'I Love Coming Home' – Emerson Lehmann Enjoying New Role at Channel 58

The 2015 Kewaskum High grad is currently the Sunday morning anchor on CBS 58 Milwaukee

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER

Sunday is an important day for just about everyone.

For some, it provides the last few hours to run errands, wrap up work or finish chores without the burden of additional obligations. For others, it's a time for family, spirituality, rest and recreation – a last chance to enjoy the waning moments of the weekend.

And for Kewaskum-native Emerson Lehmann, Sunday is time to tell the news.

Admittedly, for Lehmann – a broadcast journalist who graduated from Kewaskum High School in 2015 – every day is full of breaking accounts, on-location reporting and cultivated storytelling but, on Sunday, Lehmann serves as anchor for CBS 58-Milwaukee's 6 a.m. morning show: CBS 58 Sunday Mornings.

Kewaskum Library could become Standalone Building

ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

The Kewaskum Public Library Foundation is circulating a petition to build a larger, stand-alone public library in Kewaskum. More than 100 people have signed the petition thus far.

The Kewaskum Village Board discussed the petition at its regular board meeting on Monday, Nov. 21. Board members agreed that they would like to meet with the library board to discuss the possibility of having a separate library building.

"There are some other things that have come up that deserve exploring," Village Trustee Dick Knoebel said.

"For the record, I am for two separate buildings," Village Trustee Justin Weninger added.

For over three years, the village has been talking about building a new shared facility building that would house village administrative offices, the village police department and the library.

The village's most recent plan was to raze two buildings, the annex building and the current municipal building that houses the police

Huddle

Dear Reader,

We all huddle. Huddle, what does that mean? It means we are all in this together. We have to make it work; no matter how hard it is or seems when looking to the future.

Recently I witnessed two people of very distinct orientations coming together in difficult circumstances. It was inspiring, and it caused me to wonder. Can't we put aside our ingrained prejudices and biases, and teach our children something better for their lives and their children? Can't we give them an example of what the world may be, could possibly be, with us actually acting as the adults and inspirations of goodness in the world? I'd like to think the answer is yes.

It's the kind of treat which, during this chillier season, some may ask, should I indulge? Perhaps it is too cold. To which many of us holler a resolute NO! As the saying goes, I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream. Never too cold for that. Though the choices of where to buy said frozen delight are a bit more limited at the moment.

By the time you read these words, both Fond du Lac's drive-ins will be closed. Christmas trees started arriving on Gilles lot shortly thereafter. Bound as tightly as evergreen hostages. Held captive until just before Thanksgiving Day.

You can choose custard at Culvers or soft serve at DQ®. A third option is to saunter out to Kelley's Country Creamery on Highway B near Eden. The rustic nature of the place, a line of white rocking chairs on the front porch in warmer weather carries over inside. Polished plank floors and worn varnish tables give an air of a farm kitchen. Complete with nondescript valances above multi-squared windows. A rural image amplified by the swing doors of the back house straight out of a small town cafe. An entire wall wide mural in the men's room; a green tractor on a dirt drive, the patchwork colors of various crops in the background lends an artistic touch. Along with framed prints above the half their height oak wainscoted walls in the dining room, which cover the whole agricultural range, from cows grazing to milking them and on to delivery.

Where better to relish any of numerous flavors? Served in single, double or triple scoop cones and dishes. Down a side hallway, you can even watch the creamery produce the stuff behind a window. Straight from the cows. As close to organic as ice cream comes. When we talk about pure tasty pleasure, it doesn't get any better than this.

Change

ROY SMALLEY
CONTRIBUTOR

Jack Welch, former chairman and CEO of General Electric, famously said: "Change before you have to."

When it comes to your health and wellness, this is especially true.

Neglect caring for your body now, and one day you may be forced to make changes like taking meds, having surgeries or therapies, or moving into assisted living.

Recommended physical activity includes 150 minutes per week of activities that work your cardiovascular system (like brisk walking), and at least 2 days per week of activities that strengthen muscles.

The majority of Americans aren't getting those minimums, and one-in-four get no exercise at all. Studies have concluded that sitting for eight hours or more per day with no physical activity carries the same health risks as being extremely overweight or smoking.

The good news is that small changes now can provide major health benefits in the future.

For example: as little as 30 minutes per week of exercise to strengthen your muscles has been shown to significantly lower your risk of an early death, and adding just 30 minutes of cardiovascular exercise per week doubles that effect.

While 30 minutes a week is good, more is better: a sedentary 40-year-old who goes for a brisk 30-minute walk four times per week will have about the same low risk of heart attack as someone who's been exercising regularly their entire life!

Even a simple change like reducing how much you sit can change your health.

In fact, a study in England showed that standing for three hours per day provided the same physical activity benefit as running 10 marathons per year!

That change from sitting to standing improved arthritis symptoms, resting heart rate and blood pressure and blood glucose levels. In addition, standing those extra couple of hours per day burned roughly 50 calories per hour. Over the course of a year, that could add up to about 30,000 calories – about eight pounds of fat.

Given this, it's not difficult to see the cumulative benefits of small changes to your daily routine – like taking the stairs instead of the elevator or standing while you're talking on the phone. Even a change as seemingly small as drinking a big glass of water when you wake up can benefit your blood pressure, heart rate, mood and energy levels all day long.

There's another change we've had to deal with recently – the time change.

A few weeks ago, we all had to "fall back" to normal time from "daylight saving time," which means earlier sunsets and longer nights as the northern hemisphere shifts into winter.

When it's colder and darker, it can be more difficult to get your body moving.

The change in time and change in weather requires a change in thinking!

When you're thinking small changes, think walking. It's the simplest way to keep your body healthy and your mind sharp – but going for a daily walk now might require some planning ahead and bundling up.

If being outside in the winter really isn't your jam, there's the TAG Center right here in Mayville, which features an indoor walking track, treadmills and other cardiovascular equipment to keep your blood pumping and body moving inside where it's warm and well-lit. Your employer or health insurance carrier might even cover part or all of your membership!

If you're not open to a gym membership, your change might have to include creative activities at home like a home treadmill, stationary bike or follow-along exercise videos on DVD, YouTube or a favorite streaming service.

