buy/Sell Land

There's only so much land to go around.

As cities grow, there's a need for more land. This causes appreciation in an area.

Just like home values, on average, are always increasing, so does the value of land. You can buy and hold land until that value reaches your desired return.

2. Leases

More common in our area is leasing land for farming and hunting.

For farming, this is usually a set dollar amount per acre per year.

For hunting, it's generally a set dollar amount per year or season.

Both lease values will be determined on the quality of the land.

3. Storage

A popular trend is providing space for people to store their larger items.

Boats, campers, ice shanties, etc. all need a place to be stored when not in use. Even some businesses need extra space.

This extra space could be turned into cash flow.

4. Timber

Your property's timber has value.

Timber needs to be managed properly for a profitable harvest. Some owners will have professionals manage the timber for future growth and harvests.

Important tip: Be sure to check with all governing bodies on the allowed uses for the land.

Voter Endorses Bodden for Assembly

I fully trust Ty Bodden and support him to be the next state representative of the 59th district.

We all know that the Republican Party is divided right now, and we need to be united after the primary to make sure Tony Evers doesn't win a second term and that Ron Johnson continues leading us in the senate.

Ty is endorsed by former Governor Scott Walker, both of the previous incumbents of the district – Tim Ramthun and Jesse Kremer – Senator Duey Stroebel and so many more proven and experienced leaders around the district.

Ty is the candidate to unite the party and to help lead us to victory in November.

I have experienced Ty's hard work and dedication first hand. He is one of the most determined and hard working young men I know and doesn't quit until the task at hand is completed and done well. We need more of that in this country, especially from our leaders of the future.

He has led the Republican Party of Calumet County, turning the membership of a dozen members to more than 200 members in just one year. He is a freedom fighter and does not quit until he sees results. He listens to the people in the county and that is why he is successful. He will do the same for his district.

I would love for him to represent our district, because he would be one of the few politicians I would trust to actually securely tackle issues such as election integrity, medical freedom, education and the economy.

Mark your calendars and join me in voting for Ty Bodden on August 9.

Brain Block

CONTRIBUTOR

I've had writer's block.

Seriously, several times this week I've sat down in front of my laptop trying to decide what to write, but the words just weren't coming. Like a clogged dam filling with water, I could see the potential there – I just couldn't get any ideas to flow through.

So I went for a run.

While I was running, an idea hit me – what if writing about writer's block would help me get past having writer's block? I'll write about brain health!

Matter Over Mind

Like an empty canvas or a blank page, running, for me, carries with it a world of potential: it can help me process stress and emotions, lift my brain fogs and hurdle me over mental blocks. Movement is magic, and I've come up with some of my best ideas when it's just me, my shoes and several miles of pavement.

E. Stanley Jones once wrote that: "It is easier to act yourself into a new way of thinking, than to think yourself into a new way of acting."

Exercise can literally change your mind.

There's science behind this. While most people equate exercise with weight loss or cardiovascular health, the benefits of exercise don't stop at the heart, lungs and belly – they extend all the way north to the brain.

Exercise has immediate and long-term benefits for brain health. As little as 10 minutes of any activity that gets your heart rate up can increase production of endorphins – your body's natural mood-boosting chemicals that reduce pain, calm your mind and make you feel good.

And if you can invest a little more time, you'll experience even better benefits: In a study of more than 2,000 students, increased physical activity improved learning. Other studies have shown improved focus, concentration and reaction times lasting more than two hours after a 30-minute exercise session (any activity that gets your heart rate up).

If you regularly find yourself struggling through an afternoon slump at work, a lunchtime power walk could be a game-changer!

Exercise benefits long-term brain health, as well, by stimulating the creation of new brain cells and pumping up brain areas most at risk from degenerative brain diseases. Evidence shows that a regular, consistent exercise habit can help reduce or delay the onset of diseases like dementia and Alzheimer's.

Feeding Your Head

Whether we're talking about the health of your brain or of your body, "you are what you eat," and what you munch is just as important as how you move.

Like cars, everything runs better on better quality fuel. But, unlike fuel for cars, which is made better with more processing, the healthiest fuels

Audit, Sewage Rates and Vandalism the Topics at Campbellsport Village Meeting

BREANNA RICE
JOURNALIST

The Campbellsport Village Board of Trustees met on Monday, June 13.

At the meeting, two presentations were given and many members of the community came to take part in the discussion.

The first presentation was given by Bryan Grunewald of Clifton Larson Allen (CLA). It was stated that this is the first year Campbellsport is using the CLA firm for auditing. Grunewald informed the board of the village's audit results and compared Campbellsport's balances from 2020 to 2021. There was nothing major to note from his findings, as the village was shown to be in good financial health.

Grunewald did make a mention of sewer rates, a segment which all municipalities will be monitoring closely in the near future.

"The village shows no red flags but, because of possible inflation, it is important to stay on top of operating costs," he said, suggesting that another sewage rate hike could be prudent in the near future.

Next, Joe DeYoung from MSA presented information on storm water drainage. There have been concerns among community members regarding flooding when it rains with some residents in attendance stating that they have been dealing with yard and basement flooding for many years.

It was stated that the main flooding issue occurs along Popler Street.

DeYoung pointed out that the purpose of his presentation was solely to inform the community about possible options and to communicate pressing concerns. He highlighted that there is not one solution to this issue that will solve everyone's problems; there are only options that may assist in reducing concerns.

