Finding the Lost Generation, Part V A History on Glenway Wescott

LEAH HENCKEL
INTERN

We pick up with Glenway Wescott back in Europe in the early 1930s; a challenging creative period for the Farmington native, but a prosperous time for his family and friends.

From August to September of 1931, Glenway Wescott, Monroe Wheeler, George Platt Lynes and Barbara Harrison decided to take a road trip through Austria and Germany.

On their trip, the travelers saw the political turmoil and poverty of the post World War I countries. These sights led Wescott to write his next novel, Fear and Trembling. The book, written from October to March of 1932, illustrates the sights and experiences of three travelers in Germany after World War I. The novel is composed of mostly historical overviews and commentary warning of coming war and communism.

Along with saying goodbye to a midwestern setting in Fear and Trembling, Glenway dropped his typical tone and swapped-in one more-related to Paris' high society. When the novel released in 1932, it was not well received. Reviews in the New York Times came with titles like "Good-bye Wisconsin, Hello Economics" and "Wescott Worries in Fine Words About Us."

To make up for the failure of Fear and Trembling, Wescott wrote A Calendar of Saints for Unbelievers later that year. The book depicts the Catholic saints with some tongue-in-cheek commentary. It was published by Harrison of Paris with illustrations of the zodiac by Pavel Tchelitchev, a friend of Wescott and Wheeler's. In the United States, the book was published without illustrations because of the nude illuminations of Aquarius and Gemini. The book was successful and helped Wescott recover from his previous failure.

Along with A Calendar of Saints for Unbelievers, Glenway published the story "Hurt Feelings." Through the story, Wescott tried to salvage aspects of the abandoned The Dream of Mrs. Cleveland by using Mrs. Cleveland as the main character who rights the wrongs that her jealous father committed in life.

The year 1932 may have been regarded as one of Wescott's most productive years if he had finished his next story attempt. "The Deadly Friend" was to be about the disappearance of a doctor, but, again, Glenway abandoned the piece.

The most important event to take place that year was the beginning of Glenway Wescott's friendship with Katherine Ann Porter. Wescott met Porter while working on publishing a translation of French songs for Harrison of Paris. Their relationship would change over the

A Journey To Peru

Dear Reader,

This is a story of a missionary, a mission, a family, and a community of learners.

Sister Marie Esterre was a devoted nun of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet in St Paul, Minnesota. In the late 1960s, she became the Mother Superior of the order's congregation in Arequipa, Peru. Sr. Marie also was my aunt. During a Christmas visit to our family in the States, she and Frank Wood, my father, collaborated with St. Norbert College to create a program for St. Norbert students to teach and study at La Universidad de Santa Maria in Arequipa while living with Peruvian families. Dad led seven students to Arequipa in the program's first year in 1970, accompanied by our entire family of eight children. Tom and Luci Phelan guided the students in 1971, and Richard and Mechtilde Calnin helmed the program in 1972.

Nowadays "study abroad" programs are an established feature in higher education; back then, they were a rarity, and St. Norbert was charting a course through a seldom-traveled wilderness. For many of the students, the journey to Peru marked their first exposure to a different culture, leaving them forever changed and connected to people, places, and history.

The instability of the Peruvian economy under the dictatorship of Juan Velasco Alvarado posed difficulties that ultimately became insurmountable. At one point in 1971, the program participants were trapped in Peru after Aerolíneas Peruanas, the airline they were counting on to bring them home, went bankrupt. Ultimately the third year was also the last year because of the increasingly volatile political climate. Nevertheless, it was a remarkable experiment that paved the way for St. Norbert College's international study programs today.

Visiting a foreign culture with both differences and shared virtues can profoundly impact individuals. This weekend, a Peruvian Reunion at St Norbert College honors Professors Wood, Phelan, and Calnin and their spouses for blazing the trail for future learners with the installation of ceremonial benches in a prominent location on campus. This fitting memorial will remind all who participated to cherish those special moments from long ago.

U.S. Constitution, Pt. II

MARY KRIEGER
CONTRIBUTING READER

Editor's note: This column mentions suicide-by-gun rates in the U.S. If you or someone you know needs crisis support, you can dial 988 for the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline.

Perhaps one of the more recognized and controversial of the amendments to the U.S. Constitution is the Second Amendment.

Ratified in 1791, it reads:

"A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Some have argued that the intention of the Founding Father's was to prevent any regulation of guns by the government, while others believe the intent was to protect the right to gun ownership by individuals who might be called upon to form a militia to protect the country.

The phrase "well regulated" also implies that – while this amendment protects an individual's right to own a gun – the government has the right to regulate gun ownership. This interpretation has been supported by the Supreme Court. Currently, federal law prohibits felons, those in the country illegally and anyone dishonorably discharged from the military from owning a gun. Many states have different laws regulating gun ownership.

According to a report by the BBC, there are 126.5 guns per every 100 people in the U.S. In Canada, the rate is 34.7 per 100. The Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality states that, in 2021, there were 48,830 firearm deaths in the U.S., and death by firearms is the number-one cause-of-death for children under the age of 19.

Many gun deaths are the result of suicides. According to Pew Research, in 2021, 54%, or 26,328 people, took their own lives using a gun, while 43% of gun deaths were murders. The remaining 3% of deaths were due to police action and accidents.

The death rate due to firearms in the U.S. is 10.4 per 100,000 people. In contrast, France has a death rate of 2.2/100,000 and Japan has a rate of 0.02/100,000. Japan's low rate is attributed to its strict regulations that treat gun ownership much like earning a driver's license. All Japanese gun owners must take a class on firearm safety, pass a written exam and demonstrate proficiency on the shooting range. In addition, they must pass a mental health exam and are required to demonstrate that they meet the required criteria every three years (information and figures from world-populationreview.com).

The Third Amendment reads:

"No soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house, without consent of the Owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law."

This amendment was in response to British soldiers taking over Americans' homes during the Revolutionary War and was intended to provide American citizens' homes and property protection from the U.S. military.

The Fourth Amendment prohibits the government from unreasonable searches of private property.

It reads:

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizure, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and persons or things to be seized."

As seen on TV police dramas, a warrant signed by a judge specifically indicating the reason and what is being searched for on the warrant is required before the police can enter a citizen's residence and conduct a search.

The Fifth Amendment is also well known.

It states that:

"No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentation or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation."

This amendment protects the individual from being tried for the same crime more than once and permits a person to refuse to answer questions if doing so might incriminate the individual. "Pleading the Fifth" (or "taking" the Fifth) has become a common phrase in pop culture

Sat beneath a tent at the Eden Firemen's Picnic. Just soaked up a Sunday aft's sunlight and the oompah blare of a polka band. Ears rang like Ma Bell for a while. Is there anything to rival the small-town exuberance of a crowd?

On the upside, met Scott Miller, a sibling to a former classmate. Chatted with Chris Gudex, who rode the bus with us and lived up the road apiece on W. Are you amazed as all getup at how quickly the summer's passed? Along with many surrounding fire departments festivities as well.

'Twas a time though, between all these community outings and county fairs, you could look forward to a slate of events. Campbellsport no sooner held its annual Fourth of July bash than the village was besieged by Crazy Daze. Just about every merchant along a couple block stretch had tables on the sidewalk in front of their stores laden with overstocked merchandise or closeouts. A few vendors, private individuals hawked their own wares. Once, fresh out of high school and two years of German firmly in memory, I got pop quizzed when my younger brother picked up a book and asked what it said. I read that language as easily as English and translated without a heartbeat's hesitation from a Bible.

Fond du Lac held a similar version during a Wednesday in mid-July when an area downtown was closed off. Who knows what bargains you might find on one of those makeshift counters outside Woolworths, Kresges or just a few steps farther in either direction?

And of course, Campbellsport kept its youth interested with a street dance, a local band knocking out rock and roll hits from the era. What hasn't changed since, remains. Doesn't matter how you filled up the season then or now. Before you blink, it's gone.

Savoring the Last Sliver of Summer

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

Welp, it's August, which means summer is over.

Yes, I know, fall officially begins September 21, but much like a preview column on the present season ran in May, it's only appropriate to note that, once the footballs start to fly and school bells ring again, the months we'd all been anxiously awaiting for half the year are already gone.

Like clockwork, I am aghast at how fast the time flies. Once the frigid air settles in and the snow blankets the ground, it feels like an eternity to Easter. Often, April (and sometimes May) behaves more like January than July. February feels like forever, and March seems designed to cause madness (not the welcomed basketball-kind, either). When summer finally lifts its stunning head from slumber, there's an expectation that this year will be the best one yet.

And it was a good one! Don't get me wrong.

But, I didn't spend as much time in water, I only caught a few baseball games and my tomatoes never really flourished.

And that's not to say this wasn't a lovely season, albeit occasionally smokey. If my memory serves me, this was probably one of the sunniest summers in years. While temperatures did get steamy from time to time, it was largely a manageable set of weeks without that oppressive humidity we've come to dread.

Yup, by all accounts it was a perfect quarter

Stanley Named Wisconsin Newspaper Association President

KRIS LEONHARDT
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, MMC

Multi Media Channels (MMC) Local News Initiatives Advisor George Stanley has been named president of the Wisconsin Newspaper Association (WNA).

Stanley was elected as president at the WNA's annual meeting in March and was presented with the gavel at the WNA Board of Directors meeting on July 21 in Madison.

"Since before Wisconsin became a state, local newspapers have helped bind and build our communities. Through WNA, we're working together in these challenging times to sustain and support local news outlets that inform our democracy and nurture healthy, active community life. It's a great thing to be a part of," Stanley said.

In his role with MMC, Stanley works with the Pass it Forward internship program, as well as other company initiatives to nurture a healthy community journalism environment in the state.

He is also the project manager for the State of Local News 2023, an effort of the Local News Initiative at Northwestern University, as well as a past president of the News Leaders Association.

Stanley stepped down as editor of the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel and regional editor for the USA TODAY Network in January 2023.

He led the Journal Sentinel newsroom as editor since 2015 and managing editor since 1997.

The newspaper's work won national awards for reporting on health, business, education, justice, politics, sports and the environment, including 10 Pulitzer finalists and three Pulitzer Prize winners.

Stanley has participated in several national programs aimed at finding a sound future for local news, including the Table Stakes News Transformation program run by the American Press Institute, Lenfest Foundation and Temple University.

Stanley helped found the O'Brien Public Service Fellowship program at Marquette University's journalism school, which is fully endowed by a $10 million donation.