There are lots of changes that we have to deal with in life, but three things will always stay the same:

First, your body needs to move. Second, even small amounts of exercise can have big benefits. Third, changes in health require changes in habits.

Remember that we don't decide our future – we decide our habits, and our habits determine our future.

State Senator Duey Stroebel Honored with W.M.C's 'Working for Wisconsin Award'

Stroebel represents the 20th Senate District of Wisconsin which includes most of Washington County and parts of Fond du Lac County Wisconsin Manufacturers & Commerce (WMC) – the combined state chamber of commerce and manufacturers' association – presented state Sen. Duey Stroebel with a Working for Wisconsin Award. Sen. Stroebel was honored for his work during the most recent legislative session.

The Working for Wisconsin Award recognizes legislators who supported specific pro-growth policies and earned a high rating on WMC's biennial legislative scorecard.

"Wisconsin is fortunate to have so many legislative leaders who consistently vote to improve our state's business climate," said WMC President & CEO Kurt R. Bauer. "When legislators actively work to improve our state's tax, regulatory and legal climate, it fosters an environment where Wisconsin's economy can flourish."

The fine for violating the ordinance is: $20 if paid within five days of the issuance of the parking citation; $30 if paid between six 28 days; and after 28 days, the amount is $40 and a notice will be sent to the Motor Vehicle Department to suspend any and all vehicle registrations held by the owner and refuse renewals of the same until the citation is satisfied.

The owner of the vehicle is responsible for the payment of the citation regardless of who was the operator of the vehicle.

Parkview. The parade will make its way south on Parkview before turning west on Main Street. Once it reaches Fond du Lac Avenue, the parade will turn north before turning right onto First Street, where it ends.

The detour route for traffic during the parade will consist of Knights Avenue, Western Avenue, Brooklane Drive and Clinton Street. There will be no parking on the detour route so traffic can flow more easily.

All parade participants should line up by turning from Highway 45 onto Old Fond du Lac Avenue, and then right onto Wildlife Drive. Turn right onto Reigle Drive, and parade officials will direct participants from that point. Lineup will begin on Third Street and then follow along Reigle Drive.

The annual parade is organized by the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce, which funds the parade through sponsorships, membership fees and event revenues.

Number Seventy-four

KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

She walked out of the barn in the middle of October, and didn't come back. Her number was #74, and the exit marked an end to an era that expanded 175 years. Although she was just another cow to many, her life accents the history of dairy farming in Ashford Township.

Worn with Age

She was weathered like any farmer dedicated to their land. Twelve and a half years old, she had 10 separate pregnancies, at least one of which included twins. There was an element of fortitude to this registered Holstein.

So many things can go wrong on the farm – not just to the status of a cow, but to the health of the farmer. I cannot help but think of neighbor, farmer, and friend Lizzie Weiland, who once told me all the surgeries she endured in her life. Yet the only time I remembered her crying was when she explained what it was like to sell the last few cows.

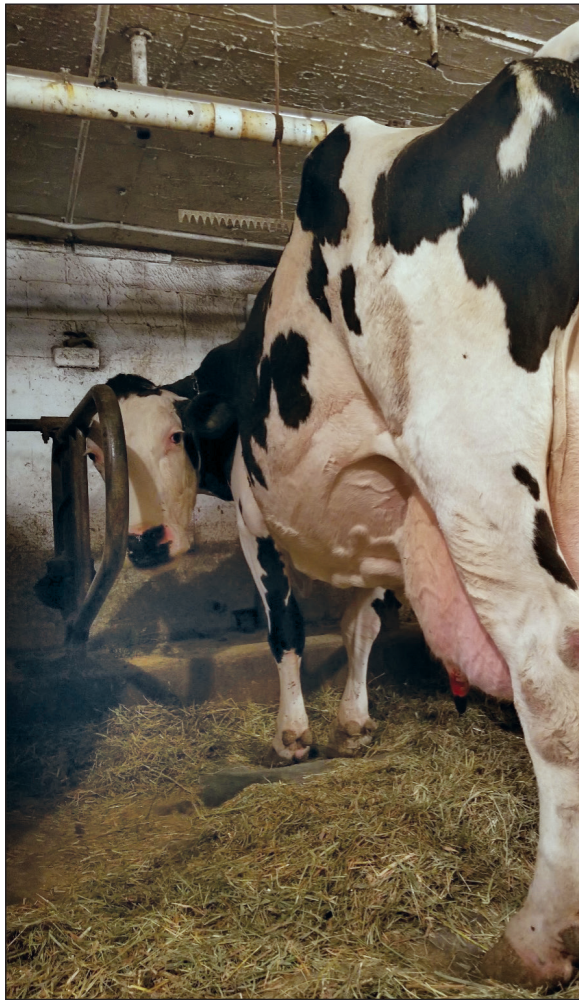

Her daughter Jane Hutchinson once explained to me how doctors can just tell a history of a patient's body by asking "Were you raised on a farm?" The herky-jerky movements over gates and pitching manure take its toll – from bad hips, arched backs and curving rheumatoid arthritis. These are just some effects from the punishment of the pipeline, and the constant walking on cement. When it comes to health, the farmer sometimes matches the cow.

When it came to her own dozen years, 74 was remarkably strong. So many things can go wrong with a cow, such as bad bouts with mastitis or milk fever after calving. She too had the mark of age. There was her low, long hanging udder, which could have been stepped on by her neighbor or herself. My friend and fellow farm kid Sarah (Theisen) Maury commented on the picture. "Look at the bag on her!" This is the classical remark you'd expect from one raised in America's Dairyland. The look of that cow had an aura mixed with sage, time and prestige.

Cattle can live up to 15-20 years, but given dairy cows are meant to produce milk at a high level, their average life span is much less. Estimates vary, but five to seven years in 2022 is a decent lifespan. Number 74 doubled it. She was the Grandma Moses of St. Kilian cows.

Satisfaction in Milking

Seventy-four was remarkably docile. Some cows squeeze into you (Obnoxious!) when you are hooking up or taking away the milker. There was always plenty of room when I was milking her. She took about 10 minutes to milk. It was a longer, slower process with her. Cows seemed to take about five to seven minutes with the De Lavel automatic takeoff, but with 74 it would last 10-12 minutes. This was a nice reprieve at the beginning of milking, as she was at the west end of the barn and was milked about 15 minutes into milking. My brother (or dad) and I were milking with four milkers on each side, so 74 was the part of milking when the pace slowed.