DeYoung showed a map of Campbellsport and explained the current draining system. He then went on to show placement of four possible ponds that could be dug to help reduce the amount of water flowing through the community during a storm. DeYoung stated that any one of the four potential ponds would help control the water but there would likely still be issues.

It was suggested, for the present, that it is best to keep exploring different opportunities that may present themselves as time goes on to help mitigate future flooding issues.

No decisions or actions were made regarding this discussion.

Finally, Campbellsport Police Chief Tom Dornbrook gave his monthly report to the board. The Chief discussed the vandalism in Firemans Park and in the public bathrooms. He stated that, after posting about the damages on Facebook, those who were involved came forward and the department was able to deal with the issues.

Unfortunately, because of repetitive vandalism, the bathrooms at the park will be locked until further notice.

The board went into closed session and reconvened to open session to adjourn.

The Goodtime Dutchmen

Goodtime Dutchmen to Perform at Music in The Park

Music In The Park continues next week, as the summer concert series will feature the Goodtime Dutchmen on Tuesday, June 28.

The group formed back in the 1990s by Ralph Thull and is a pure polka band. With Ralph leading on accordion, the saxophone player, the pianist, one of the trumpet players and the drummer are all members of the Thull family.

Ralph was raised with polka music, being the son of Bill Thull whose orchestra recorded a number of polka albums from the 1950s into the 70s. The Dutchmen have recorded several compact discs and play virtually every weekend all over the state. The Goodtime Dutchmen always draw a big crowd at Music In The Park and get folks out of their seats to dance.

The Music In The Park concert is free and takes place in the large shelter in River Hill Park in Kewaskum. The Kewaskum Fire Fighter's Association, which is sponsoring the music, starts selling concessions at 5:30 p.m. and the music begins at 6:30 p.m.

Seating is available, but lawn chairs are encouraged.

Music In The Park is made possible by donations from Drexel Building Supply, Gerhartz Studio, the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce, Kewaskum Fire Fighters Association, Kewaskum Kiwanis Club, Kewaskum Women's Club and Geidel's Piggly Wiggly. The Kewaskum Area Arts Council organizes the Music In The Park series.

division was also part of the first village TID.

“It covered all of what used to be called the Huspen Farm area, and the intention was to encourage the development of our business park along Industrial Parkway,” said Kurdy.

In addition to the industrial park and Valley View, TID #1 also encompasses Soaring Eagle subdivision. At present, Kurdy said the village is wrapping up the first phase of this project with additional development inside the industrial park expected in the next few months. He anticipated that TID #1 would become financially sustainable in the next few years.

“So it will not be a burden to the taxpayers,” added Kurdy. “This is the goal of every TID.”

With the first TID already showing signs of success, Kurdy and village officials believe now is an ideal time to roll out a second. In addition to adding new portions of the village to a TID, TID #2 will also absorb portions of TID #1. TID #1 is set to expire in 2032.

The boundaries of TID #2 will include unfinished portions of Valley View, and will (roughly speaking) include parcels between the Eisenbahn State Trail and S. Fond du Lac Ave (Hwy. V), as well as portions of the neighborhood north of Precision Drive and west of Firemans Park. A good portion of “uptown” – Campbellsport’s Main Street drag – is included in the TID; both sides of the street from Firemans Park to Elm Street (with some exceptions) are included.

Development in the village, outside the TID districts, has grown exponentially the last few years both in scope, cost and demand. Just a few years ago, according to Kurdy, dozens of empty lots stood ready for development and construction, but some subdivisions now only have a few spaces available. In addition, the average assessed value for a home has risen in the village with some homes (not yet built) being sold for more than $400,000.

“The intention for TID #2 is to take that momentum and elongate that,” said Kurdy, adding that, should TID #2 be approved, the village would cap-

Campbellsport Village Administrator Charlie Kurdy points to a field on the south side of the village where the present TID #1 will meet future TID #2. In addition to encompassing parts of TID #1, TID #2 will include properties in the village’s uptown section or “Main Street drag.”

italize on tax increment for projects planned for this summer.

He added that this would be a significant boon for TID #2, as TID #1 (which was founded at a time when less development was happening across the village) took several years of village funding to get it up and running.

Already, there are several development companies ready to break ground in TID #2 this year.

Kurdy is particularly excited about the opportunities for uptown, and he hopes residents will agree that collaborative development between the bike trail and Poplar Street will only aid Campbellsport’s community-first identity as it seeks to re-grow its population during this next census period.

While the village saw a population decline in the last census (a large portion of which were residents from the former convent), the data (particularly the applications for new home permits) has signaled to Kurdy that Campbellsport will regain, quickly, the numbers it lost from the 2020 figures.

A lot of that growth will, in part, be on the messaging of the village, and Kurdy is eager to work with future developers, homeowners and business leaders, as the presumed launch of TID #2 will serve as a significant message that this village intends to grow and improve.

“We are here, we are ready, we are prepared and this is what we can offer you,” said Kurdy, saying that now, more than ever, people are viewing Campbellsport as the perfect locale to work, live and play. “We’re trending in the right direction... It makes my job really easy to go out and brag about Campbellsport, because we already have so much to offer.”

The public hearing will be held at the Village Municipal Center at 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 23. For more information, contact the village at 920-533-8321.