In this program, experienced journalists spend an academic year working on a major public service journalism project that they then bring back to their newsrooms.

"George brings with him a wealth of experience and ethical practices that will benefit the association and its membership. We are fortunate to have a man of his caliber to lead the association and continue to guide local journalism," said MMC CEO Patrick Wood.

Dave Wood, who serves as general manager for several MMC publications, also serves on the WNA Board of Directors.

Including dozens of other publications across the state, MMC is also the publishing company for the Campbellsport News, the Kewaskum Statesman and Dodge County Pionier.

Earl Charles Meyer Sr.

Our Gracious Father has called Earl Charles Meyer Sr. home on this day, August 1, 2023, at his home in Cascade (Chinatown).

Earl was born February 25, 1937, at his parents' home on Hwy V, Kewaskum. He is the son of Arthur and Hildegard (Backhaus) Meyer. Earl married Ada Mae Heaslip (Baeckmann) on October 27, 1956. They had seven children together. After they divorced, Earl found his soul mate, Joan Breitenfield, spending over 30 years together. Earl and Joan traveled the world and visited all but five states in the U.S.

At a young age, Earl worked as a farmer. He went on to work at Regal Ware, Mill Tool & Die, and Giddings & Lewis, where he retired. Earl was definitely a jack-of-all trades. After retirement, Earl had a small engine shop and did carpentry and plumbing work for Vista. He lived his life following God's will and truly had a kind and generous heart. Earl was always there with a helping hand for anyone in need. He was devoted to his family, friends, and to God. Anyone who knew him knows his memory will last with us forever, until we join him in Heaven.

Earl is survived by his children, Cheryl (Dean) Larson, Christine Meyer, Anita Day, Michael (Linda) Meyer, Kenneth (Kelly) Meyer, Dawn (Steve Rothe) Meyer, Barb Domanek, and Dale, Dave, and Jimmy Breitenfield. He is further survived by a sister, Marie Heider; brothers, Jerry (Mary) Meyer, David (Pat) Meyer, Roger (Margarita) Meyer, Dennis (Linda) Meyer, and Alan (Mary) Meyer; sister-in-law Dorothy Meyer; 20 grandchildren, Tanya (Mike) Sutton, Frank Woznick Jr., Jackie (Brad) Forrest, Bryan (Amber) Meyer, Earl (Samantha) Meyer III, Angelica (Eric) Wachdorf, Devin, Star, and Joshua (Andrea) Meyer, Jenna Langolf, Laura Garcia, Tyler, and Shane Meyer, Samantha (Corey) Deising, Lucia (Phil) Neighbor, Kaitlyn, Ryan, and Karissa Kaehler, Cassandra (Robert) Ortega, and Ricky Volm Jr.; 37 great-grandchildren Joseph (Tiffany) Addams, Pollen Marigold, Tatum (Alex) Nierman-Diaz, Braydon Isham, Bethany Woznick, Dylan Forrest, Jayla and Oliver Meyer, Earl Meyer IV, Hunter and Mason Meyer, Javin, Anisty, Darrian, Autumn Rose, Jenada and Nadaya Meyer, Landon and Leah Meyer, Ayden and Kaylie Kelly, Bladen Kearns, Alex Garcia, Binx, Roslynn, and Damian Meyer, Madyson Neighbor, Bentley, Brayleigh, and Bristol Kaehler, Hailey and William Kaehler, Nova and Chevelle Kaehler, Alana and Connor Hay, and Paige Bonney; two great-great-grandchildren, Christopher Isham and Carson Meyer; many nieces and nephews; and many, many friends.

Earl was preceded in death by his parents, Arthur and Hildegard Meyer; two sons, Theodore and Earl Meyer Jr.; his long-time girlfriend and soul mate, Joan Breitenfield; granddaughter, Morgan Meyer; two great-grandsons, Jaeden Sutton and Tristen Isham; his brother, Robert Meyer; his sister, Lorraine Marquardt; son-in-law, Rick Day; and two brothers-in-laws, Earl Heider and Gerald Marquardt.

Visitation: Earl's family greeted relatives and friends from 10 a.m. until 1:45 p.m. on Wednesday, August 9, 2023, at Immanuel Lutheran Church, 350 S. Helena Street, in Campbellsport.

Service: A service for Earl was held at 2 p.m. at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Campbellsport on Wednesday. Rev. Paul Cerny officiated and burial followed in Union Cemetery in Campbellsport.

Twohig Funeral Home is serving the family with online guestbook and condolences at www.twohigfunerals.com.

Curtis Louis Scheunemann

Curtis Louis Scheunemann, age 76 years, of Farmington, was called home to be with the Lord on August 1, 2023, at Froedtert West Bend Hospital surrounded by his loving family.

Curtis was born on April 18, 1947, in West Bend to Hilbert and Leona Scheunemann (Wilkins). Curtis was united in marriage to Nancy Voge (Allen) on December 10, 1999, at First Congregational Church in Port Washington.

Curtis graduated from Kewaskum High School in 1966. He went on to earn his Associates Degree through the University of Wisconsin Agricultural Program. Curtis owned and operated his own farm and a welding business (Farmland Welding). Later, Curtis worked at Metalcraft in West Bend for many years, and retired in 2016.

Curtis was a 51-year member and former president of the Newburg Fire Department. He was a longtime member of the Newburg Lions Club. Curtis was instrumental in starting up and coaching a local traveling girls softball team.

Those Curtis leaves behind to cherish his memory include his wife, Nancy Scheunemann;

Two sons, Kevin (Karen) Scheunemann and Steven (Lacy) Scheunemann;

Six stepchildren, Lee (Kris) Voge, Lisa (Ralph) Guernsey, John (Lisa) Voge, Frank (Robyn) Voge, Teresa (Kevin) Young, and Jacqueline Schiebel;

Twenty grandchildren, Alyssa, Katie, Peyton, Stuart, Piper, and Dylan Scheunemann; Rebekah (Marshall) Grosse, Vanessa Voge, Stuart (Mary) Guernsey, Molly Wojtyska, Brenda (Ben) Wolf, Katie (Chad) Wozniak, Tyler Voge, Dustin Voge, Rex Voge, Sarah (Curtis) White, Ray Young, Shiloh Young, Valerie Schiebel, and Hailey (Jeremiah) Rathke; and fifteen great-grandchildren.

He is further survived by his brother, Conrad (Darlene) Scheunemann; sister, Carol (Doug) Frank; and former wife, Betty; as well as nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

In addition to his parents, Curtis was preceded in death by his infant daughter, Angela Scheunemann; brother-in-law, Leland James (Helen) Allen; sister-in-law, Betty Jane (Robert) Ewig; nephew, Ryan Frank; and grandson, Cole Schiebel.

Visitation: Curtis' family greeted relatives and friends on Sunday, August 6, 2023, from 2 p.m. until 3:45 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church (623 Congress Dr., Newburg, WI 53060.)

Service: A Funeral Service in remembrance of Curtis took place at 4 p.m. on Sunday, August 6, at St. John's Lutheran - Newburg, Pastor Kurt Schaser officiated. Burial was at the church cemetery after the service.

Memorials in Curtis' name can be directed to the Newburg Fire Department, the Newburg Lions Club, or St. John's Lutheran in Newburg.

The family would like to thank the doctors, nurses, and staff at Froedtert West Bend Hospital for their care and compassion.

Myrhum-Patten Funeral & Cremation Service has been entrusted with Curtis' arrangements. For additional information or to leave an online condolence on the tribute wall, please visit www.myrhum-patten.com.

Join your County's Deer Council and Help Shape Deer Seasons for the Community

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

Are you interested in getting more involved in deer management in your area? Right now, the DNR is accepting applications for every county's Deer Advisory Council (CDAC). This opportunity only comes along once every three years, so be sure to get your application in by Aug. 15.

Council members meet annually to review deer management data, gather public input and provide recommendations to the Department of Natural Resources and the Natural Resources Board regarding deer management decisions in their county.

Those selected will serve for three years and during that time will reach out to the stakeholders they represent as they develop recommendations for the fall season framework each year.

Who Should Apply?

Anyone with an interest in deer management and that has experience or involvement with at least one of these seven stakeholder categories:

- Agriculture
- Forestry
- Tourism
- Transportation
- Hunting
- Land management
- Local government

CDACs were established in 2014 and continue to provide an excellent venue to develop county-specific deer population objectives and herd management strategies through public involvement. In doing so, council members review and consider a variety of metrics on deer herd trends, impacts to habitat and various human-deer interactions.

For more information regarding CDACs and to find the application, visit the DNR's CDAC webpage (dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/Hunt/cdac).

Lomira Celebrates Opening of New Dog Park

INTERN

Wide smiles and floppy tongues brightened the faces of humans and canines alike at the opening of Bak's Playground Dog Park in the Village of Lomira on Saturday, Aug. 5.

The park is named in honor of the village's law enforcement canine, Bak, who was unable to attend the opening.

Bak's Playground is located on Pleasant Hill Avenue next to the wastewater treatment plant.

During the opening ceremony, Village of Lomira Administrator-Clerk-Treasurer Jenna Rhein described the park's creation.

"The park was funded by the Tourism Commission," Rhein stated. "The commission spent a few years saving funds to complete the fencing needed to enclose the park."

When the wastewater treatment plant was redone, new fencing was installed around the perimeter of the property.

Rhein continued, "The land next to the plant was saved to become a dog park, so all that was needed was more fencing to finish the area and some benches."

"Pup cups," baked by Village of Lomira Deputy Clerk-Treasurer Ashley Gualderama, T-shirts, Bak plushies and bags of dog park essentials (including a collapsible water dish and scoop) were sold after opening remarks with all proceeds going to the Friends of Lomira Parks and the Lomira K9 fund.

Bak's Playground Dog Park is free to the public, but donations to the Friends of Lomira Parks are appreciated for park improvements and upkeep.

Dogs must be supervised at all times and are required to remain leashed while outside of the fenced-in area. Owners are responsible for picking up dog waste.

For more information, read the posted policies at the park or contact the Village of Lomira office.

For map apps, use the address 100 Pleasant Hill Ave, Lomira, to find your dog's destination.

There is plenty of room to play ball at Lomira's new dog park located on Pleasant Hill Avenue next to the wastewater treatment plant.

Village of Lomira Administrator-Clerk-Treasurer Jenna Rhein describes the process of opening the dog park to ceremony attendees.