I also enjoyed milking her because she reminded me of the Old-School type of cow. Occasionally I "stripped" her out – this was a little pre-milking squeeze to get her comfortable with letting her milk down. It took her a while to warm up. Oxytocin is the hormone that makes a cow release her milk. She did not drop her milk immediately. The more you stripped

Winter Birds and How to Attract Them

The December program in the Evening with Nature Series at the Kettle Moraine State Forest – Northern Unit is "Winter Birds and How to Attract Them." The program will be held on Thursday, Dec. 10, from 7-8:30 p.m. at the Ice Age Visitor Center. The Ice Age Visitor Center is located at N2875 Hwy 67, Campbellsport, which is a half mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

As the cold weather settles over the Wisconsin landscape, many birds head to warmer even tropical climates. But, there are numerous species which remain to tough out rigorous weather and some that even migrate from the North to enjoy our balmy winters. For a lot of people, it's a special treat on a dull gray day of winter to catch a glimpse of a bright red cardinal or hear the cheery notes of a chickadee.

Bill Volkert, naturalist and avid birder, will explain what birds remain through the cold and snow of a Wisconsin winter and which ones are most likely to be seen in our area. He will provide tips and techniques of attracting these hardy feathered friends to your yard by meeting their basic needs of survival. He will also cover how to keep your bird feeding area free from disease and unhealthy practices. Make sure to join us for an evening with the birds.

Further information or directions to the Ice Age Visitor Center, are available by contacting a staff member at 920-533-8322. The center's December hours are Wednesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The center will be closed for the Christmas and New Year holidays.

U.W.M.-Washington County Campus Task Force

In light of the recent announcement from the University of Wisconsin System that the UW-Platteville Richland Campus will close next fall, Washington County Executive Josh Schoemann would like to provide an update on the status of the UWM-Washington County Campus Task Force he created in May of 2021. Demographic trends on lower student enrollments prompted a proactive evaluation of how best to sustain the campus.

The UWM-WC Task Force is comprised of 11 members representing a broad cross-section of county government, business, academic and non-profit leaders. (See list of members below). The group's co-chairs, John Torinus, former CEO of Serigraph, and Paul Stangl, President of Wisconsin Stamping, are working to formulate a productive conclusion of task force recommendations on the future of the campus in early 2023.

"It's important to consider additional initiatives aimed at attracting and retaining the next generation in Washington County," said Schoemann. "Exploring connections to employment and career alignment with students and industry needs supports this effort."

Washington County is one of only two counties in southeast Wisconsin that does not have a four-year college institution. UWM at Washington County, through collaborative arrangements with four-year campuses, offers bachelor's degree programs in addition to a guaranteed transfer to any University of Wisconsin System four-year university.

D.N.R. Offers Free Tree Seedlings for Wisconsin Fourth-Graders

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Every year since 1984, Wisconsin fourth-grade students have been eligible to receive a free tree seedling from the DNR reforestation program to complement their Arbor Day observations.

The application period for the "2022-23 Arbor Day Free Tree Seedlings for Wisconsin 4th Graders" is now open. School principals, fourth-grade teachers and fourth-grade homeschool parents are encouraged to visit dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/treeplanting/arborform to order seedlings for Wisconsin 4th-grade students.

The seedlings will be shipped next spring in time for Arbor Day celebrations. Included will be a protective bag and instructions on how to plant and care for the seedlings.

Planting a seedling and watching it grow can be a great learning tool for students. Find additional ideas for planning an Arbor Day celebration at dnr.wisconsin.gov/education/arborday.

If you have any questions about the free seedling program for Wisconsin fourth-graders, please contact Carey Skerven at the Griffith State Nursery (Carey.Skerven@wisconsin.gov).

Students in Dodge County help city employees plant a tree for 2019's Arbor Day celebrations. Fourth-graders from across the state can order free tree seedlings to be planted in their communities, again, for Arbor Day in 2023.

her, the more she let her milk down earlier.

In addition, my understanding from other retired farmers is the teats on cows used to be much longer in the beginning of the 1900s. As artificial breeding improved the desired qualities of the cows, their teats were genetically altered to be shorter. One of the pros of these genes was the effect that less teats were stepped on, especially paired with higher udder support. In contrast, 74's body type was a throwback to the past. However, she was a pleasure to milk. Her four long appendages made her fun to watch empty because I'd "put the hold" on the machine and milk her out a little longer before the electronic gauge automatically took the milker off the cow. This extra time would shrivel her udder, make sure she milked out to prevent mastitis, and then make it easy to post-dip her. This may be too much information, but to a farmer I think there is something calming about the animal where all the chores revolving around her are smooth. The youth sometimes call it "satisfying," such as rhythmic videos on TikTok that they may watch to relax. This relaxing motion has always been on the farm if you are willing to find it. Occasionally just the right animal soothes the farmer. In the business of life, and the farm, it's important to connect with living creatures who ground you to calmness. This is all around you if you choose to see it.

By the Numbers

This old cow broke many records for our farm. First, she nearly hit 300,000 pounds of milk. At the end of her ninth lactation, her records suggested she gave 261,000 lbs. of milk. Conversing with my brother Ryan, who farmed full-time with my parents, he estimated that she was pushing somewhere between 25,000 and 30,000 since her last calving to add to the poundage.

These tests are courtesy of Danny Salter, who tested our milk at mom and dad's farm for decades. I can remember him helping my parents test the milk before I was age seven or so. Besides Bob Coulter, I don't know anybody else who tested our milk. These tests were about once a month. Given 74 was milking more than 10 years, she likely tested approximately 100 times.

Besides her dozen years of life, I think the most impressive number was her output her last week. I would milk in the evenings after teaching at Oakfield; she would milk 38 to 42 pounds at night. She had a tendency to milk more in the mornings, pushing 45 to 50 lbs. Conservatively, 74 milked more than 80 pounds a day the week before she left. Not bad for a bovine dinosaur ("bovinosaur"?).