Property Re-evaluation Letters to be Mailed Soon

Village of Kewaskum property owners can expect letters imminently, which will detail a new valuation process for homes and businesses spaces, as Kewaskum officials respond to a new state law dictating that all communities be valued at 100% of market value, and that the last assessments be kept within 10% of that value.

The three-year process to re-evaluate home and business values will not have an effect on this year's tax bill. The new assessments will be effective on Jan. 1, 2023.

The assessor will consider just the exterior of the property when determining the market value; no entrance into homes or businesses is necessary.

It was unknown the last time the village took part in a re-evaluation process.

Property valuations are vital to local, regional and state government, as the individual values pool into municipalities' assessed and equalized values. A given village's equalized value, and whether or not it has increased or decreased in given timeframes, determines, in some cases, what state and federal funding might be available, and also will dictate, to some degree, how much a municipality can tax its residents for goods and services.

for your brain are the ones that are least processed.

Research published in 2021 found that a steady diet of highly processed foods resulted in memory problems and brain inflammation, increasing the risk of developing dementia, Alzheimer's and other neurological diseases.

"Highly processed foods" include those with heavily refined carbohydrates, saturated fats and low fiber (things like chips, white bread, sugary snacks, hot dogs, processed lunchmeats and "fake meat" burgers).

While research found that the negative brain effects of this "standard American diet" could be offset by adding dietary DHA (found in salmon, tuna and "omega-3" supplements like fish oil), it's best for your brain and your body to limit heavily processed foods and choose more whole grains, fewer processed meats (like hot dogs and lunchmeats), foods high in fiber and lots of vegetables.

And, as your car benefits from the occasional fuel additive, your brain can also get a boost from certain add-ins. Supplementing healthy nutrition habits with antioxidants can provide even more protection against inflammation, and help reduce the effects of stress and aging.

In addition to DHA, ask your doctor about the health benefits of adding vitamins A, C and E, as well as CoQ10 (co-enzyme Q 10).

Regarding alcohol: In the largest study of its kind, an analysis of 36,000 adults found that just seven drinks per week can literally shrink your brain. When increased to 2 drinks per day, the effect was the equivalent of more than two years of brain aging.

If long-term brain health is your goal, then limiting alcohol consumption to no more than a couple drinks per week is your healthiest bet.

Turning Off and Tuning Out

We'll talk more next week about how sleep and stress can affect brain health, and steps you can take to improve both.

Until then, remember that we don't decide our future: we decide our habits, and our habits determine our future.

The Eden Zoning Board of Appeals met before the regular village board meeting on June 21. Board members approved two variances for the Robert Meier property. Meier wants to construct a building for storage that is to sit on property without any other buildings so a use variance was needed to build the structure as the parcel of land is very small and would not be suitable for any other type of building. The other variance is for setbacks, also due to the size of the property.

It's almost time to flock to Campbellsport Firemen's Park for the fun and excitement of the annual picnic and parade. This year marks the 103rd year for the Campbellsport Fire Department. | KEWASKUM'S DAYS GONE BY |

5 Years Ago June 29, 2017

After months of planning, the Kewaskum School District has released its new building plan for the high school and middle school facilities. The architectural rendering of the front of the building and the layout of rooms for the first and second floors were published. Construction workers recently started preparing the site for construction. The new middle school will be attached to the north side of the existing high school.

The Village of Kewaskum will hold its annual fireworks display at Riverhill Park on July 3 at dusk. No sparklers are allowed in the park during the event.

More than 500 students participated in the Kewaskum School District's summer school program, which was offered June 8 through 30.

Students in grades three through eight learned about the businesses and history of the Village of Kewaskum in a summer school class entitled Explore Your Hometown. This was the first time the class had been offered. Students learned about the early settlers, businesses and stories about living in Kewaskum from the 1800s through the 1940s. They went on walking field trips and had hands-on activities.

Officer Steven Rosales was sworn in as an officer with the Kewaskum Police Department at the Kewaskum Village Board meeting on June 5.

Joe Woodworth, president of the NKM Crooked Trails Snowmobile Club, presented a $500 check to Ron Haermann from the Dundee Sportsmen's Club. The money will be used to help with grounds maintenance.

Nominations are being sought for the positions of president, vice president, and treasurer of the Kewaskum Area Arts Council. Voting will take place at the council's meeting scheduled for August 12. The Kewaskum Arts Council is a non-profit organization dedicated to bringing the arts to and supporting the arts in and around Kewaskum.

More than 70 children in 4K and 5K are participating in the Kewaskum Athletic Association's T-ball program this summer.

Kennedy Lehn, Maddie Geidel, and Breana Trepes from the Kewaskum softball team were named to the Wisconsin Fast-pitch Softball Coaches Association's all-state team. Lehn and Geidel earned second place spots and Trepes was an honorable mention selection. Trepes and Lehn were chosen as co-players of the year for the conference.

Dr. Aurora A. Sison, 79, Kewaskum, passed away June 22. Tammy A. Hardy, 56, passed away June 21. George W. Chesak, 74, passed away June 12.

After an hour of testimony followed by an almost hour-long pause, the hearing for suspended Kewaskum Police Officer Troy Ellis resumed. Attorneys for both Ellis and Chief of Police Richard Knoebel asked for a continuation until June 28. Knoebel requested the Police and Fire Commission terminate the employment of Ellis for allegedly breaking a number of department rules when he became intoxicated and trespassed on his neighbor's property after mistaking the neighbor's home for his own.