POLITICAL DISCOURSE

both from usage on fictionalized programs and in real-life court proceedings.

The Sixth Amendment is closely related to the Fifth, as it also protects the rights of those who are charged with a criminal violation.

It guarantees that the accused has the right to a "speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed..." The Seventh Amendment expanded on the Sixth by stating that jury trials should be by the individual's peers, while the Eighth Amendment protects against excessive bail or fines and prohibits cruel and unusual punishment in sentencing.

Our Founding Fathers, although not perfect, still managed to create a solid foundation for our country's government. Over the years, it has been necessary to add additional amendments to meet with new changes or threats to citizens' rights. In total, there are 27 amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

Next month, we will continue examining the remaining amendments.

Plant Now for a Bountiful Fall Harvest

MELINDA MYERS
CONTRIBUTOR

Boost your fall garden harvest with some midsummer plantings. Fill vacant spaces left in the vegetable garden after harvesting lettuce, spinach, and other early maturing crops. Expand your edible plantings to other vacant spots in flowerbeds, mixed borders, and containers.

Sow seeds of beans, cucumbers, carrots, beets, and other vegetables that will have time to reach maturity before the end of your growing season. Simply count the number of days from planting to the average first fall frost in your area. You'll find frost dates for your location on the internet, extension publications and other gardening resources. Next, check the back of the seed packet for the number of days needed from planting until harvest. As long as you have enough time for the seeds to sprout, grow and produce before the first frost, they can be added to the garden.

Some plants like collards, kale and broccoli tolerate, and even taste better, after a light freeze. This makes them great choices for a fall-harvested garden. Some garden centers sell transplants of these and other vegetables suitable for summer planting. Check the plant tags for the number of days needed for transplants to grow and start producing.

Dennis Pieper (1972), Gene Pieper (1960), and Jerry Raether (1971) were recently selected for the 2018 Campbellsport High School Athletic Hall of Fame. The committee had 28 candidates to consider for the three spots. Although each new member can choose when to be honored, all three have chosen an upcoming basketball game. Information will be shared with the public once arrangements have been made with the new inductees.

Northern Kettle Moraine Crooked Trails Snowmobile Club will hold its annual Corn Roast on August 11 at Dundee Sportsman's Park.

Campbellsport Lions Club donated $1,542 to purchase two new tactical vests and helmets for the Campbellsport Police Department. The equipment will be used for heavy rifle situations.

The Campbellsport Elementary School student council donated money to the Campbellsport Police Department to purchase additional crossing guard signs and med kits for the squad cars. This was part of the Caring About Our Community initiative this past school year.

Every two years, cyclists from around the world have the opportunity to participate in a beautiful cycling tour through the northern part of the United States. Cyclists begin on the west coast and bike their way to the east coast. This year, the group started in Everett, Washington, which is near Seattle. About 40 cyclists could be seen cruising through the Kettle Moraine and Dundee areas on July 27. Cycle America came through the Kettle Moraine as part of this year's coast-to-coast ride. The entire trip is broken down into nine smaller trips that take place Mondays through Saturdays.

The Campbellsport Board of Education approved renewing a contract with Johnson School Bus Service at the August 6 meeting. The contract is for the 2018-19, 2019-20, and 2020-21 school years. It includes an overall raise of three percent to cover changing bus routes.

On July 31, group leaders Erin Nelson and Michelle Rockelman returned with their Campbellsport High School students and family from a 12-day European adventure that included Dublin, London, and Paris. The group of 36 left on July 20.

The Loehr family has been showing hogs for decades at the Fond du Lac County Fair. This year, many of Norm and Rosie Loehr's grandchildren carried on the tradition of showing their animals at the fair in July. After all the judging was done, those who exhibited this year posed for a photo with their grandparents. In the picture with Norm and Rosie were Jacob Loehr, Kyle Loehr, Brady Loehr, Andrew Loehr, Zoe Albert, Calla Loehr, and Julianna Loehr.

Each Hodorff sister took first place in her age division at the Fond du Lac County Fair in overall competition in dairy. Kadence won the overall grand champion award. Kalissa was reserve grand champion. Kaianne was honorable mention.

The Campbellsport Little League team took first place in the Jaycee Tournament this summer.

15 Years Ago August 14, 2008

Members of the Campbellsport Village Board approved the 2007, 2008, and 2009 collective bargaining agreement with the union during the August 4 meeting. Earlier this year, the board approved the 2004, 2005, and 2006 agreement. Clarification regarding what constitutes an emergency was requested, and board member Joanne Del Ponte said the supervisors can define emergencies and the board should back them up on the decisions.

It's showtime. The Campbellsport Community Theatre's production of How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying will take place August 14-17.

Ken Lonquist is an entertainer for all ages. His songs are fun, imaginative, and meaningful. He will be giving an outdoor concert at the Mauthe Lake creation area picnic shelter of the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit.

Everyone is invited to the annual Shepherd of the Hills Trout Boil later this month.

Fond du Lac County 4-H Junior Dairy Judging team members Matthew and Valerie Kramer of Armstrong 4-H and Derrek and Darren Kamphuis of Brandon Tanagers 4-H placed first in the state competition. Valerie was the top overall individual in the event.

Zoe Albert of Eden donated 10 inches of her hair to Locks of Love last week. This is the second time the nine-year-old has made this donation.

A brat fry hosted by National Exchange Bank & Trust earned $650 to benefit the Campbellsport Firefighter's Women's Auxiliary. The funds will be used to provide food to the Campbellsport Fire Department after fire calls and practices.

On July 29 and 30, the Campbellsport High School Cheer Team attended the Central Wisconsin Cheer Camp, which was held in Deerfield. During those two days, team members learned cheers, chants, stunts, and a dance.

Governor Jim Doyle announced the re-appointment of Linda Hodorff of Eden to the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory Board. Her term will expire on May 1, 2011.

Led by Nancy Durn, Master Angler Instructor, the DNR Junior Angler Program was held August 5 and 7. Twenty area children participated in and completed the event, which was sponsored by the Long Lake Fishing Club.

The Campbellsport Blue Cougars placed second in the Dual County Rookies Division.

A son, Ezekiel Gabriel, was born August 1 to Terrell and Irene Guell of Eden. A daughter, Halie Rayn, was born July 29 to Patrick and Lora Lawrie of Campbellsport.

Patrick Beau Shea, 36, Tacoma, WA, passed away July 31. Wanda Foss, 78, passed away July 30. Eva Buczek, 78, formerly of Campbellsport, passed away August 6. School Sister of St. Francis Edwarda Doyle, 79, passed away July 30. Lorinda Margaret Gindt, 92, Friendship, passed away August 7.

During the Campbellsport Village Board meeting, board members received the 1997 auditor's report from Conley McDonald, certified public accountants and consultants of Brookfield. Auditor Don Villeone in his report noted that surpluses had been drawn down, but the Village still has borrowing power. It was decided that the present police squad car will not be traded when a new car is purchased so the village will have two squad cars.

New bleachers are being constructed at Campbellsport High School's Dan D. O'Brien Football Field. The construction is being done by Pfantz Construction of Campbellsport, and will feature aluminum seats on a concrete base. The new section will seat approximately 750 and is expected to be ready for the start of the football season.

Sharon Cheesman of Campbellsport will make an appearance on the lottery Money Game TV show this weekend, with a chance to win in excess of $50,000. The winning ticket was purchased at Campbellsport Self Serve.

Campbellsport Community Theater will present Damn Yankees on August 14-16.

Sharon Schneider represented the Campbellsport FFA at this year's Fond du Lac County Fair. Her cow, Brook, won Grade Holstein Senior Champion after she topped her Grade Three-Year-Old Class to get in competition for Senior Champion. Brook advanced to win overall Grade Grand Champions. Sharon won best showman age 12-13.

The Empire Threshing Association will hold its Thresheree on August 15 on the Bill and Pat Wetstein Farm near Eden.

More than 600 brats and burgers were served during the fundraising event at National Exchange Bank in Campbellsport. Campbellsport Public Library benefitted from the proceeds.

Michael J. Bartoli, 19, Campbellsport, passed away July 31. Paul J. Sabish, 81, Campbellsport, passed away August 2. Thomas A. Pintar, 80, passed away July 30.

50 Years Ago August 9, 1973

Progress of the plans for the community center renovation was explained at the Campbellsport Village Board meeting Monday. There is little change in the plans from previously presented. There will be a big meeting room, dividable if necessary; a kitchen area now occupied by the stage; a foyer entrance from the east side to include the toilets; storage space and stage area on the north end. Heating will be hot air from two furnaces.

A crowd of over 700 people was on hand for the dedication of the Ice Age National Scientific Reserve, which was opened by L.P. Voigt, secretary of Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. The innovation was given by the Rev. Daniel V. Schowalter of Peace United Church of Christ, Kewaskum. Governor Patrick Lucey was the first speaker. The Reserve was made possible by 15 years of dedicated efforts by our congress representatives and the Wisconsin DNR.

At its regular meeting August 6, the Board of Jt. School District 23 voted to increase the daily and weekly price of school lunches.

Police Chief Eldon Spradau this week issued a warning that the village's three-man force will be cracking down on bicycle riders, young and old, who do not obey traffic regulations prescribed by the state and observe the village ordinance governing bicycles.

Lawrence A. Wallenfelsz, 67, Port Richey, FL, passed away August 7.

75 Years Ago August 12, 1948

An early morning fire Wednesday totally destroyed a Wayne Center landmark, the two-story general merchandise store owned and operated by Mrs. Ima Petri. Despite the efforts of the Kewaskum and Allenton firemen, the building was leveled and all contents, including files and records, were lost. Line difficulties would not let Mrs. Petri call the Kewaskum Fire Department so a neighbor, Wilbur Krahn, raced to Kewaskum by auto and sounded the alarm.

August Sabel, local barber for the past several years, completed a deal last week with Oliver Hensen of Eden for possession by September 1 of the equipment of his shop in the Steier tavern building. The reason for the sale is to give Mr. Sabel an opportunity to attend the School of Beauty Culture at Milwaukee.

Those rampaging Belles did it again Sunday, as they put together 18 hits to rout Ripon by a score of 14 to 3. The victory, coupled with Waupun's defeat by North Fond du Lac, gives the Belles a lead of a game-and-a-half with three left to play.

Due to a decided lack of interest and the coming of the August 'dog days,' the Lions Club will discontinue its weekly swimming program on August 18.