Old Names on a Landscape

My parents (Jim and Deb) bought their farm from Neal and Lyra Straub. Neal was the fourth generation Straub to dairy farm, but they had no children. Dad and mom came to the farm in the early 1980s after, among other things, dad insured Neal his family would join St. Kilian parish. By 1990 they started to buy it.

When you grow up on a farm, all the territory you drive by, rent, or pass over become synonymous with the farmers. The following words in quotes are vocab from our farm as it relates to the land in Ashford Township. This include "Flasch's" (Roland "Butch" and Eileen's farm); "Lizzie and Leander's" (Weiland); "Jacak's" (Roger and Carol); "Ed Mueller's"; "Old Joe Mueller's"; "Tony's" (and Regina Wondra's); "Leo Flasch's Lane"; "Harlow's" (Harlou and Karen Keller's); "Strassman's" (Neil and Claudia), "Gary's" (and Michelle Weiland) and "Mueller's" (Mark and Kim).

These are just some of the many. This list is not exclusive, but it covers between a thousand or two acres in lower Ashford Township. Some of these farmers haven't had cows for more than half a century (Leo Flasch died in 1967), others stopped milking cows more recently. Of the above list, only Gary still milks cows. Still, on this list of local landmarks, my parents held on for a very long time. I can't help but to hope that in 50 years people will still know what the landscape was named. It took generations to build the farms, maintain them, and raise children. Sadly, the time it takes to make something worth remembering may not be the length of time it is remembered.

That is the real concern: there is something else being culled besides 74.

What Went Out the Door?

Most important with 74 was her ending. Life, like time on the farm, never lasts as long as we'd like. I would love to say 74 hit 300,000 lbs of milk. She did not. We did not get another Danny Salter test to polish off her official numbers. Similarly, it would have been nice if the grandkids could have enjoyed the farm a little bit more as it functioned. And if they would have been old enough to milk cows.

On October 13, I saw a cow with a long bag, aged hips and a slow gait walk out of the barn between 74 and the barn's opening. This came in a twilight dream. I charted what I saw in my sleep, but didn't think anything of it, as I knew 74 was still on the farm. I should have known better.

She left McCarty Farms within a week. She got mastitis in a quarter and, with 75 percent of the herd already sold, the clock had run out on this Holstein. I did not get to say goodbye, but I petted her well after one of my last milkings. I sensed the photos I took of her meant something to her spirit.

I asked my brother Ryan how 74 loaded up to the truck when Schwartz pulled up to haul her away. She didn't put up a fight, "She knew it was time."

Her resignation paralleled the fading of small dairy farms, which was the center to the history of this area. It formed hard-working children and made neighbors dependent upon each other.

Because these men and women worked the land, their lives pierced the surface of history deeper than landscape shaped by their plow. Has too much time already passed, that many can't understand an obituary for a small farm's dairy cow?

With mild temperatures and a clear sky, conditions were ideal for the Kewaskum Christmas Parade on December 3. The hour-long parade included 18 floats, each decorated for this year's theme of Silver Screen Holidays. The winning float was Geidel's Piggly Wiggly's whimsical yet elaborate float that featured the Grinch overlooking Whoville. Two floats tied for second place - the Kewaskum Cub Scouts and the Kewaskum Youth Soccer Organization.

The Kewaskum Remembers 9/11 Memorial is a little closer to becoming a reality, after attracting supporters from across the country. The memorial is receiving a $50,000 donation from the W. Martin and Andrea A. Deputy Beacon Foundation, which is based in South Carolina. W. Martin Deputy has lived in South Carolina for 20 years but he has ties to the area. His first job was working at Piper's Restaurant in Mequon, which was owned by Gordon Haberman. Gordon's daughter, Andrea, was one of the people killed in the World Trade Center terrorist attacks.

Rep. Jesse Kremer of Kewaskum, was one of the co-sponsors of the Farm Freedom Act, which was recently signed by Gov. Scott Walker. The bill was unanimously supported by both the Wisconsin Senate and Assembly.

The Kewaskum Board of Education is happy to announce that the predicted tax increase of 19 cents per $1,000 of property value has decreased to 7.5 cents per $1,000. This means that a property valued at $200,000 will realize a $15 increase versus the predicted $38 increase.

Kewaskum's third annual Cookie Hunt was held December 3. All proceeds went to the food pantry. The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored the event.

As a team, the Indians placed fourth in the 16-team field. Coach Scott Rhoads pointed out that 14 of the 16 teams in the competition are Division 1 schools.

Although Maxine Paulowske scored 20 points against Random Lake, the Lady Indians lost 61-45 to the Rams. She scored 20 in the 59-37 loss to West Bend East.

The past several days have been successful for the Kewaskum Boys Basketball Team. After being behind 24-21 at halftime against Kiel, the Indians scored 32 points in the second half and won the November 28 game 53-40. Brad Buechel scored 17, Jared Chesak had 12, and Jordan Carlton had 10. In the November 30 game against North Fond du Lac, Kewaskum was victorious 70-58. Carlton scored 22 and Chesak 20 in the victory. The third victory was December 2 and the Indians beat Mayville 60-57 in overtime. Carlton had 24, Chesak had 11, and Buechel had 10.

It was a question of raising taxes because they were able or having foresight for the largest road project the Village of Kewaskum has ever seen. The bottom line is village trustees approved a $5,118,954 budget with a $6.60 tax rate. Village Administrator Jay Shambeau informed the trustees that due to the amount of growth the village experienced, they had the opportunity to increase the levy by 4.09 percent instead of the 3.86 percent set by the state legislature. Raising the levy saw an additional $18,000 that could be added to the budget and Shambeau urged the trustees to consider placing that money into the street maintenance account.

More than 650 area residents attended and enjoyed A Kettle Country Christmas, the 25th annual art and craft show that is sponsored by the GFWC Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club.

Winter parking is now in effect in the Village of Kewaskum. That means vehicles cannot be on the streets after midnight to avoid paying a citation.

Each year, the Green Bay Packers and NFL Charities recognize outstanding volunteers within the State of Wisconsin through the Green Bay Packers Community Quarterback Award. Dan Dymond, a senior at Kewaskum High School and member of the 2007 Indians football team, is one of five students from Wisconsin to be recognized for their volunteer efforts. A grant of $1,000 will be made to The Council on AODA, on Dymond's behalf, which will be divided equally between Kewaskum Cares About Kids and STAND (students taking action not drugs). Dymond volunteers for these two programs. He will receive the Green Bay Packers Junior Quarterback Volunteer Award.