Despite the injuries she suffered and the emotional trauma she suffered, Ann Enright does not regret the decision she made to go on the recent pilgrimage to Medjugorje. The bus had been in an accident in Bosnia on June 11, and 27 people were injured. Also injured were Enright's friend Karen Wollner, tour guide Jim Lightner, and Fr. Rick Wendell of Holy Angels, who was the spiritual director of the trip. The four traveled together in a van after being released from the hospital, participating in special Masses and services and listening to spiritual talks in and around Medjugorje.

Kewaskum Fire Chief Mark Groeschel says this year's fireworks display will be longer and larger than last year's because the fire department purchased a larger package. The fireworks show is scheduled for July 3.

Updates from the Kewaskum Village Board

BREANNA RICE
JOURNALIST

The Kewaskum Village Board of Trustees met on Monday, June 20.

Pickle Ball

At the meeting, Dennis Aupperle stated that the pickle ball courts are up and running at Kiwanis Park. Citizens should feel free to come and check them out.

Library to Receive ARPA Funds

During the unfinished business portion of the meeting, discussion took place over re-considering the funding sources/use of ARPA funds for the library's portion of the shared services facility.

Originally, the ARPA funds were being used to cover all of the other portions of the facility, leaving out the library.

The board revisited this idea and deemed it unfair.

Trustees took action on this topic and approved the ARPA funds to cover the library's portion of the shared facilities building as well.

Café Seating Approved

Also during the unfinished business portion of the meeting, there was continued discussion regarding café seating and outdoor service areas for businesses.

It was stated that the village will require defined areas to set up chairs or tables if a business wishes to provide outdoor services.

The board approved this ordinance and will allow outdoor seating as long as the business stays within their parameters.

Finally, the board reviewed a draft of the new garbage collection flyer.

Next week, Monday, June 27, residents will receive a hanger on their doors that contains information on the new company, GFL.

Also beginning on Monday, the new carts will be delivered. Residents should note that they should not use these new carts for the next garbage collection (use the old carts for the last time next week).

Additionally, it is necessary for residents to be aware that it is better not to use garbage bags in your recycling. All recyclables can be dumped into the cart without being secured by a bag, which is more beneficial for the sorting machines.

Any further questions regarding the transition to GFL can be answered by Kewaskum Village Administrator Adam Gitter.

| KEWASKUM POLICE BEAT |

May 15- June 4

The following was provided by Kewaskum Police Department (KPD) Chief Tom Bishop:

May 17- Traffic Offense: KPD took a report of a juvenile riding a motorcycle around the school busses at school and on the roadway. Juvenile student does not have a driver's license. Citation issued.

May 19- Disorderly Conduct: KPD was stopped by a vehicle occupied by two women reporting that someone golfing at Hon E Kor Golf Club "moon"ed them as they passed by. They didn't want to file an official report, but were somewhat shocked and offended by the gesture. From their description, Lt. Steiner was able to ascertain that this occurred on the fifth tee box of the blue nine on the top of the big hill. This information was relayed to the Washington County Sheriff's office, but they had an emergency call and asked for mutual aid to speak with the subjects. Lt. Steiner located a foursome on the sixth green, but they all denied being responsible. There was a moderate time delay from the time of the report to the time of contact; it's possible they weren't the ones responsible. Warnings were issued to those spoken to in the event that they were involved. No further investigation took place.

June 2- Overdoes/Possession of Fentanyl: KPD responded to a rescue call for a female who overdosed on fentanyl. The 43-year-old female was transported to the hospital for treatment. Upon release, she was transported to the Washington County Jail and arrested for Possession of Schedule II Narcotics. She was also arrested on a Probation Hold.

June 2- Disorderly Conduct: A female called because she stated her children were threatened with physical violence as the neighbor stated she was going to slap the caller's children. The officer spoke with the neighbor female who stated that one of the children should be spanked for swearing at her. The caller's child and the neighbor's children do not get along. The neighbor stated that she did not threaten to hit the children in any way. She further stated that the caller came into her yard and was swearing at her. The officer then spoke with the caller and her children who stated the neighbor women was swearing at them to stay off her lawn. The caller stated that she then went to the neighbor's house and began swearing at her. Warnings were issued per their request to not issue any citations at this time.

June 4- Traffic: KPD stopped a UTV driving on Village streets and Eisenbahn Trail. Driver stated he was unaware he could not drive on either. Driver was warned and released.

Kewaskum Sewer Lateral Bills Due in October

BREANNA RICE
JOURNALIST

The Kewaskum Village Board of Trustees met on Monday, June 20, and at the meeting a public hearing was held to discuss the sanitary sewer laterals.

The project to repair and update property laterals took place back in 2014, but the bill is now being delivered to residents. Any person who has a home or a business located in the region of this assessment is responsible for covering the cost of the sewer lateral that was repaired or replaced.

Concerned residents were in attendance and asked several questions during the public hearing. The board acknowledged public comments and tried to address concerns as best as they could. Each individual had their own situation regarding the matter, and the board agreed to go over each issue at a separate meeting.

Many of the residents had questions such as: "How much do we actually owe?", "Why did this bill take eight years for us to receive?" and "Can we have an extension on the payment?"

The board stated that residents should expect to get the final bill by the end of next week with the total amount due expected to be $2,288.33 per property.