The Campbellsport Athletics remain in the cellar as Adell beat the local team by a score of 17 to 6.

With the contributions toward the bus fare, arrangements are being made to take the local Girl and Boy Scout troops to Youth Day at the State Fair on Monday.

Tryouts for the Brooklyn Dodger-Argosy Magazine Nationwide Baseball Rookie Hunt will be held in West Bend from August 17 to 20.

A daughter, Barbara Ann, was born August 5 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steady.

Wm. Meyer, 89, last of the early settlers, passed away.

Kewaskum High School's new baseball and softball fields should be ready for play next spring. At Monday's school board meeting, the members discussed whether the Kewaskum A's men's baseball team should be allowed to use the baseball field and sell beer on school grounds during its games. The team currently uses the same field at Kiwanis Park as the high school squad and sells beer there. Although board policy states that the school administrator can decide whether alcohol can be sold on school grounds, not the board, Superintendent James Smasal asked for board input. Some were in favor and some weren't, and reasons were given. The last paragraph said Tim Ramthun suggested the topic be placed on next month's agenda so the board can vote on it.

Silver Creek Fire Department Team Two won the water fights hosted by Kewaskum Fire Department on August 12.

Reigle Family Park, the newest park in the Village of Kewaskum, has been awarded a $100,000 grant from West Bend Mutual Insurance Company. The grant funds will be used toward the first phase of the project, which includes creating soccer fields, parking, and walking trails. When completed, Reigle Family Park will provide needed athletic fields for the Kewaskum area as well as recreational space for all of Washington County to enjoy.

The Kewaskum Women's Club and the Village of Kewaskum presented beautification awards to village residents during the village board meeting on August 6. Four homes and one business were selected for the awards. David and Ellen Otter at 520 Evergreen Terrace were awarded for creative use of landscape materials and shrubs. Raymond and Geri Bodden at 1246 Meadow Lane were awarded for floral, shrubbery and tree arrangement. Frederick and Kathy Krieser at 1120 Roseland Drive were awarded for colorful floral and selection of design. Laurie Struck at 120 Clinton St. was awarded for lawn ornaments and decor. Dairy Queen at 118 County Road H was awarded for business beautification.

If you've been to Dundee this summer, you've probably noticed the brightly-colored taco truck that is parked across the street from Camp Dundee. Since opening in mid-June, Jorge Tacos has been a hit with area campers and locals alike. Milwaukee native Jorge Cruz runs the truck, preparing, cooking, and serving the food. The truck is owned by Jorge and Jim Peterson, who runs Camp Dundee, which is located across the street.

The Kewaskum-Campbellsport golf team placed seventh out of 14 teams at the annual Watertown Invitational. Alyssa Dreher paced the Kew-Cats with a 46-49-95 and Grace Kober was close behind with a 53-46-99.

In the 2018 Men's Club Championship at Hon-E-Kor, two of the four semi-finalists have been determined as defending champion Jim Rohlinger defeated Eric Cain and Tony Gonring defeated Michael Korth. Rohlinger will play the winner of the match between Craig Anderson and Curtis Koth. Gonring will play the winner of the match between Evan Doherty and Jay Krueger.

Lisa A. Alexander, 53, Kewaskum, passed away August 12.

15 Years Ago August 14, 2008

A photo on the front page of this edition showed past chiefs, current chief, and a couple firefighters from Kohlsville Fire Department displaying a commendation from United States Congressman F. James Sensenbrenner that was presented during a celebration on August 9 that marked the 100th anniversary of the department. Sensenbrenner commended the department for being there in times of need for the last 100 years. Past Chiefs Gerald Schultz and Wilmer Herman, current Chief Ray Dornacker, and Firefighters Brian Oelhafen and Bill Rate were in the photo.

New was the key word at the monthly Town of Scott meeting on August 11. Town supervisors approved the purchase of a new truck and requesting proposals for a new building inspector. Chairman Steve Jung asked if the board wanted bids for the inspector and Supervisor Dan Morin stated he thought it was important because the current inspector does not carry liability insurance and has no interest in getting any. The position is to be advertised and the town will review proposals, and the hire will take in place December for 2009.

Presentation of the 12th Annual Village of Kewaskum Beautification Awards was made by the Kewaskum Women's Club and the Village of Kewaskum at the August 4 meeting of the village board. Steve and Lisa Miller at 766 Ojibwe Path were awarded for creative use of landscape materials, shrubs, and plants. Jon and Janice Downs at 1159 Kewaskum St. were awarded for floral shrubbery and tree arrangement. Roy and Midge Swanson at 704 Wil-a-Be Lane were awarded for colorful floral and selection of design. Dick and Sue Laubach at 479 Evergreen Terrace were awarded for lawn ornaments and decor.

Farmington Elementary School's Christine Dehler was chosen as one of the WBKV/Sylvan Learning Center's Teacher Appreciation winners. She was nominated by Max Stowers, one of her second grade students.

Two students, a young lady from Germany and a young man from Hungary, will experience Kewaskum's culture when they spend the upcoming school year with families in the Kewaskum School District.

During the 100th anniversary celebration of the Kohlsville Fire Department, the organization announced a project to expand the current facilities.

Russell Thull's first tenure with the Indians was in the role of student/athlete. He is returning to his alma mater as the successor to Jeff Gosse for the head coaching job of the Kewaskum girl's basketball team.

A daughter, Madeline Sophia, was born August 2 to Esther and Steven Hesse of Kewaskum.

A new elementary school within the Village of Kewaskum is the focus of the September 8 school referendum asking district taxpayers to approve a $12 million building plan. It would be situated on the seven-acre parcel bordered by Reigle Drive, Third Street, Bilgo Lane, and First Street. The existing school would be torn down, making way for a 76-car parking lot, a hard surface playground area, kindergarten play area, and athletic fields. The current building does not meet the ADA requirements for handicap accessibility. Also within that $12 million price tag would be an addition to Farmington Elementary School, remodeling of Wayne Elementary School, and work to the high school.

WBKV Radio, West Bend, will carry the Kewaskum-Campbellsport Badger Classic live from Camp Randall Stadium on August 28.

The annual Kewaskum Women's Club beautification awards were presented at Monday's Village of Kewaskum board meeting. They included Dennis and Kathy Giese for creative use of landscape materials; James and Susan Wessing for floral, shrubbery, and tree arrangement; and Harvey and Margie Janssen for good selection of color and lawn ornaments.

Due to lack of clergy, the Archdiocese of Milwaukee had announced last August that approximately 40 Catholic parishes would be closed and/or merged. St. Matthias-Auburn and St. Bridget-Wayne were to be merged with Holy Trinity Church in Kewaskum beginning July 1, 1998. Sunday, June 28, was the closing Mass for St. Matthias.

Fire destroyed the entire upper portion of the barn on the Rudy Rudzitis farm located on Highmount Road near Kewaskum. Station No. 2 West Bend Fire Department was dispatched. Kewaskum and Kohlsville firemen were also called and sent their tankers and several firemen to assist. The two latter departments spent their time hauling water to the scene from Kewaskum. Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the upper portion of the barn by removing the hay. The cause of the fire is undetermined and there is no estimate of damage available.

Kewaskum firemen answered a grass fire call at the property owned by Henry Timblin of Kewaskum. It is believed that the fire was caused by neighborhood children playing with matches. A small area of grass burned before firemen put out the blaze. Police questioned several children.

Members of the Kewaskum FFA and their advisor, Roy J. Esser, left for their summer camping trip on August 6. They are traveling through southeast United States, reviewing southern agriculture and visiting points of interest. Most of the expenses of the trip will be paid by the FFA fundraising projects.

A son was born August 4 to William and Peggy Dorzok of Kewaskum.

Lawrence E. Wallenfelsz, 67, Florida, passed away August 7. William Lawrence Coulter, 56, formerly of Town of Wayne, passed away August 6. Amanda Louise Buss Shaw, 92, Kewaskum, passed away August 3.

75 Years Ago August 13, 1948

Although the crowds weren't as big as some of the past years, the Kewaskum American Legion Post's annual picnic and celebration was largely attended and successful.

An early morning fire Wednesday totally destroyed a Wayne Center landmark, the two-story general merchandise store owned and operated by Mrs. Ima Petri. Despite the efforts of the Kewaskum and Allenton firemen, the building was leveled and all contents, including files and records, were lost. Line difficulties would not let Mrs. Petri call the Kewaskum Fire Department so a neighbor, Wilbur Krahn, raced to Kewaskum by auto and sounded the alarm.

Louis N. Bath was elected commander to succeed Harry Koch, retiring commander, during the regular meeting of Kewaskum Post No. 384, American Legion.

The Kewaskum Utensils defeated Granville 10-5, even though the opponent outfit Kewaskum 14-13.

Pheasants raised by the Kettle Moraine Sportsmen's Association of Kewaskum in the club's pens beneath the water tower will be released in the surrounding area on Sunday morning.

Raymond John Pfenning, 29, Mt. Clemens, MI, passed away August 6. Richard F. Thull, 12, Town of Kewaskum, passed away August 7.

The South Eden Threshing Crew

KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

As we approach the 39th annual Empire Threshing Association's Thresheree on Saturday, Aug. 26, (rain date is August 27) it's important to recall some of the good old days of working in our fields throughout the area.

The accompanying picture was taken in South Eden circa 1950, and captures the spirit of neighbors working hard together. It was preserved largely with the work of Dave Majerus, and the admiration of people like his mother, Irene.

The front row is made up of Bob and Bernice (Flood) Majerus, George Baumhardt with a hat on, Peter Cappozzo whose face is partially obstructed, and John (Jack) and Irene (Baumhardt) Majerus. Bob and Bernice farmed the land on the current Timberlane Drive that was Bernice's father Francis's. However, this picture is likely taken before Bob and Bernice took it over. The plat of Eden associated with the early 1950s shows Francis Flood still owning the farm. George Lawrence Baumhardt (1923-2006) was a brother to Irene Majerus, and both grew up on the farm Ralph Janzer has at this time on Highway F. For a while, and perhaps at the time of this picture, George farmed where the Zielicke farm is on F and V. There were multiple George Baumhardt's in Eden history, and most reference this one as "George." George and Irene might have been helping their dad, John, farm as well as he still was living on his farm when this picture was taken. John "Jack" Baumhardt might be a person unidentifiable in the original picture. There was a fourth older gentleman standing in the back row farthest right, but as the picture was made clearer, that man became even harder to identify.