Kewaskum High School grad Nathan Kenworthy has joined the staff of the Statesman to cover sports.

The Lady Indians are currently on a losing streak. Kewaskum lost 47-30 to Random Lake on November 27 and 50-35 to Plymouth on November 29. The Lady Indians did not look good in the December 2 game against Mayville, falling behind 25-8 at half-time, but the girls stormed back in the second half to take a lead but lost 40-37.

After a 74-31 loss to Plymouth on November 30, the Kewaskum boys basketball team will try to rebound and beat Waupun on December 6.

The Washington County Drug Information Center is requesting that all county schools survey their students concerning attitudes toward various drugs. It was agreed that an attempt would be made to schedule a meeting of school administrators of Washington County and members of the Drug Information Center to discuss the questionnaire and try to arrive at one survey acceptable to all groups.

KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

As we head into the last month of the year, there is always a challenge for the library. We need to get our book orders in before the cutoff while being mindful of our budget. We do not want to go over our budget, but also look to spend as much as we can that is allocated for books. Here are some of the materials coming to the library at the end of 2023. There should be plenty of choices for all readers to check out.

I am looking forward to some of the fiction releases in some of my down time at home during the holiday season. I like suspense and there are many coming our way. We Knew All Along by Mina Hardy is a domestic thriller and a modern day take on the classic film "Gaslight." A class reunion encounter leaves Jewelann Jordan with more secrets she has been keeping from her husband which includes surprising revenge. Hannah Morrissey is a Wisconsin writer and her second novel, The Widowmaker also takes place in the fictional town of Black Harbor. This thriller is dark and moody while following a detective trying to solve a long cold disappearance case. Roses, in the Mouth of a Lion is an NPR best book of the year. Author Bushra Rehman brings us a fiercely compassionate coming-of-age story of a girl struggling to reconcile her own heritage and faith with her desire to be true to herself. A powerful group of women, the Sophie Foundation, meet over wine and cheese to review files of men who behave very, very badly, and then mete out justice in Darby Kane's newest, The Last Invitation. Also, look for new novels by Jane Smiley, Elinor Lipman, Cormac McCarthy and Lisa Jackson.

In non-fiction, Pests: How Humans Create Animal Villains is an eye-opening account of why certain animals are vilified and others are beloved. Science writer, Bethany Brookshire explores humans' perspectives on what many consider pests. Margareta Magnusson releases her newest in her series, The Swedish Art of Aging Exuberantly: Life Wisdom from Someone Who Will (Probably) Die Before You. In this book, she shows us how to prepare for and understand the aging process in a graceful yet humorous manner. Blue Zones are places in the world where people have longer life expectancies as studied by several researchers including author Dan Buettner. In his book, The Blue Zones American Kitchen: 100 Recipes to Live to 100, look for recipes that can alleviate obesity, heart disease and more.

For kids, there will be many new releases including new books about dogs Clifford and Spot. Check out the newest graphic novels with The Baby-Sitters Club, Bad Kitty and Wings of Fire. Minecrafters should look for Castle Redstone. For teens, check out Nine Liars by Maureen Johnson and A Million to One by Adiba Jaigirdar.

That was just a small sampling of all new books coming to you this month for your winter reads.

“It’s been pretty surreal, to be honest,” said Lehmann from his hometown coffee shop on Sept. 11 of this year; that same morning, he officially anchored his first show on CBS 58 before serving as a keynote speaker at Kewaskum’s 9/11 Memorial program. “You put all this hard work into [a career], and to know that it’s being appreciated; you can’t beat that feeling.”

Despite the dizzying pace of his success, Lehmann is still walking the path he set out for himself when he embarked on this career journey.

“When I went to school to do this, I knew I wanted to be in Milwaukee,” he said. “That was my goal.”

Lehmann graduated from Ball State University (Ind.) in 2019 with a bachelor’s degree in telecommunications (with an emphasis on news and journalism).

He started his career as a reporter and weekend anchor at WSAW-TV, a CBS-affiliate in Wausau.

But an internship prior, at Channel 12 in Milwaukee, made Lehmann view the region as a potential permanent stay.

“I wanted to go back to where I interned,” he said, and took a shot applying for an opening at 58. “I’m a big believer in – and I get it from my mom – that everything happens for a reason, and I could not be happier than at the station I am at.”

Upon arriving at CBS 58, Lehmann immediately got to work turning over stones in his main coverage metro – Milwaukee – but he was also quick to highlight stories in his hometown and the surrounding area. One of his earliest reports was on a Downtown Kewaskum restaurant. He also covered the village’s 125th anniversary and Founder’s Day celebration.

His dedication to and understanding of his home region of Southeast Wisconsin, according to CBS 58 Assistant News Director Tony Capriolo, is one of many qualities that have made Lehmann such a valuable hire for the station.

“He loves this area,” confirmed Capriolo, who noted that Milwaukee is a “transitory” market wherein broadcast professionals often do not stay long, leaving for jobs in Chicago, New York or other larger markets. “Emerson unabashedly pitched Kewaskum’s Founder’s Day, and he went out there and knocked [the story] out of the park. He knows things other people don’t know [having grown] up here. He knows what’s important and wants to tell stories that are important to people.”

Beyond just knowing one’s hometown, Capriolo said Lehmann is a multi-faceted journalist with gobs of talent and even more potential. He said the sky is the limit for Lehmann, whether with CBS 58 or in another market.

Emerson Lehmann at the CBS 58 television studios. The Kewaskum native has taken the “Your Hometown” portion of the CBS 58’s motto literally, as he has covered several events around the Northern Kettle Moraine since joining the Milwaukee T.V. station last November. This September, he was promoted to Sunday morning anchor. SUBMITTED

If Jerry Lewis (the comedian) was a “total filmmaker”, Lehmann (the journalist) could be called a “total storyteller.”