The board revised the resolution and prolonged the date that community members have to pay this amount. Originally, residents were being asked to pay the bill by September 1 if they did not wish to use a loan for the payment. Instead, residents have until October 31 to pay in full.

The other payment option, for those affected, is to use a loan through the village. This loan would last for five years with a five percent interest rate. Members of the board stated that this is the normal loan rate for street projects.

Trustees expressed empathy for the confusion regarding this situation. The village has been resolving issues with the DOT, and many of the costs along the way were unknown, making it unclear how much the total bill would be.

Village officials did not know until 2021 that the village received the expenses for the project and, from there, had to plan out the financing aspect.

Board members will continue to hear all the resident's situations presented to them at the meeting into consideration. They will also need to come to an agreement with home owners who have possession of "free and clear" home titles that were obtained when purchasing their home anytime since 2014.

Questions should be directed to the Kewaskum village at 262-626-8484.

seeking men and couples to volunteer throughout Wisconsin.

"We very consistently need male volunteers, because boys remain on our waiting list longer than girls, and women volunteer more consistently than men," said Amy Chionchio, resident and CEO of Big Brothers Big Sisters of Metro Milwaukee. "We really prioritize creating matches that are compatible so that there are life changing outcomes for both the child and the volunteer."

Big Brothers Big Sisters is the nation's largest donor and volunteer-supported mentoring network. They match volunteers one-to-one with kids in need, and encourage them to spend quality time together. Some affiliates include an option for couples who choose to volunteer together. They can be matched with the same child. The organization has 15 local affiliates throughout Wisconsin, so people can find local staff who can help them get connected to learning more about the program.

Greetings from the Campbellsport Library!

It's hard to believe that several weeks have already passed since our family fun night! We had such a wonderful time on June 6, with all the children and families who came to support us. Even though the weather was a bit cooler than we had hoped, we still had a wonderful turn out of about 150 people. Children enjoyed competing in a sack race, a three legged race and an egg and spoon race. They also enjoyed having their faces painted and getting balloons twisted by our fabulous balloon maker. We wanted to say a great big thank you to all our volunteers, without whom this event would not have been possible. Whether you came to set up, take down, bake items for our bake sale, or donated prizes for our raffle, your help and hard work made it possible to make this night a success! We could not have done it without you coming together for us! We would also like to thank the local police and fire stations that brought cars, and trucks for the children to explore as well as Johnson Bus for bringing the big bus over for the kids to investigate. We are so blessed by this community and appreciate your support.

Summer Reading Program

Summer reading is already moving through its second week at the library! We have had more than 215 children, teens and adults sign up for our Oceans of Possibilities-themed summer reading program and are still accepting sign ups at this time. If you haven't made it in yet to sign up stop in and visit us and we would be happy to help you learn more about our program.

Summer Reading Event Dates:

- June 24 – Friday Movie at 1 p.m., “Big Hero Six” (popcorn will be served)
- June 29 – Under the Sea Yoga with Kim Keceli of Essence
- July 6 – No program this week. Happy Fourth of July!
- July 12 – 9:30 a.m. for all age groups. Visit with Dino from Nature Niche and his exotic animals. There will only be one program for all age groups this Tuesday. There will NOT be a Wednesday program this week.

Accepting Book and Magazine Donations

Another way that you can support the library is by donating books or magazines for our annual book sale. The book sale will be held August 8 through 19, from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Please drop off books, magazines, DVDs or children's books at the front desk, or call ahead and we can help you bring them inside. Some of our patrons have mentioned that I have not written about camping this year and wanted to know if we gave it up. No, we have not given it up. Things have been just going differently this year. Previously we have camped for a couple of weeks in a row and then would commute to work during the week. Gas prices have had an impact on that. For that and other reasons, we have only gone on one camping trip this year.

We are members of a camping group that allow us to camp without additional payment at numerous sites throughout the nation for one annual fee. We tend to stick to one campground mainly because of location and amenities. My husband booked several trips this year and canceled two already. The first was due to weather. It might be difficult to recall, especially with the heat wave we have had lately, but in mid-April, we had high temperatures in the 30s with some overnights in the 20s. In that weather, neither of us would enjoy huddling around the campfire. When we first began this pastime, we did have a cold weekend with a group of friends, though not quite in the 20s. He remembers it fondly, me not so much. Running a heater with propane and being under five blankets to sleep is torture to me.

The other cancellation is this upcoming weekend. My husband has to work, and I do not camp alone. We took up this recreational activity to give him a break from work, so I find it contradictory. Especially that it is a weekend work occasion and there will be people camping at this event. I told him to go ahead and take the camper, but it is very close to home. I suppose if I offered to go with him, we could call it camping, but I think I will stay home and I think the camper will also.

The one time we camped this year was around Memorial Day. We try to avoid holidays because of the crowds and novices. However, I had a long weekend, and so did he which is a rarity. Additionally, my family scheduled time to be out with us and I seldom say no to the grandkids visiting. Or their parents. The weather was cool the first weekend with us breaking down and running the heater one night and the second weekend we turned on the air conditioning. The little kids loved playing basketball at the big court with the big kids, riding their scooters up and down the roads and trying to give grandma a heart attack by being speed demons, and scooping up loads of candy from watching the golf cart parade. Besides spending time with the family, my husband and I enjoyed relaxing away from work, chatting with friends around the campfire and watching newbies set up their campers. Surprisingly, I am looking forward to our next camping adventure.