Some of those in the picture might have helped with threshing, but lived in the village (Eden), and/or just came over for a good time. This might explain why Peter P. "Kojak" Cappozzo (1930-2008) is in the picture. Having worked at the canning factory in Eden for 44 years, Peter could be connected in multiple ways, but he did not have a farm in the threshing rotation. However, Peter's sister Rose (1922-2011) married Harold Kreif, who is also in the picture. In regard to the first row, Jack and Irene Majerus married in 1946 when Irene was 16. This picture is likely between 1946 and the early 1950s. Around the mid-1950s, the larger Majerus family had a combine which would have ended the threshing days. Dave was more confident it was a mid to late-1940s picture.

Moving to the second row (people still kneeling, or on the ground) – from left is Alvin Wietor between Bob and Bernice's head; the older man with whiter hair is Francis Flood (Bernice's father); Harold Kreif is the man kneeling with overalls; then there is Vernon Flood (Francis's son/Bernice's brother), and Rudy Drehmel in the light-colored hat.

The back row starts out hard to identify. Irene Majerus had the man standing far left with a beer as the Sr. Tom Flood. However, those living at this time who say that, or "Old Tom Flood," is the one who lived from 1921 to 2001, and at the time of the picture he is younger than 30. So it's not Old Tom Flood. However, in defense of Irene, she might be correct in that it is Thomas Flood (1863-1947), who was Francis Flood's father. The 1910 plat shows Thomas Flood (d. 1947) owned the farm where Francis Flood was at in the 1940s, and where Bob and Bernice Majerus farmed by the 1950s, and their son Jim is at this time. Francis's brother, Isadore Flood (1896-1976) was also a son of Thomas Flood (d.1947). If the first man standing left is Thomas Flood who died in May of 1947 (after a stroke at Brickle's Tavern), it means the picture taken was likely the year of 1946. Dave Majerus remembers Irene and Jack were not married in the picture taken; Jack and Irene married on August 31, 1946.

Continuing on the back row standing, second in from the left is old Bill Majerus, the father of Jack and Bob in the same picture; and the last one standing at right is Francis Smith, who in the 1950s had land on either side of Timberlane Drive where it hits Highway V. He lived on the south side of where the roads meet, but the barn no longer stands. There was a fourth man standing farther right, but he was not clear, especially as the overall picture was improved. If that lost person wasn't Jack Baumhardt, it could also have been Isadore Flood.

Dave Majerus wasn't comfortable saying where exactly the picture was taken. "Cause they went from farm to farm. Right? This was one day after they got done from whatever farm they were working on because they all worked together. They are all going to each other's farms threshing."

He added, "This was a picture they were always pretty proud of." "They" is certainly Dave's parents. But one gets the feeling "they" could also include all of those pictured.

The 'Fed Bum' in Byron

KARL MCCARTY
CONTRIBUTOR

Leona (Muellenbach) Hass came to Byron with her husband Gordon at the end of World War II. Gordon was from Empire, in the vicinity east of Lake De Neveau; Leona was raised in Fond du Lac. She lived on Grove Street, within reasonable vicinity today of Brothers Antiques or Boda's Restaurant on the frontage road. However, there is a caveat here. Leona grew up on a farm, and her dad milked cows. So, she was both in the city and yet grew up with a rural background.

When interviewed in the winter of 2017, one of her many strengths were her frank answers of her past. This is the third article which focuses on the topic of bums. The first covered the legend of roaming worker Hank O'Toole, the second was on Lizzie Weiland's childhood during the Great Depression, and this piece examines Leona Haas, who knew much of the days of old Fond du Lac. She then moved south and east and lived in Byron and Eden Townships, and also shared stories of Marblehead in between.

At the Corcoran Farm

Gordon and Leona married in 1944, spent maybe

Leona Hass (1923-2017) was a Muellenbach twin who grew up on a small farm on Grove Street in Fond du Lac. Her life with her husband Gordon provides valuable insights on farming in rural Byron and Eden in the mid-1900s.

a year with Gordon's parents, and then went over to Byron. "We didn't buy it, we rented it on halves. It was a Corcoran Farm. Do you know where Sheridan's dairy farm is?" Her point being that this story comes from that vicinity. At the time of living in Byron, she was technically living south of Fond du Lac Township. Looking at the 1950s plat maps, the southeast bottom of Fond du Lac Township, portions of Sections 25 and 36, were owned by the Sheridans, who ran Luxerin Farms.

Routinely in the interview, she explained this period of five or so years living in Byron. This is accurate but needs qualification. She did not mean Byron like on Highway 175, where Guidos and the town hall stands. She meant Byron as in she lived in Section 1 in the northeastern most portions of Byron Township. So, although she would call this area 'when we lived in Byron' it was remarkably close to Marblehead, which lends itself to the Eden village. Eventually, she and Gordon farmed on Eagle Road in Eden Township.

It was the tail end of World War II when Gordon and Leona got to the Corcoran Farm. Hot water wasn't so easy to come by. Leona said they did have electricity in the house at Byron, but she did not

This early 1900s postcard is a reminder what the rails could bring. Given the railroad running through Eden and Marblehead, as well as Byron Township, "bums" were bound to run into Leona Hass when she rented "on halves" at the Corcoran Farm.

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

We had a great summer of reading, programs and meeting new friends. Statistics will be available shortly while we finish wrapping up this season and will be presented as soon as possible. We could not have had such a great year without support from our sponsors, donors, and volunteers.

The book bags we distributed to kids and teens when they registered for the Summer Learning Program "All Together Now - Bee a Summer Reader" included coupons from many businesses. Whether it was a free sub sandwich, a slice of pizza or State Fair tickets, all children registering received these incentives. The businesses that donated these are Cousins Subs, Texas Roadhouse, Wisconsin State Fair, Kwik Trip, Kohn's Filling Station, Milwaukee Public Museum, Schlitz Audubon Nature Center, and Wendy's. Adults registering received a family pass to the Milwaukee Art Museum, a reward which provided a family with unlimited access to the Art Museum all summer long. Appreciation must be also given to the Monarch Library System for organizing the disbursement of these coupons.

Our prize drawings included basket raffles although few baskets were included. Anyone who read at least one hour this summer was eligible for the prize drawings. Although most of the prizes were purchased with funds that we had set in our budget, some were donated, allowing us to purchase more prizes. Hon-E-Kor Golf Course donated two generous gift packs and The Gift Nook in Kewaskum supplemented one of the baskets with an artistic gift. With the generous endowment from the Kewaskum Public Library Foundation, Inc. for the two zoo passes we now circulate, that included other swag from the Milwaukee County Zoo including behind-the-scenes events that we gave away as fun prizes.

We presented a few programs related to PBS Kids including our Daniel Tiger Day. This would not be possible without a grant from PBS Wisconsin. A generous contribution from Kewaskum Women's Club allowed us to purchase many new books for our prize cart letting all kids and teens take home a free book of their choosing when they completed the reading challenge of 15 hours read. As the recipient of Kohn's Filling Station Fueling it Forward program in June, we are very grateful for the generous check received. We welcomed a discount from Michaleno's Pizza for the lunch served at our end of summer reading picnic and we are also grateful for the contributions made by Laatsch's Piggly Wiggly for our record-breaking brat fry there this year.

Besides monetary and physical donations, the gift of time from volunteers is highly appreciated. The following provided quality programs without cost to our community; Ann and Brian Bodden beekeepers, the Community Rivers Program, Tangled Bank Studios, and the Kettle Moraine Symphony. We couldn't do all we do without our volunteers, so much gratitude goes to Cheryl, Gwen, Jodi, Adam, Fuzz, Teresa, and Connie. Finally, thank you goes to all our patrons and the community for continued support. Keep on reading!

Greetings from the Campbellsport Public Library!

It's almost time for our Annual Campbellsport Library Book Sale. The sale will begin on Monday, Aug. 14, and will end on Friday, Aug. 25. Sale hours are from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday-Friday. Prices include magazines - .25 cents, or five for $1; paperbacks, children's books and young adult books - .50 cents each; hardcover books - $1; music CDs - 50 cents; DVDs and audio books - $2. All other items will be marked.

During the second week of our sale from August 21-25, we have some special half-priced sale days. They are as follows:

- Monday, Aug. 21 - paperbacks
- Tuesday, Aug. 22 - hardcover
- Wednesday, Aug. 23 - children's books and DVDs
- Thursday, Aug. 24 - everything half-priced
- Friday, Aug. 25 - $1 a bag sale

This year the library received a large donation of vintage books. These books will also be included in our book sale and will be available in a separate area of the basement. Prices for these books will remain the same as the other books.

In an effort to give back to our wonderful Campbellsport community, this year during our sale the library is also working to support the Campbellsport Food Pantry. The food pantry provides support to people across the Campbellsport school district. For every three nonperishable food items donated, you may choose a free book to take home, with a limit of four books. Food donations can be brought to the library during book sale hours, and you will receive a voucher for a free book, please make sure to check expiration dates before bringing food in, expired items will not be accepted. Monetary items toward the food pantry will also be accepted.

Monday Movie of the Month

The Monday Movie of the Month will be hosted on August 28. "Avatar: The Way of Water," is the winner of the 2023 Oscar for Best Achievement in Visual Effects and library staff say that this movie is sure to wow and amaze. Jake Sully lives with his newfound family formed on the extrasolar moon Pandora. Once a familiar threat returns to finish what was previously started, Jake must work with Neytiri and the army of the Na'vi race to protect their home. Please note that the run time for this movie is three hours and 12 minutes. You can bring your own chairs and blankets for comfort. Popcorn will be provided. Show times will begin at 1 p.m and 6 p.m promptly. Please be advised, this film is rated PG-13 for sequences of strong violence and intense action, partial nudity and some strong language.