“Emerson is a good pitcher. He knows – not just the story idea – but he’s also good at touching base... [as] the story changes,” noted Capriolo, adding that Lehmann also knows to direct his photojournalists and videographers when capturing content for on-air and digital pieces. “He’s always working with someone, and he’s very good at understanding what he gathered in the field.”

Capriolo said sounds such as an innocuous car horn or even the messy sizzle of grease fryers in a kitchen do not get by Lehmann. These “nuggets” or “pops” might seem trivial, but the young broadcast journalist uses the audio in his reports to help tell his story.

While the biggest narratives come out of Milwaukee, Lehmann enjoys the attention-to-detail required of stories told in smaller communities, as well.

“I really appreciate the small towns,” he said. “In some markets, they don’t think about the small towns or smaller neighborhoods. They just think about the ‘main city’ or the ‘main location.’ And my station has been really good about allowing [reporters] to tell community-based stories in Milwaukee and the surrounding towns.”

Of course, he was quick to note that – as any good reporter should be – he’s always eager to find a breaking story.

“Don’t get me wrong,” he said. “I love breaking news just like the next person. I’m a bit of an adrenaline junky. You get an adrenaline rush with breaking news.”

That admission checks out.

His former dream was to be a racecar driver. Growing up, he raced Legends cars locally as well as snowmobiles and go-carts. He maintains his fandom of motorsports, but he’s mostly given up the wheel for his ambitions in journalism and community engagement.

“I love making people smile,” he said. “Telling stories, making people feel something ... those community stories are the ones that let you do that.”

Pulling back the curtain, even though he admitted his bias is apparent, Lehmann lauded his team at CBS 58, saying there is a shared mission to tell good stories, the right way and in a palatable format for viewers.

“Our videography, our storytelling... I couldn’t be in a better spot,” he said, noting that, shortly after joining the team, the station replaced a departing news director with Jessie Garcia (formerly of WTMJ-TV). While getting a new boss can serve-up fresh anxiety, Lehmann spoke with admiration of Garcia; she’s a decades-long professional in the industry. “I had a couple of friends reach out to me in the business, and they told me [we were] getting a really good leader. She came in and just immediately made her mark.”

For Capriolo, who was hired shortly after Garcia, he, too, looks around and sees the makings of a solid news team, and Lehmann of Kewaskum appears to be center of the station’s future vision.

“We want Emerson as long as he wants to be here,” said Capriolo.

The last year has really been a homecoming of sorts for Lehmann, and the novelty of being back home still has not seemed to wear off (if it ever will). While Lehmann resides closer to Milwaukee, he’s in the Northern Kettle Moraine regularly to visit friends and family.

“I love coming home, because it will never not warm my heart to have someone come up and say, ‘I love watching you,’” he said, adding that the best is when a hometown viewer has admitted to changing stations just to watch his program. “My grandparents watched [another channel] for years, and they watch 58 everyday, now!”

At just 26 years old (as of last week), there will be plenty of screen time for the Kewaskum native in the coming years, but even though he’s achieved so much, Lehmann maintains a humble demeanor and thankful attitude for the support and opportunity.

“I know it’s a very important profession, but I am very privileged to have someone take an hour out of their day to sit down and watch the show we produce,” he said. “It’s something I am proud to be a part of. A day does not go by that I do not feel thankful for what I do.”

Catch Emerson Lehmann reporting on channel 58 throughout the week, and watch him anchor CBS 58 Sunday Mornings every Sunday starting at 6 a.m.

department, village hall and library, and replace them with one new shared facility building. The proposed 27,000-square-foot building would be built where the annex currently stands and extend across a portion of the municipal parking lot. Local business owners have voiced concerns over losing parking spaces with that plan, and the Wisconsin 9/11 Memorial Board is concerned about the loss of green space east of the memorial.

Village Administrator Adam Gitter told the board that the village thus far has invested more than $12,000 into the project with Excel Engineering, the firm designing the new building. A construction manager will be hired to work on the project regardless of whether there is one shared facility or two separate buildings.

The Kewaskum Public Library Board has discussed expanding the library for more than a decade. In 2013, the Kewaskum Public Library Foundation, which is a 501c3 nonprofit organization, purchased land adjacent to the present library for future expansion.

In 2019, the Library Foundation donated the land to the village after receiving a letter from the village that stated the village may not consider any library expansion/construction if the land was not donated to the village.

The most recent drawings for a proposed shared facility at the annex site show the library covering 6,316 square feet on the second floor of a 27,000-square-foot building. At the current location, the library is 3,058 square feet, and the donated land would have allowed the library to add approximately 6,000 square feet to the library's current footprint, according to the library foundation's petition.

"The Library Foundation was hopeful that we would get at least 9,000 square feet for our new library. We also are very concerned about a library being located on a second floor. It is our proposal that a separate one-story building for the library be built on its own site," the petition states.

The Kewaskum Public Library is funded only in part through the village; it is also supported by Washington County. In 2023, the library will receive $84,181 from Washington County, an increase of $16,309 from the county's contribution of $67,872 in 2022. The increase is due to a new formula the county is using based on the number of library patrons from the towns of Wayne, Kewaskum and Farmington.

The Kewaskum Public Library's proposed budget for 2023 called for $5,311.53 less from the village's tax levy than it received in 2022.

At last week's meeting, the Kewaskum Village Board voted unanimously to cut the library's proposed budget by an additional $16,000. The board voted to reallocate the funds to the following initiatives: $7,000 increase in the salary for the Department of Public Works working foreman's salary; $5,000 for storm sewer maintenance; and $4,000 for crack filling.

The village's total property tax amount for the 2023 budget is $2,541,423, an increase of 1.94 percent over the 2022 budget.

A total of 56,638 bucks were registered on opening weekend, compared to 47,529 in 2021. This is a 14% increase over 2021 and is 2% above the 5-year average.

Conditions for opening weekend this year included some snow cover but were cold with high winds, particularly on Saturday, which suppressed some hunter activity. Conditions improved slightly on Sunday, but wind chill was still a factor in some parts of the state.

Despite the challenging conditions, hunters saw good deer movement overall, with some evidence of bucks still showing breeding behavior.

Throughout the state, warming temperatures during the week will likely lead to a loss of the snow cover in parts of the state. Where it doesn't melt completely, it will result in crunchy conditions from daytime melting and refreezing at night. Beyond the rain on Thanksgiving Day, conditions were great for hunting during the remainder of the gun deer season.