“The feedback is important to us, as we want to know how we are doing,” says Bobbi Hicken,

PEDAL DOWN PROMOTIONS

With the arrival of Memorial Day signaling the unofficial start of summer, the final weekend of May typically follows suit in triggering when the racing season kicks into high gear in the state.

Although the temperatures again stayed on the cool side and a late afternoon shower swept over the track, a host of competitors checked into The Plymouth Dirt Track for their first night of action of the 2022 season at the third-mile clay oval at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth on Saturday, May 28.

In the 25-lap Kristine Hartmann Pleasant View Realty A main, defending PDTR 360 Sprint Car champion Travis Arenz of Sheboygan Falls cruised to his third Plymouth Dirt Track Racing main event triumph of the 2022 campaign. Justin Ritchie of New London came out

Grand National champ Matt Loehr of Dotyville notched his second Oostburg Automotive Grand National A-main triumph of the 2022 season, while Travis Schmidt of Waldo claimed the victory in the 25-lap Next Step Insurance B Mod A main in his first outing of the 2022 season at The Plymouth Dirt Track.

The initial start of the 360 Sprint Car A main was negated when Nick Daywalt of Slinger and 2018 PDTR champion Justin Miller of Plymouth made hard contact along the front stretch to bring out the first of the event's two caution flags.

Polesitter Blake Wondra of Fond du Lac grabbed the lead on the opening lap and passed the first three laps before outside front row starter Tony Wondra of Campbellsport rode the high groove to sweep into the lead in turn two on lap four.

On lap 12, 2008 PDTR 360 Sprint Car champion Lance Fassbender of Burnett worked the high line to pressure Blake Wondra for the runner-up spot the two drivers continued to duel for the position as the leaders began to weave their way through slower traffic on the fast and challenging third-mile clay oval track surface.

On lap 16, Arenz, who started eighth, surged past Fassbender and Blake Wondra along the outside line and quickly closed the gap on the leader. Two laps later, Arenz secured the lead from Tony Wondra and began to open up a solid cushion before the second and final caution flag appeared on lap 22 when Alex Pokorski of West Bend spun in turn three and was collected by Fassbender, who was forced to retire from the race, while Pokorski restarted at the rear of the field.

Following a single-file restart with less than five laps remaining, Arenz bolted out to a commanding lead over Tony Wondra en route to his 13th career PDTR 360 Sprint Car A-main win, 25th career Midwest Sprint Car Association main event triumph and third A-main victory in four outings at The Plymouth Dirt Track this year.

Two-time PDTR 360 Sprint Car champion Brandon McMullen of Oshkosh, charged from his 18th starting spot to finish a strong second, Tony Wondra finished third, Blake Wondra placed fourth and sixth starter Brandon Berth of Cascade rounded out the top five.

Outside front row starter Turk Letizia of Milwaukee bolted into the lead on the drop of the green flag of the 25-lap Late Model A main. On lap 4, four-time defending PDTR Late Model champ Justin Schmidt of Cleveland, who started sixth, dove low to pressure the high-riding Letizia for the lead.

On lap 5, the first of two caution flags appeared when Sawyer Specht of Sheboygan Falls spun in turn two. Following the restart, Justin Ritchie, who started eighth, moved into third with four-time PDTR Late Model champ Brad Mueller of Random Lake following into fourth from his fifth starting spot.

With the high-riding Letizia continuing to fend off the low-running Schmidt for the lead, the second and final caution was displayed on lap 11 for debris. On the restart, Ritchie flexed his muscle to utilize the high line to challenge Schmidt for second.

However, Schmidt battled back to surge ahead of Ritchie and move in to pressure Letizia for the lead once again as the top three drivers duelled in very tight quarters for the remainder of the race.

Letizia and Schmidt waged a heated back-and-forth, side-by-side battle over the ensuing six laps before Letizia finally surged ahead. However, it was Ritchie's turn next as he bolted up to the high groove to seize second from Schmidt on lap 19. Three laps later, Ritchie dove underneath Letizia to seize the top spot on lap 22.

Letizia crossed under to the low groove to challenge Ritchie on the next lap, but Ritchie proved to be too strong as he held on over the final two laps to secure his fifth career PDTR Late Model A-main victory and his first Late Model victory of the 2022 season at The Plymouth Dirt Track.

Letizia had to settle for second, Justin Schmidt took third, 11th starter Jim Schmidt of Cleveland placed fourth and Mueller rounded out the top five.

Visiting driver Nick Schumacher of Eagle seized the lead on the opening lap of the 25-lap Grand National A-main from his outside front row starting spot with third starter Matt Loehr sliding into second.

On lap 3, Loehr dove underneath Schumacher in turn four to take over the top spot. By lap 10, Loehr had built up a full straightaway cushion over Schumacher.

Three laps later, Luke Scholten of Oostburg, who started eighth, worked his way into third before the first of two caution flags appeared on lap 14 when Plymouth Dirt Track newcomer Joshua Koslowski of Chilton spun in turn two. On the restart, Scholten moved in to pressure Schumacher for second along the outside groove. However, Schumacher successfully fended off Scholten's advances.

