Armstrong Apples Ceases Winemaking, Future of Property in the Works

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

For Christina Fox, the property at Armstrong Apples Orchard & Winery – located just northwest of Dundee in the Town of Osceola – has deep roots, and that’s not just referring to the apple trees planted there 30 years ago.

“My grandparents lived here,” said Fox, 39, of the property, referring to Rudy and Afra Weber.

Christina grew up in Louisiana but “moved around a lot” as a kid. Rudy and Afra’s homestead off Highway B, however, was like a “homebase” to Fox.

“We always came back here to this property to visit,” she said.

Earlier this year, the Fox family – Christina and her husband Chad, 42, along with their eight children – announced they made the bittersweet decision to cease winemaking operations after nearly a decade.

“It was a really hard decision and not something we wanted to do,” said Fox. “But we felt like it was just getting harder and harder. It was just too much physically on all of us.”

Armstrong Apples held its last day of the season on Sunday, Nov. 5. They had been selling their remaining wine products throughout the

Kewaskum Rescinds Eminent Domain Action

PNC Looks to Negotiate with Kewaskum on Former Bank Branch Building

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

The Kewaskum Village Board, as of its regular Monday, Nov. 6, meeting, has agreed to its former terms with PNC Bank on the purchase of the former bank branch at 1225 Fond du Lac Ave., which will put to rest, for now, the necessity of an eminent domain claim by the village.

“PNC has reached out to us and doesn’t want eminent domain and wants to sell us the building,” said Gitter at Monday’s meeting.

Gitter noted PNC was willing to uphold an earlier agreement to sell to the village in an amount roughly $650,000.

PNC had backed out of the non-binding agreement earlier this year. Gitter said PNC, at the time, preferred to sell the building as part of a portfolio of assets as opposed to individually.

While PNC could still back out again Gitter noted the use of eminent domain, in this case, could be used again should the bank go that route.

“If something should go sideways, we’ll just have

Life in the Missions during World War II

CONTRIBUTOR

There are very few people living who can say Five Star General Douglas MacArthur ordered their secret evacuation from a U.S. territory during World War II. Lou Anne Daniels of South Eden is one of them.

Rochester to Talakag

Lou Anne (Kohler) Daniels was born in Rochester, New York in 1937. “I’m in the Philippines because my parents were missionaries there: Bob and Grace Kohler. I was two years old when they went to the Philippines. They wouldn’t allow them to go until I was two. I guess at that point in time, it was a little safer if you were out in the boonies with a little bit older child than a baby.” “They” in this case would be the mission board in the 1930s who approved the trip.

It’s approximately 1941 when Lou Anne starts recalling life, which means her recollections largely start when World War II was in its second year, and as the United States was about to join. She was in the village of Talakag, which she pronounced “Tah-lah-kahg.” She said the Americans would pronounce it incorrectly as “Tell-a-keg.”

Talakag is on the island of Mindanao. The

“Pass It Forward”: Help Us Shape the Future of Journalism

Dear Reader,

Today, I invite you to be a part of something extraordinary – the MMC Internship Program. The “Pass It Forward” program has been a resounding success, thanks to the generous sponsorship of the Packers Give Back and Nicolet Bank. This initiative has thrived, powered by the unwavering support of seasoned editors and writers from the Press Times in collaboration with talented interns from UWGB and St. Norbert College.

Pass It Forward is not just an internship program; it is a transformational journey. It is a collective effort that has led to positive change in our local communities. By filling the gaps where coverage of news was previously lacking, this program has given a voice to stories that matter. Concurrently, our interns have realized that they are not merely students; they are the future of journalism, learning and growing through “Earn Your Press Pass” webinars, on-site seminars, and hands-on experience covering real stories across sports, entertainment, and government.

The impact of this program reaches far and wide. Our sponsors have seen their names associated with the incredible work of our interns, earning well-deserved recognition for supporting local news. As a community, we have a chance to acknowledge and appreciate these businesses that have given us the gift of knowledge and insight.