'Dinner and a Show' with the Band Paddygrass

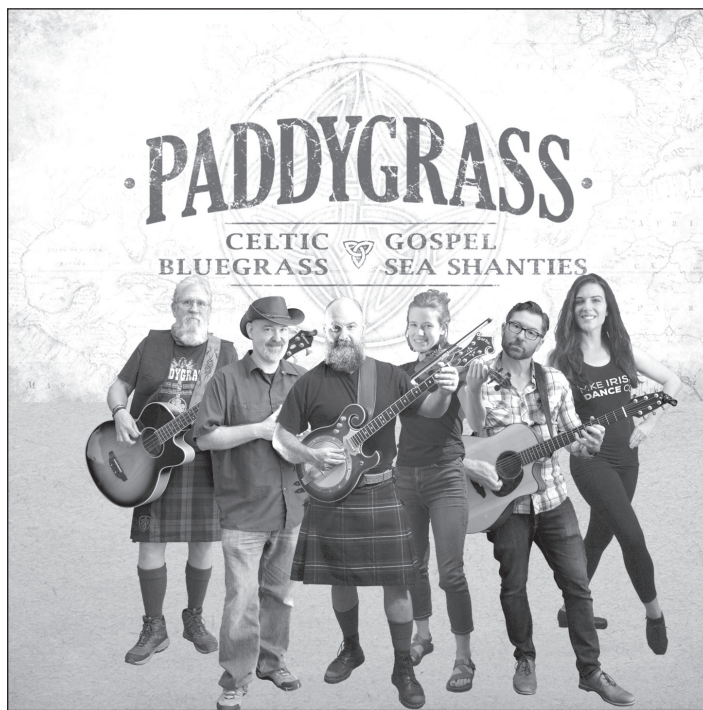

FRIENDS OF THE KETTLE MORAINE

The Friends of the Kettle Moraine invite you and your entire family for Dinner and a Show with Paddygrass on Saturday, August 19, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. The event will be held outdoors at the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area picnic shelter of the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit. Mauthe Lake is located at N1490 County Road GGG, Campbellsport which is south of County Road SS near New Prospect. A Wisconsin State Park System vehicle admission sticker is required for parking. In the case of inclement weather, the event will be moved to inside the picnic shelter.

The evening starts at 5:30 p.m. with a dinner special offered at the Mauthe Lake Concession Stand operated by 3 Sweets Bakery and Café. The menu will include a variety of items, so there is sure to be something to please everyone's appetite. Bring extra cash to buy tasty, sweet treats at the Friends of the Kettle Moraine bake sale.

At 7 p.m., Paddygrass will kick off a toe-tapping concert of Celtic, bluegrass, and sea shanty music. This band hails from the Milwaukee area and is a favorite with all ages. The cost is a freewill donation. Remember your lawn chairs and/or blankets. Dogs are not allowed in the area around the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area picnic shelter.

The Friends of the Kettle Moraine will use the proceeds to support a variety of projects to enhance the offerings at the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit. These include an accessible kayak launch at Mauthe Lake and the upgrades to the Tamarack Trail that goes around Mauthe Lake.

For more information about this fun-filled family evening, email the Friends at friendsofthekettlemoraine@gmail.com. For information about the Kettle Moraine State Forest - Northern Unit, contact the staff at the Ice Age Visitor Center (920-533-8322). The center is open Wednesday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

D.N.R. Asks Public for Help Completing Surveys of Deer and Game Birds

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is seeking the public's help collecting crucial deer and game bird management data. The data will be collected starting Aug. 1 through the Operation Deer Watch Survey and the Game Bird Brood Observations Survey.

These surveys are designed to measure the reproductive status of deer and game birds. Data from public observations is used to collect crucial deer and game bird management data, including a fawn-to-doe ratio for deer and a poult-to-hen ratio for game birds. These ratios are then compared to data from previous years to estimate how productive this year's deer herd/game birds are.

"Whenever you are out and about in Wisconsin, you can share observations of deer and game birds through the Survey123 submission tool," said Jes Rees Lohr, Assistant DNR Surveys Coordinator. "Every submission increases our dataset and helps Wisconsin have a clearer picture of how wildlife is doing. Everyone interested in wildlife, from hunters and trappers to outdoor enthusiasts, is encouraged to participate. It's an easy way to be involved in wildlife management in our state."

The deadline to submit bird observations for the Game Bird Brood Survey is Aug. 31. The deadline to submit deer observations for the Operation Deer Watch Survey is Sept. 30.

Participation in both surveys is simple. It doesn't require registration and can be done using a mobile device. If in a vehicle, participants should only record sightings when their vehicle is stopped, not while driving.

For Operation Deer Watch, the public should report the location, deer type (buck, doe or fawn) and the number of deer seen. This information helps to determine the fawn-to-doe ratio and, ultimately, deer population estimates. More information is available on the Operation Deer Watch webpage (dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/WildlifeHabitat/summerdeer).

For Game Bird Brood Observations, the DNR needs to know the bird species (turkey, ruffed grouse or pheasant), the type (adult or poult) and the number observed of each type. This information is a basis for monitoring the reproduction of game birds for that breeding year. More information is available on the Game Bird Brood Observations webpage (dnr.wisconsin.gov/topic/WildlifeHabitat/GameBirdBroodObservations).

Bug Tussel Launches Pilot Program in Campbellsport

Internet provider to host community Q&A at municipal center on Aug. 10 from 3-6 p.m.

BUG TUSSEL

Bug Tussel Wireless, a subsidiary of Hilbert Communications, LLC, announced this week that its Bug Beacon pilot program will launch in the Village of Campbellsport.

The Bug Beacon program will utilize cutting edge wireless technologies that aren't currently being utilized anywhere in the state.

Campbellsport will be the first village in the state to benefit from this newer technology, which creates a high throughput wireless mesh network, providing both redundancy and increased speeds.

Bug Tussel is partnering with the Village of Campbellsport and its residents. Residents and business owners can help by becoming a host of one of the beacons. Call 877-227-0924 to see if your property is ideal for hosting.

While Campbellsport residents can expect fiber-like speeds through this wireless network, they can also expect lock-in promotional pricing for five years. Contact Bug Tussel for pricing and plan options.

In Bug Tussel's commitment to bring high speed internet to rural Wisconsin, and this new technology to Campbellsport, representatives will be available on Thursday, Aug. 10 from 3-6 p.m. at the Campbellsport Community Center (470 Grandview Ave.).

Representatives can answer questions, help choose the right plan for specific needs and sign up residents for the Campbellsport Bug Beacon program.

have running water, so she of course had to heat the water. "In Byron, we heated, and you used a washtub. Like they said, years ago, 'one got in right after the other.' You weren't so darn fussy about water all the time. You didn't have all that means." She took a bath in the laundry tub she had. She could fit in it, she said, so she got washed. She couldn't quite remember how she even heated the water in Byron.

"I guess we had a few pieces of silverware, but I don't even know where we got that. My father had some cupboards that he got from Rosenbaum's - that was on Fourth Street." She didn't have much of a stove, just "a little burner" somebody lent them. She never complained when she spoke of the old days. But it was almost as if it was another life, not only speaking to those much younger reading this at this time - but even herself who was sitting in her home on Southgate Drive in Fond du Lac in early 2017. "That's almost 73 years ago," she said of her days starting in Byron.

Fixing the Sandwich

The point is Leona set the stage for an environment in which she and Gordon had very little. Not a complaint - just an explanation of what the world looked like in 1944 and 1945. "Anyhow, we got by. And I can remember when I was in this house, and it wasn't too much of anything [at the time], but all of a sudden, a bum came along. And I'm new at the time [to Byron] and this is war - so I don't even know - I think they had some meat that you could buy in a can. And I must have fixed him a couple of sandwiches, and couple of the neighbors said, 'Boy, you better be careful they'll be back. They might mark a tree.'" Leona could not remember the meat specifically, but "it was a type of canned meat that you got" in wartime. "But I don't like it anyhow." It could possibly be something which was SPAM-like or SPAM itself.

She spoke of a store in Marblehead, "We'd go down there and get the meat from the store." And the neighbors warned her that "by me fixing this bum sandwiches - then he might come back again, maybe mark a tree so he'd remember where he'd got this food. He didn't, thank goodness. Well, I didn't know that we didn't have bums in Fond du Lac."

Questions on the Era

Leona's story is important because it's an example of the possibility that "bums" were more common in rural areas than they were in the city. This is more of a question than an answer. Perhaps bums preferred the countryside because there were less people or law enforcement to spot them. Seems it would be way more private to go from house to house in the countryside when there's fence lines and woods in between to hide. Compared to current times, there were so many more fence rows in our rural townships in the 1940s, when fields were still five to 10 acres bordered by fieldstone. This was because rocks were hard to pull far, either by horse or simple tractor. Farm field equipment was also much smaller, which aligned with field size. The point is one can imagine a traveling man eating comfortably under the shade of a tree in rural Byron more than inner city Fond du Lac.

It's also interesting that Leona's first bum was in Byron, especially that the memory is already after the Great Depression. "I don't know where this bum came from, but anyway, I was new." This is another story that edges out of the Great Depression Era, which was bad from 1929 to 1933, but many argue it ran until the U.S. entered into World War II. Leona's story is 1945. So, when does the 'bum' era end? Clearly there is point when bums no longer roam, and trespassing holds higher weight legally and socially.

Lastly, Leona said, "I must have been scared at the time, but anyhow, I must have fixed him a couple sandwiches.

"Editor's note: The use of the word 'bum' was commonplace in early America and used differently than it is today. Usage of the term here is meant to illustrate local human history and is for educational purposes.

other than the fact that it's already gone.

Then, I realized, it's not the summer or time, but it's me. For one, the season is not over, and yet I'm already lamenting it's passing. If I didn't accomplish my goals for the year, who else is there to blame but me?

In assessing this conundrum further, I am not sure there's anyone to fault, but, instead, it's best just to realize that, as I get older, no matter how hard I try, the precious warm months will always feel fleeting. No matter how much "R&R" one gets, is it ever actually enough?

In all likelihood, I will always want to spend more time in the water, at the baseball diamond and with my (more successful) tomato plants.

So, instead of feeling that schoolboy dread this August, I'm going to savor every single second left of this summer and, just maybe, I'll keep it rolling well into October (weather permitting).

We have more than a month remaining, so let's make the most of it!

See you next week

New Tool Available to Help Residents Find Free, Discounted Internet Service

Gov. Tony Evers last month, together with the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin (PSC) and the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction (DPI), announced the launch of the Internet Discount Finder website to help Wisconsin households find and access affordable internet. The new tool can assist in finding free and discounted internet service available to eligible Wisconsin residents.

"We're proud our investments are helping more than 395,000 homes and businesses get new or improved broadband services, but we know that cost continues to be a major barrier for folks and families across the state," said Gov. Evers. "This tool is just one more way we can help close the digital divide in our state and make sure high-speed internet is accessible and affordable for our kids to learn, for families to get connected to resources like healthcare, and for employers and workers to keep our economy growing."