Meanwhile, Loehr remained in control at the front of the pack before the second and final caution flag waved on lap 22 when Koslowski spun again in turn two. After a single-file restart, Loehr bolted away from the field on the way to his 11th career PDTR Grand National A-main victory, which moved him into fifth place on the all-time PDTR Grand National victory list, and his second main event triumph of the 2022 season at Plymouth.

Schumacher placed second, Scholten finished third, 2019 PDTR Grand National champion Tyler Kulow of Plymouth placed fourth after starting ninth and octogenarian Dick Hed of Plymouth finished fifth, after starting fifth, in his first appearance of the season at The Plymouth Dirt Track.

Polesitter Shane Long of Sheboygan Falls grabbed the lead of the 25-lap B Mod A main on the opening lap with outside front row starter Andy Welter of Hartford following in second.

On lap 2, 2018 PDTR B Mod champion Tim Sheppard of Beaver Dam moved up to challenge Welter for second before the first of two caution flags was displayed on lap four when Spencer Long of Sheboygan Falls stalled in turn one.

Following the restart, Sheppard and Welter continued their heated duel for second before fourth starter Travis Schmidt slipped past Welter to take over third. When the leaders caught the reader of the field on lap 15, Sheppard cut the gap on Shane Long significantly.

The second and final caution flag came out on lap 20 when Steve Lorier of Sheboygan spun in turn three. On the restart, Schmidt came to life in a big way to shoot back Sheppard into second on lap 21 along the high groove.

On the following lap, Schmidt, who was making his first appearance of the 2022 season at The Plymouth Dirt Track, bolted around Shane Long to take the lead.

Schmidt maintained the top spot over the final three circuits en route to his sixth career PDTR B Mod A-main victory to move into a tie for second on the all-time PDTR B Mod A-main wins list.

Shane Long had to settle for second, Welter finished third, Sheppard placed fourth and fifth starter James Rautmann of Howards Grove placed fifth.

Alex Pokorski was victorious in the 12-lap PDTR 360 Sprint Car B main.

2011 PDTR 360 Sprint Car champion Ben Schmidt of Plymouth was the overall fastest qualifier in the group qualifying session with a lap of 12.283 seconds.

A total of 18 drivers made their 2022 season debut at The Plymouth Dirt Track with a total of 73 drivers on hand for the Military Night Memorial Day weekend event, which was sponsored by Pedal Down Promotions, including 27 360 Sprint Cars, 12 Late Models, 16 Grand Nationals and 18 B Mods.

CSI Welcomes SSM Health Fond du Lac Regional Clinic as Executive Director

Sachin Jugal, MD, a pediatrician with SSM Health Fond du Lac Regional Clinic, will be serving as the new executive director of Comprehensive Service Integration (CSI) of Fond du Lac County.

CSI of Fond du Lac County is a coalition of community stakeholders and service organizations who work together to support the emotional, social, and physical well-being of all county residents throughout their lifespan.

In this role, Dr. Jugal will oversee the development of a three-year plan with measurable goals that address identified needs from the most recent Community Health Assessment/Community Improvement Plan completed in Fond du Lac County.

As part of this process, Dr. Jugal will work with primary care providers, as well as public health and community agencies, to review and analyze population and patient data related to clinical care and community outcomes, evaluate performance, reveal trends, and identify opportunities.

This work will help to identify unmet needs within the community and begin to engage community members in their own physical and mental care, gather summary information for prevention and treatment interventions, and enhance ongoing communication between community members and health care services.

“We are truly blessed in this community to have individuals and organizations that are so willing to come together to develop thoughtful plans and action steps that will ultimately benefit children, families, and adults in this area,” says Dr. Jugal. “We have all the right tools - data, support, expertise, and most importantly passion - to effectively identify health issues and improve the health outcome of residents of Fond du Lac County and surrounding areas.”

The goal of CSI is to decrease the stigma of mental illness through education, expand crisis intervention and community trauma response services, increase access to mental health providers and to support safe schools and healthy students in Fond du Lac County. That goal will be achieved by reducing violent behaviors, educating on ATODA prevention, supporting social and emotional outcomes for school readiness and school-age students, partnering with community mental health providers, and supporting early intervention and school readiness for young children.

Dr. Jugal will maintain strong relationships with outside provider organizations, state/county agencies and community-based providers, payers, academic institutions, consumers, law enforcement, schools, and other key stakeholders.

A graduate of the Robert Wood Johnson Medical School in Camden, New Jersey, Dr. Jugal completed his pediatrics residency at the St. Louis Children’s Hospital and a pediatrics fellowship at the St. Jude Children’s Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee.

He is board certified in pediatrics. To learn more about CSI of Fond du Lac County visit csifdl.org or the CSI Fond du Lac Facebook page.

AN Outdoorsman's JOURNAL

An Outdoor Future

SELINA WALTERS
COLUMNIST

Mark Walters experienced a loss in his family, and he was unable to provide a column for this week, and he will take a hiatus for portions of this summer. The following is written by his daughter, Selina, about her upcoming work experience in Montana.

I was hoping to do this story later in the summer to cover everything I will do in Montana, but since we ended up having to do this so abruptly, I'll fill you in on all of the steps I have been taking to become a professional in natural resources.

At the end of May, I finished my junior year at UW-Stevens Point where I am double-majoring in fisheries and aquatic sciences and water resources, minoring in soil science and obtaining a certificate in wetland science.

This last year for me, though, has been focused around learning outside of the classroom.