Registration of Deer Required with GameReg

As a reminder, hunters are required to register their deer by 5 p.m. the day after recovery through GameReg, the game registration system. Harvested deer may be registered in one of three ways:

- Online: gamereg.wi.gov (fastest and easiest method)
- Phone: 1-844-426-3734. When prompted, use your phone keypad to spell the first three letters of the county. For example, a registrant in Adams County would spell A-D-A by pressing "232."
- In-Person: Find a station that offers a phone or computer for registration through the online hunting resources stations portal.

Reminder: When registering, you will need your unique harvest authorization number to begin the process.

Opening Weekend Hunting Incidents

At the publication time of this news release, the DNR reported six firearm-involved hunting incidents during the opening weekend of the 2022 gun deer season, Nov. 19-20.

- Sauk County, Woodland Township: On Nov. 19, 2022, at approximately 11:10 a.m., a 22-year-old male was the victim of a gunshot wound to the thigh. During a deer drive, a 20-year-old male shooter, who was a driver in the hunting party, shot at a running deer, striking the victim, who was a stander in the hunting party. The victim was transported to the hospital and treated.

- Marquette County, Mecan Township: On Nov. 19, 2022, at approximately noon, while in a ground blind in a field, a 69-year-old female was the victim of a gunshot wound to the thigh. A 16-year-old male shooter was hunting from his ground blind in an open field, separated by a pond from the victim, when he shot at a deer, striking the victim. The victim was transported to a nearby hospital and treated. The shooter and victim were members of same hunting party.

- Oneida County, Little Rice Township: On Nov. 19, 2022, at approximately 1:30 p.m., a 24-year-old male suffered a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the foot. and wolf since their return.

It was 51 opening days of the deer gun season when I first hunted here and I have never missed an opening day.

Back in '87, I attempted to canoe up the entire Mississippi River. I made it 980 miles before an injury to my left wrists ended that journey. That fall, I purchased a camper and started what I call fall camp, which in reality replaced the canvas tent The Red Brush Gang used.

Adjacent to the camper, I created a 12x14-foot shed, and I loved the life I created while staying at "Fall Camp" for more than 90 days and well into the winter for the next 10 years.

Simply put, I hunted with a bow and gun for deer. Shotgun for ducks, geese and grouse and, when the local waters froze over, I ice fished. I also trapped for beaver, muskrat, mink and raccoon. At night, I would cross country ski and ice skate on the flowages.

The way I was able to pull this off was that I began writing the column that you are reading in 1989 for The Poynette Press for $10 per week. I self-syndicated in '91 and added five more papers for a paycheck of $60 per-week.

My life was simple. I would do five-to-seven-day trips, hand write my column, snail mail it to Dick and Molly Emerson and they would make sure the system worked. I would take photos, go to a one-hour film developer and snail mail them to my papers. At its peak, I was printed in 70 publications in 1999.

The Red Brush Gang is made up of family and friends of whom almost all of the elders went to Poynette High School. We started having kids and, by about the year 2005, we had 17 in our group, and they were allowed to come to camp-build weekend as soon as they were done filling their diapers.

Another very interesting story is that until about the year 2000 almost all of our bucks that we harvested were six-pointers and under. In our big buck contest, a typical winner was a fork horn with a eight-inch spread. In reality, we did not care, there were so many deer that our hunts were loaded with action.

Once the wolves became pack-to-pack, two things happened: We started seeing a significantly smaller amount of deer and the bucks started getting much larger racks.

All of our hunting after opening weekend is done by driving deer on large tracts of forest and marsh.

Since I have the biggest mouth and was willing to do it, I became the boss of enforcing and creating drives where many of the pushers were 12-year-olds in the must-wear hip-boots. I was harsh, but fair, and the kids and adults became a mobile unit that was very effective at killing deer.

Our theory has always been to push away from the road at the start of the day and on the trek back, at dark, start dragging deer.

I love this area so much that I moved here in '99 and – for 33-years – I have made it as an outdoor writer in the newspaper industry through thick-and-thin.

Back to my duck hunt, I did not see a bird today.

Did not care!

After 3-0 Start, Lady Cougar Bowlers Drop First Match in Two Seasons

CHS BOWLING

Last Week

Monday, Nov. 21, was Parent's Night for the Campbellsport High School (CHS) Lady Cougar bowlers at King Pin Lanes in the village, and their performance was outstanding.

After a heartwarming rendition of the "The Star-Spangled Banner" – sung by CHS senior Brianna Thompson – the crowd was treated to a great show from start to finish.

Results

The Cougars were facing the West Bend West Spartans.

In the first three games, the Cougars were adjusting to yet another new lineup with Aubree Koenings sitting on the bench with knee pain. The Cougars already have two student/athletes on the injured reserve list: Paige Jordan, ankle surgery, and Amber Ninneman, knee surgery.

Now with Koenings sidelined, the Cougars have 33% of their lineup injured.

But, another injury was not going to keep the Cougars down.

CHS averaged 150 in its first three games and went 3-0.

The next 6 games, the Cougars went 6-0 and averaged 188 to finish the night with 175 aggregate while winning the match 9-0.

"With Aubree sidelined, everybody stepped up their game," said Coach Cary Serwe. "I was very proud of how the team responded tonight."

As usual, Brianna Thompson led the squad. She filled 14 of 18 frames, but she had a great support staff.

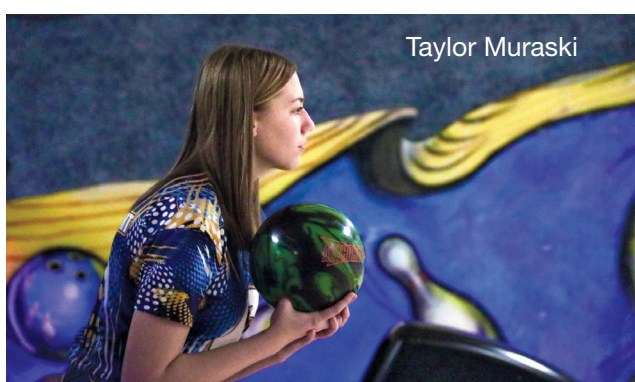

Olivia Boegel filled 11 of 14 frames, Maddy Grunwald filled nine of 14 frames, Taylor Muraski filled 10 of 16 frames, Capri Constantineau filled seven of 14 frames and Hannah Thelen filled six of 14 frames for a full team effort.