The Internet Discount Finder quickly matches eligible Wisconsin residents to low-cost home internet service and discount programs by entering their address and identifying their eligibility criteria. The tool will show available plans and describe next steps for enrollment in the Affordable Connectivity Program (ACP). The ACP helps eligible households get a discount of up to $30 per month for broadband service and internet connected devices and up to $75 per month for households on qualifying Tribal lands. More information about ACP can be found at GetInternet.gov.

"Affordability is a consistent barrier to many who need broadband. The Internet Discount Finder is designed to make it easier for Wisconsin households to find ways to save money on essential internet services," said PSC Chairperson Rebecca Cameron Valcq. "In minutes, eligible residents can learn about free and discounted internet service plans or begin enrolling in the Affordable Connectivity Program."

"We know that internet access can provide children and their families with incredible learning opportunities, helping them learn, grow, and connect with knowledge and services," said Wisconsin State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Jill Underly. "We also know that the high cost of internet continues to be a barrier to that access. This tool will make a difference in the lives of children and families across Wisconsin."

Support is available by phone for individuals who cannot access the Internet Discount Finder website, including the:

- Wisconsin Internet and Phone Helpline at 608-267-3595;
- Affordable Connectivity Program at 877-384-2575;
- Federal Lifeline Support Center at 800-234-9473; and

• Wisconsin 2-1-1, which connects to thousands of nonprofit and government services across the state.

This project was made possible in part by the Institute of Museum and Library Services. IMLS is the primary source of federal support for the nation's libraries and museums. IMLS advances, supports, and empowers America's museums, libraries, and related organizations through grantmaking, research, and policy development. IMLS envisions a nation where individuals and communities have access to museums and libraries to learn from and be inspired by the trusted information, ideas, and stories they contain about our diverse natural and cultural heritage.

2023 Draft Wolf Management Plan is Now Available

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) today released a revised draft of the 2023 Wolf Management Plan. The plan will go to the Natural Resource Board (NRB) during their meeting on Oct. 25, 2023.

The DNR began developing this updated draft plan in early 2021 to align its wolf management strategies with the current state of the wolf population and the desires of a diverse public. The DNR recognizes the biologically recovered status of wolves in Wisconsin, and this plan turns its attention from wolf recovery to long-term stewardship and sustainable management of wolves in the state.

The draft plan aims to guide the department's management efforts for the coming years and expresses the state's dual commitments of maintaining a sustainable and ecologically functional wolf population while also being responsive in addressing wolf-related conflicts and concerns. Both commitments are explicitly represented in the plan's overarching goal: Ensure a healthy and sustainable wolf population that fulfills the numerous ecological, cultural, and recreational benefits of wolves, while being responsive in addressing and preventing wolf-related conflicts and recognizing the diverse values and perspectives of all residents in Wisconsin.

Extensive public input was collected and considered when developing this draft plan. Prior to releasing the first draft plan in November 2022, the DNR created and collaborated with a Wolf Management Plan Committee consisting of 29 stakeholder, tribal and external agency representatives. The DNR also consulted with Wisconsin's Tribal Nations and the Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission (GLIFWC), reviewed scientific literature and studied current public attitudes toward wolves in Wisconsin. Then, the DNR held a 3.5-month public review and comment period where over 3,500 comments were collected. All comments were reviewed and considered in revising the draft 2023 Wolf Management Plan.

"The public's interest and passion towards wolves and wolf management showed in the comments the DNR received," said DNR Secretary Adam N. Payne. "This plan comes from years of dedicated effort and careful consideration, is flexible, actionable, and, most importantly, outlines a path toward responsible and sustainable wolf management. I am thankful to everyone who contributed, reviewed the plan or submitted a comment."

How Does The Revised Draft Plan Compare To November's Draft Plan?

Many parts of November's initial draft plan received predominately positive feedback. Based on this feedback, the revised draft plan retains strong commitments to maintaining a healthy wolf population in the state, being responsive in assisting those who are negatively affected by interactions with wolves and relying on scientific research and data to inform management decisions. The revised version also maintains an emphasis on ongoing wolf population monitoring and collaboration with other agencies, Tribal Nations, stakeholder groups and the public. Additionally, the revised draft plan continues to recognize the ecological benefits and cultural importance of wolves to the people of Wisconsin.

Based on the public's feedback, the revised draft maintains its recommendations intended to improve wolf harvest season implementation, such as a shortened harvest registration time and issuing zone-specific licenses. It also better describes how future wolf harvest quotas are recommended to be developed and allocated across management zones. This revision also preserved the updated wolf management zones and subzones, with one boundary modification made.

Other aspects of November's draft plan have been strengthened in the revised draft plan through the public's feedback. A common area of concern centered around expectations and uncertainty of future wolf population sizes when there is no numeric population goal. The plan continues to recommend an adaptive management framework instead of a numeric population goal. However, the updated plan provides greater clarity on a projected population range based on the current management objectives. The revised draft plan also discusses how under this plan, natural wolf population dynamics and future wolf harvest levels are expected to maintain statewide wolf abundance at levels comparable to recent years (overwinter estimates of approximately 800 to 1,200 wolves), while also allowing for fluctuations in local wolf densities as necessary to achieve management objectives.

Other additions in the revised draft plan are intended to strengthen transparency and clarify misconceptions evident in the comments, including the clearer goal statement (reflected above), an improved executive summary to provide a concise description of the plan's vision and actions, and more specific metrics developed to help gauge the success of management actions.

A draft copy of the full revised 2023 Wolf Management Plan is available on the DNR's Wolf Management Plan webpage. The DNR recommends that the public read the executive summary for a more concise overview of the revised draft plan before reading the rest of the plan.

D.N.R. Releases Annual Drinking Water Report

Department, partners tackle safe drinking water challenges

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) recently published its 2022 Annual Drinking Water Report.

The report shows that most public water systems met all the Safe Drinking Water Act regulations last year. This was accomplished while facing challenges from emerging contaminants, aging infrastructure and nitrate contamination in some wells.

The report also shows that more than 99% of Wisconsin's public water systems met all health-based contaminant standards.

Wisconsin has more public drinking water systems than any state in the country – more than 11,000 systems. The success of the DNR Drinking Water and Groundwater Program depends on teamwork between many partners to effectively manage the quality and availability of drinking water resources. Throughout 2022, the DNR worked with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), county health officials, community-based organizations and public water system owners and operators.

"This report demonstrates that the health of our drinking water resources is important to everyone and clearly connected to a healthy environment and economy," said Steve Elmore, DNR Drinking Water and Groundwater Program Director. "The DNR's collaboration with partners helped Wisconsin make strides in water resource equity."

People expect safe drinking water when they turn on their faucets, yet some marginalized and excluded communities face challenges like lead and other contaminants in their water. Environmental justice is a priority, and the DNR made changes to help communities most affected by negative outcomes. The department revised its funding criteria for safe drinking water projects to better identify communities in need and determine eligibility for principal forgiveness funding.

In 2022, 57 communities received $34.9 million in principal forgiveness funding for private lead service line replacement. Replacing both the publicly and privately owned sections is critical to reducing exposure to lead in drinking water.

The DNR also awarded more than $105 million in financial assistance to 31 communities through the Safe Drinking Water Loan Program, to help them make needed improvements to their drinking water infrastructure.

The DNR made progress tackling PFAS contamination (per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances). In 2022, the state established drinking water standards for two PFAS at 70 parts per trillion (individually or combined). In addition, the DNR sponsored a voluntary project to help municipal water systems statewide learn whether their water supplies contain PFAS. Almost a quarter of Wisconsin's municipalities took advantage of the opportunity and participated in this project. Testing for and identifying contaminants is a key step in addressing the challenge.

You can review the Annual Drinking Water Report on the DNR website or by calling 608-266-1054 to request a printed copy. A new interactive map displays communities that were awarded funding for projects through the Safe Drinking Water Loan Program and the Private Lead Service Line Replacement Program.

More information about the work the DNR is doing to provide safe drinking water is available on the DNR website.

| IT ALL STARTS WITH YOU |

Pause, Observe, Choose

JAMIE LYNN GOURLIE
CONTRIBUTOR

Dearest You,

You know that moment when you are full of strong emotions?

I'm not referencing a happy emotion by any means. I'm referring to a scenario where you are already in irritation mode, trying to control yourself, (or not), and someone says something that pushes you over the edge.

Perhaps in this state you find yourself blurting out and responding in a way that later causes some guilt or regret.

Maybe, when you take a moment and calm down, you come to the realization how you responded was not ideal.

Sometimes when we are in a heightened state and something comes along and pushes us over the edge, we react negatively, not realizing, there are a few things that could be misleading. Was the incident that pushed you over the edge all that it appeared to be in that moment? Or, did it feel that way due to a previous irritation? Did you hear all the details correctly and understand it before losing your cool?

The chances of misunderstanding someone or something when we are irritated or in a hurry are alarming high. Studies show, 90% of conflicts are a result of misunderstandings alone.

Add on top of that extra high emotions?

This is the perfect environment for creating mass chaos!

This week, I invite you to try a simple tool that could make a world of a difference in heated moments.

First, take a moment to pause and breathe, connect with yourself. This can help create a little balance in the chaos.

Then observe details about yourself in that moment. Perhaps ask yourself how and why you are so heightened in your current mood, and how it will help you.

Then make a choice on how you want to proceed and respond. Perhaps by asking the other person to repeat what they said. Listening with clarity and a bit of balance creates the power to keep a calm healthy environment open for discussion.

So, the next time you are feeling chaos, will you continue to contribute to the chaos? Or, will you take a moment to Pause - Observe - Choose?

This is your reminder; it truly does all start with you.

years, sometimes becoming competitive, though they remained friends.

The spring of 1934 saw the moving of Wescott and Wheeler to New York City. In New York, Glenway felt disconnected from other writers and continued to struggle writing fiction. The struggle redirected Wescott's primary literary genre to personal and scholarly essays. He began to give lectures at college during this time as well, causing his social circle and obligations to grow.

Wescott's family grew in New York, as well. At the end of 1934, Barbara Harrison came to New York City and met Glenway's younger brother, Lloyd. Lloyd and Barbara began dating in early 1935 and were engaged on April 4, 1935. The couple was married four days later.

When Barbara first met the Wescotts' parents, she toned down her usual glamor and amount of jewelry, but it still surprised them. The Wescotts had never seen such wealth, especially during the Great Depression.

The summer of 1935 brought about another change in Glenway Wescott's career path. Wheeler became the director of the Museum of Modern Art in New York City. With Wheeler's new position, Glenway took up writing essays about art and artists. He continued to primarily author this essay type into 1936, publishing only two fiction short stories that year.