I was the secretary of the UWSP American Fisheries Society (AFS) this last year, and next year will be the vice president. Through AFS, I was able to meet and network with a variety of fisheries professionals; assist in a brook trout movement study where we electro-fished and pit-tagged individuals, did fyke net surveys on the Wisconsin River and helped out with the data collection during the lake sturgeon spawn.

My proudest accomplishment of the year, by far, though, was doing a research project assessing different riparian habitats and macroinvertebrate drift and participating in the UWSP Jim and Katie Krause CNR Research Symposium.

To say it briefly, my study was assessing how different land uses (forested, wetland and agriculture) on the Little Plover River affected the number and composition of aquatic and terrestrial macroinvertebrates present at each site.

Before I started, I was extremely intimidated by the idea of doing research and, honestly, did not think that I would be capable of doing it on my own.

Selina, right, and Rachael electrofishing for brook trout for research study data. SUBMITTED

Luckily, I got to work with a great mentor and friend, Rachael Valeria, who had done the project two years before and was doing a similar project on brook trout diets and riparian land use.

This project was a huge stepping-stone for me, and I am so grateful that I had the opportunity to do it; especially because this project helped me get a new job during the school year, which I absolutely love.

At the beginning of the spring semester, I started a job working in the Aquatic Biomonitoring Lab (ABL) on campus where I sort aquatic macroinvertebrate drift samples.

Essentially, agencies like the DNR send us drift samples which contain aquatic insects from all kinds of waterbodies. By looking at the composition of macroinvertebrates you can make an assumption about the quality of the water and habitat in that area.

Jeff Dimick runs the lab and has instilled his obsession with macroinvertebrates onto many of his student employees, including me.

Shortly after I finished school, I drove out to Eureka, Mont. where I is where I ended up!

Eureka is a small town that the Rocky Mountains run through and largely composed of land owned by the forest service, so there is more natural land than developed, which I love!

Most of my job, so far, has entailed gauging streams to see the amount of discharge running through them. Many of the streams that we gauge are high mountain streams that rely on snow melt to flow, so it is important to see how the flows change as the course of the summer goes on.

Since I have gotten here, it has been relatively cool – there haven't been many days above 70 – rain has been pretty consistent and, when I got here, a lot of the snow was still on the mountains.

Last summer it was apparently in the 90s almost all summer and very dry, so the weather is variable; but this summer's weather is not very common.

Recently, it down-poured here for two days straight and highs were in the 50s, which resulted in more snow on the mountains after much of it had already melted.

Many of these streams were already starting to fill up from the regular snow melt, and now with the additional rain and snow up on the mountains, streams that we gauge are hitting record highs and there is flooding going on.

Soon, I will get into more fish electroshocking and habitat surveys, which I am really looking forward to. We also do a variety of other random small jobs as they come up; last week I went with my bosses to try am working as a fisheries biotechnician for the U.S. Forest Service.

This is my first summer traveling for a job, and I am so happy that this

Boedeker and Vetter take top prize at 44th Annual Mercury National Walleye Tournament

Mercury Marine, a division of Brunswick Corporation (NYSE: BC), announced the confirmed final results of the 44th Annual Mercury National Walleye Tournament. The competition among 282 two angler teams took place June 11-12 on Lake Winnebago and parts of the Fox and Wolf rivers watershed.

The top prize package goes to the team made up of Brad Vetter of Campbellsport and Jon Boedeker of Allenton, whose 10 walleyes (the competition limit) weighed in at 29 pounds, 10 ounces. With this outstanding haul, the team earned the grand prize package comprising a LUND 1875 Impact XS fish and ski boat equipped with a Mercury 150hp Pro XS outboard, a Mercury 9.9hp ProKicker outboard, a MotorGuide trolling motor, $5,000 cash and 2022 championship plaques. The prize package is valued at more than $55,000.

In addition to elation, one of the first reactions from Vetter was relief. "Finally!" he said. "This feels really good."

The pair became friends in high school, fishing and playing baseball together. Since then, they have fished this two day tournament nearly every year for more than 15 years, finishing among the top 10 on several occasions. "We've had some really nice bags, but to put two nice bags together, that's what we had struggled with," Vetter said.

According to Boedeker, the team made several decisions that paid off this year. "We spent most of the two days jigging. We moved quite a bit, mostly fishing the upper part of the system," he said.

The competition was tight, with only 1 pound, 5 ounces separating the first place and third place finishes.

In all, this year's field of competitors caught 1,924 walleyes weighing a total of roughly 3,282 pounds. Billed as a catch and release competition with incentives to bring healthy fish to the weigh ins, the tournament included the services of Mercury release boats. Throughout each day's weigh in process, these boats shuttled live fish back to the lake for release into their habitat. Fisheries experts participated in the weigh ins and deemed nearly 97% of the caught fish to be fit for return to the lake. Those fish that were not fit for return to the lake were properly processed and donated to local charities.

This tournament also upheld its annual custom of donating $10 per entry to Fish America Foundation and $15 per entry to Walleyes for Tomorrow. In 44 years, the Mercury National Walleye Tournament has donated upwards of $500,000 to conservation projects, including efforts benefiting Lake Winnebago and the Fox and Wolf rivers watershed.

Mercury, LUND Boats and MotorGuide provided prizes to the top 80 teams, with a total estimated cash value of prizes exceeding $120,000.