The Cougars next match will be in West Bend on November 28.

Stats for the match were as follows (strikes-spares-total frames): Taylor Muraski 5-5-16; Hannah Thelen 2-4-14; Olivia Boegel 3-8-14; Maddy Grunwald 3-6-14; Capri Constantineau 3-4-14; Brianna Thompson 11-3-18.

Brianna Thompson of Campbellsport, last season's state champion, focuses on her form as she prepares to send the ball down the lane at her home alley, King Pin Lanes, on Monday, Nov. 21.

Firsts

Henry Griffin Schacht, 9, gets this trophy buck, his first deer, on his very first shot of opening day. He and his Father, Henry Andrew Schacht (on right), spotted and bagged this 10-point buck close to their home near Campbellsport.

This Week

It was bound to happen eventually, and Monday, Nov. 28, was the day.

The Lady Cougar bowlers dropped their first match in the last two seasons to long-time rival Kewaskum at King Pin in West Bend. The lane conditions were tough, but both teams played on the same surface and the best spare shooters on the pair went home victorious.

“Both teams struggled with spare shooting today, but Kewaskum managed to get more than we did and that carried the match,” said Coach Cary Serwe.

The match was a seesaw.

Kewaskum won the first three games, Campbellsport won the next three, but Kewaskum won games seven and eight to take the match.

The loss leaves the Cougars with a respectable 3-1 record with six matches left in the season.

Brianna Thompson and Olivia Boegel led the Cougars, filling 14 of 18 and 12 of 18 frames respectively.

Stats for the match were as follows (strikes-spares-total frames): Taylor Muraski 4-2-18; Olivia Boegel 4-8-18; Hannah Thelen 1-2-10; Maddy Grunwald 2-4-16; Capri Constantineau 1-3-10; Brianna Thompson 6-8-18.

KEWASKUM SNO-CHIEFS

Two Saturday courses – Dec. 3 and Dec. 10 – will be held at the Village of Kewaskum Municipal Building Annex

For the next two Saturdays, starting with Dec. 3, the Kewaskum Sno-Chiefs will sponsor a Wisconsin Snowmobile Safety Course at the Kewaskum Annex building on Fond du Lac Ave. from 8 a.m. to noon.

Each course will cover snowmobile safety features, pre-ride inspections, basic riding skills, snowmobile rider responsibilities and outdoor emergencies.

All persons 12-years-of-age or older who are interested in snowmobiling are encouraged to enroll and participate. There is no maximum age, and adults are encouraged to enroll.

A parent or guardian must be present to sign the application for all enrollees 17-years-of-age or younger

For those born after January 1, 1985, a certification from a snowmobile safety course is required to ride on public trails. Riding without passing a safety course could result in a citation by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (WDNR).

All students must obtain a WDNR “Customer ID” number as part of the criteria to graduate from any recreation safety class. To obtain that number, call 1-888-936-7463, or visit your local WDNR service center (find the nearest you at dnr.wi.gov).

This class requires a fee to enroll.

Questions and requests to sign up should be directed to Craig Sanborn at 262-343-0859.

W.D.N.R. Announces 2022 Preliminary Gun Deer Harvest Totals and License Sales Figures

Opening weekend deer registrations were roughly 15% higher than in 2021 despite license figures being down

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced the preliminary deer harvest and license sale totals for the opening weekend of the 2022 gun deer season.

The regular gun deer season continued through Nov. 27. Up next is the statewide muzzleloader season (Nov. 28 – Dec. 7), the statewide antlerless-only four-day season (Dec. 8-11) and antlerless holiday hunts in select farmland zone counties later in December.

Wisconsin continues to be a destination location for hunting white-tailed deer. People of all backgrounds search out the great public and private land hunting opportunities across the state to pursue deer, make memories and put a sustainable protein source on their table.

Be sure to follow the DNR on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram to share your experiences and for more updates, photos and stories throughout the gun deer season.

Preliminary License Sales Data

Preliminary figures indicate that the number of deer hunters in Wisconsin decreased compared to 2021.

As of midnight Sunday, Nov. 20, sales for gun, bow, crossbow, sports and patron licenses reached 779,123. Of that total, 421,474 were for gun privileges only. The year-to-date sales for all deer licenses are down 2% from the same time last year.

The number of conservation patron licenses sold to date in 2022 is 2.2% higher than all conservation patron licenses sold in 2021.

Of the total licenses sold, 62% were sold online, and 38% were sold in-person by DNR license agents and DNR service centers, which includes private businesses across the state.

Final license sales figures will be available in January, at which time DNR staff will perform a thorough analysis and interpretation.

Preliminary Registration Totals and Future Outlook

In total, 103,623 deer were registered statewide during the opening weekend of the 2022 gun deer hunt, compared to the 85,860 registered for the same period in 2021. This is a 15% increase over 2021 and is on par with the average opening weekend harvest.

AN Outdoorsman's JOURNAL

Fifty-One Falls in the Valley

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

This week, I am writing to you about a three-day experience that I had the weekend before Wisconsin's deer gun season at my hunting camp in northern Juneau County.

Our camp is on public land and, together with up to 25 friends and family called "The Red Brush Gang", we build an 18x36 foot pole barn that is home for two weeks and then dismantled it on the last Sunday of deer gun season.

FRIDAY, NOV. 11
HIGH: 53. LOW: 30.

The history of much of my life, especially in the fall, has taken place in Wisconsin's central forest, which in reality goes from Tomah to Marshfield and over to Black River Falls.

Today, along with my golden retrievers Ruby and Red, I hunt ducks on The Meadow Valley Flowage (MVF).

From the age of 22 to 27, I was a steel fabricator at Bar Bel Fabricating in Mauston. I lived in New Lisbon and had a duck blind on the MVF. I had my first two golden retrievers at the time, and they were Ranger and her pup Ben.

At that time, there were no wolves, bear or fisher, and the wild turkey population was just being introduced. I have legally harvested bear, turkey