Barbara and Lloyd purchased a farm in Hampton, New Jersey, where they provided Glenway and Monroe with a house. Glenway named their house Stone-blossom. Wescott and Wheeler lived at their apartment in New York during the week.

The following year, Katherine Ann Porter moved to New York. She encouraged Wescott to read less French writers, a suggestion he accepted after the failure of his French tone in Fear and Trembling. He obliged by reading more British authors, trying to get the French style out of his system.

Wheeler echoed Porter's sentiment in a different way. Monroe asked Wescott to write a small Christmas piece. For Christmas of 1937, Glenway wrote "New Jersey Farm - Christmas Images," starting the process of getting his writing voice back.

The process continued in 1938. Glenway Wescott was given $2,000 by his brother Lloyd for a trip to Europe to assist him with his writing. In France, Wescott met Michel Girard, a soldier in too small of a uniform, who would later inspire Glenway's story, "The French-man Six-Foot-Three."

The trip to Europe led Wescott to find his author's voice again.

Wescott attempted to utilize his rediscovered voice upon his return to the United States, but he wrote three pieces that would go either unfinished or unpublished.

The first piece, "The Stallions" was a long story that Glenway tried for years to turn into a novel, but remained unsuccessful.

The second piece, "An Example of Suicide" was never published.

The last story Wescott wrote was reminiscent of his old style. The long story, "A Visit to Priapus" is an autobiographical account of a short relationship Glenway had in Maine. The story follows Alwyn Tower and fictional painter, Jaris Hawthorn. "A Visit to Priapus" stayed unpublished until after Wescott's death due to its controversial themes. The book is based around one of Glenway's visits to Barbara Harrison in Rambouillet before she married Glenway Wescott's next published piece came in 1939 when he released the poem, "The Summer Ending". The poem describes a rocky relationship through farm and storm imagery.

During World War II, Wescott found he could again complete not one, but two novels (and a ballet).

Early 1940, Wescott started to compose The Pilgrim Hawk. Alwyn Tower serves as the narrator, presenting the story of an Irish couple who arrive with a trained hawk. The wife adores the hawk, while the husband despises it. At different parts of the novel critics find Tower viewing the hawk as a symbol of love, marriage, erotic desire, alcoholism, religion and artistic freedom.

Looking back into days in France, Glenway Wescott's libretto for a ballet, "The Dream of Audubon", follows Audubon, the lost son of Louis XVI and Marie Antionette. The ballet is set in Louisiana where Audubon dreams about the execution of his parents.

"The Dream of Audubon" appeared in Best One-Act Plays of 1940.

Check back for Part VI in a future edition.

frost. You will find row covers available in various weights that provide different levels of cold weather protection. Select the one best suited to your climate and the vegetables you are growing.

Loosely cover the plants with the fabric and anchor the edges with stones, boards, or landscape pins. Just lift the row cover to harvest, recover, and leave it in place until the harvest is complete, or the temperatures drop below what the row cover and plants can handle.

Wait for the soil to cool before planting lettuce, spinach, and other vegetable seeds that require cooler temperatures to germinate. Increase germination success by planting the seeds as directed, watering them in, and covering the row with a wooden lath to keep the soil cooler. Remove the lath as soon as the seeds sprout. Or start the plants indoors and move them into the garden as transplants. Then help keep the soil cool throughout the remainder of summer by mulching with leaves, evergreen needles, or other organic mulch.

Increase the health and productivity of your second planting by preparing the soil before planting seeds and transplants. Mix an inch of quality compost into the top six inches of soil or fertilize with organically rich low-nitrogen fertilizer.

Once your seeds and transplants are in the ground, be sure to water them properly. Keep the seedbed and roots of transplants moist for the first few weeks. Gradually reduce the watering frequency as seedlings sprout and grow, and transplants become established. Most plants need about an inch of water each week. Water thoroughly whenever the top few inches of soil are crumbly and slightly moist. Adjust your watering schedule based on your weekly rainfall, soil type, and air temperatures.

Harvest vegetables when they are at their peak of ripeness and early in the morning after the dew dries whenever possible. Regular picking avoids waste and results in a bigger harvest of flavorful and nutritious vegetables to enjoy throughout the fall.

COLUMNIST

I had two very interesting experiences last week, one was bad, the other was very good.

First the bad: I got an infection in my left thumb that spread to my hand and arm and, by the time it was diagnosed, I could feel it in my chest and I had a brain fog. That worked out with good doctoring and meds but was a very close call.

I ended the week on a positive note with my old buddy, Scott Polencheck of Glidden, and his 19-year-old son, Preston, on a Canadian fishing trip near Valora, Ontario, which is about an hour north of Ignace.

The Polenchecks have a cabin, and I love hanging out there.

FRIDAY, JULY 28
HIGH 75, LOW 48

This would be one of those fast-type trips with a total of 24 hours of travel time "round trip" and 72 hours at the cabin/fishing; every minute was spent either fishing, getting to the fishing, doing some maintenance or sleeping.

I met Scott when he gave me a call back around 2002 and asked me to come up and hunt bear with him at his family's resort, which was called Wintering Resort on Wintering Lake. Scott's father-in-law, the late Dick Butler, ran the resort, and I went there with friends and family about six times. I took a bear with a bow on that first hunt.

These days, Roger and Karin Simon of Ignace own and have 100-percent rebuilt "Wintering Getaway", and I found out these two true bush people are a ton of fun.

Today, Scott, Preston and I do a lengthy ATV trip on a very narrow trail with all gear required for a day of fishing on a lake that seldom gets fished.

I might add that we just arrived at 5 a.m. this morning.

In my world, and my phone, Scott is not "Scott"; he is "Superman" and, today, Superman and his crew had a blast as we caught about a gazillion walleye with next to no effort required.

We were in a go-for-it mode and had a top-notch shore lunch, which was followed by another bush ride and then lots of laughs back at the cabin. Though I still was having problems with the infection, I was confident it would heal.

SATURDAY, JULY 29
HIGH 74, LOW 46

There are grouse everywhere up here and, I mean, like chickens in a barnyard.

As fall is approaching, all the locals, which Superman knows most of them, are talking about making meat in the form of grouse and moose. The population for this maybe 50-square-mile area is 2.6 trillion grouse or "chickens" as the locals call them, 925 moose and 46 humans!

Then there is lake after lake of walleye and northern pike, and I am thinking I need to spend more time here.

Today it was back to secret lake, 1.2 million laughs and a fish fry at camp.

Preston Polencheck is 19, I have known him for most of his life, and I wanted to wrestle him and destroy him in an arm-wrestling match but decided to go easy on him. Preston is about as full of life as a kid can be and his main goals are hunting, fishing, possibly barley pop when he turns 21 and chasing girls. Either I was giving Preston an ear-full, or he was doing the same. This kid attended North Central Technical College and became educated in gas/utility installation (as in underground lines). Preston also got his CDL and is working in the Eau Claire area for Intercon Construction. After I teach him how to hunt and fish and some other things, he should do ok.

On the last day of our trip, we did another major journey "about 12 miles total" with Roger Simon, and we were pulling a boat and lots of gear with an ATV and UTV.

Rumor has it, I kind of sucked at fishing, but the rumor tellers want me to tell you that I caught the biggest fish of the weekend with my old trusty Rippin Rap!

Colleen Hasse Named New Varsity Volleyball Coach

CAMPBELLSPORT HIGH SCHOOL

The Campbellsport Athletic Department is proud to introduce Colleen Hasse as the new varsity volleyball coach. She is not new to the district or the sport. Hasse came to Campbellsport last year and worked as a PE/Health teacher. It is her 21st year of teaching, overall. She comes to us with a wealth of knowledge.

Coach Hasse has over 20 years of coaching experience, as well. She has been coaching most of her adult life in the school setting and beyond. Her success is evident with six total conference titles and two state appearances (2007 runner up; 2008 loss in quarter finals). As a club coach, 2008 USAJV ninth place finish (won Silver bracket); 2011 National Championship 14 and under AAU; 2017 fifth place finish AAU 17 Open Division. Currently, she also serves as the Indoor Tournament Director with the Milwaukee Sting Volleyball Club in Menomonee Falls. Coach Hasse loves the game of volleyball and continues to share her passion with young people.

Coach Hasse credits much of her success as a coach to the constant support of the families she worked with and the schools she worked in.

"I believe the court is an extension of the classroom and where we can assist student athletes to be both better on and off the court," stated Hasse.

She looks forward to continuing the good work that has been happening within the volleyball program.

On a personal level, Coach Hasse has a husband who is a Lieutenant for the City of West Bend Fire Department and avid hunter. She also has two active sons, Cormac will be a sophomore and EJ (Easton) will be a fourth grader. During her off time, she spends time competing as an athlete as well. Coach Hasse has completed various triathlon distances and three consecutive national races, with a recent 2024 qualification.

We wish Coach Hasse, her staff (Carla Ward and Jessica Jensen), and the volleyball team the best of luck in the coming season.

Come and check out the action, which starts with a home match against Oakfield on August 23.

A's Fall Out of Class A Tourney, Start Rock River Postseason this Weekend

KEWASKUM A'S

The Kewaskum A's traveled to Marinette over the weekend for the Class A State Tournament, but came up empty bowing out after two games.

In the tournament opener against eventual champion Kenosha, the A's fell behind early as Kenosha coasted to the 11-2 win.

Brad Young finished with a hit and RBI.

In game two against Menasha, the A's trailed 4-0 into the sixth without a hit, but an RBI-double by Jim Ziegler followed by RBI-singles from Brad Young and Jake Sweet cut the deficit to 4-3.

The A's couldn't push across a run from there as they dropped their second game of the day and were eliminated from the tournament.

The A's played a tune-up Tuesday night after print time against Sussex (in Lannon). Due up, they play in the double-elimination Rock River Playoffs this weekend.

The A's host Thiensville-Mequon at 1 p.m. this Saturday and will play again Sunday against an opponent yet to be determined.

Monday, July 31

Kewaskum, 13 vs. Menasha, 2

• The A's wrapped up their NEWBL regular season on Monday with a 13-2 win over Menasha in eight innings.

All nine batters in the A's lineup had at least one hit while Jim Ziegler (6 IP, 0 ER, 8 K's, Win) and Sean Menzel (2 IP, ER, K) kept the Menasha lineup in check.