But our journey doesn’t end here. We are on a mission to expand our reach and create more opportunities. In the coming year, we plan to extend Pass It Forward to other Wisconsin cities, including Wausau and Stevens Point. We also intend to welcome journalism and communications interns from a broader spectrum of schools, including both college and high school levels.

To make this vision a reality, we need your support. Whether you are a business owner, an influencer in your local or regional community, or simply someone who values the power of journalism and education, we invite you to join us. Together, we can nurture the next generation of storytellers and continue to shine a light on the stories that deserve to be told.

For more information and details on how you can become a part of our mission, please contact mhollihan@mmclocal.com. Let’s “Pass It Forward” and make a lasting impact on the world of journalism.

Thank you for considering our call for support.

Shade of Blue

MITCHELL BRADLEY KELLER
EDITOR

As a fan of the Milwaukee Brewers, I write this feeling blue.

A deep shade of Brewers’ royal blue, too, not the (much preferred) baby blue.

Blue (and I mean sad) because the club’s longtime manager (and former player), Craig Counsell, has decided to join the rival Chicago Cubs.

For those who don’t pay attention to professional baseball, Counsell is the winningest manager in Brewers’ history. He took the team to within one game of the World Series in 2018. In 2019, the club returned to the postseason (the only time the franchise had ever qualified consecutive years).

Added to it, Counsell grew up in Wisconsin and still lives in his hometown (Whitefish Bay). Many fans of Milwaukee baseball were comforted by having a regional steward of the game at the helm of the local nine.

There was some belief that Counsell’s roots would prompt him to stay close to home. Well, he did, though his commute is now a bit longer to Wrigley.

Also for those out of tune with baseball: The Brewers really don’t like the Cubs. That’s a water-downed version, too. I cannot legally print some of the adjectives needed to portray Milwaukee’s true disdain for the North Siders.

The surprise hire – the expectation was Counsell would manager either the Brewers or the New York Mets next season – has sent a shock-wave through Brewer’s fandom. Plenty of blame and finger-pointing, for sure, and certainly a lot of frustration and anger.

Mostly from what I see, though, is what I’m feeling: Blue.

I guess this is one of those moments as an adult where I have to practice what I preach: Remember it’s all just a game, for entertainment and it’s nothing to get bent out of shape about.

Still, Counsell lives in the same community I do (though significantly closer to Lake Michigan), and something about a “neighbor” up and moving still stings a little.

Even though it is just a game, it’s an expensive one that helps breathe life and commerce into the City of Milwaukee and Wisconsin. Like or not, the game has value to a lot of people, and perhaps I’m hyper-sensitive to this living in Milwaukee County.

Trying to be optimistic, I hope that a respected figure like Counsell leaving (to the tune of $8 million per year for five years) doesn’t put a dent in the momentum the Milwaukee Brewers have made in my lifetime.

While it stinks to be “left behind” (which happens all too often as a small market team), maybe this go-around it can be motivation?

Whoever is up next, I’ll still look forward to root-root-rooting for the Brewers, and I wish Craig nothing but giant “L” flags flying in his future.

See you next week

This past weekend spelled two favorite words in regard to a least favorite season; autumn. Fall back.

Though they’re not related to social status as a well off the radar underachiever. Doubt that? One glimpse at grade school report cards or the first three years of secondary transcripts do not predict a wildly successful future, er, present. Despite the vibe of laxity or procrastination emitted by those two words.

Admittedly, with age comes a measure of less locomotion. Still, NOT a complete stop. No. They fit well with the lifestyle, rather circadian rhythms of a night hawk. While others sleep, I indulge twin luxuries, reading broadly in an eclectic fashion; everything from fiction, poetry, plays to theology, psychology, philosophy and science. Then writing poems and columns.

So, it isn’t total bruin like hibernation. But instead, the extra hour of sleep gained by a non-bright eyed, bushy tailed morning person. Crack of dawn is for farmers and roosters.

Conversely, a preferred part of the year, the Vernal Equinox and summer beyond contain an awful pair – Spring ahead. One big hand sweep of the clock, yet even an old lion misses those precious 60. My father spun a little humor into the subject when he suggested, “Sleep fast.”

Now the U.S. Congress, who apparently having nothing better to do with their sessions than squander weeks to elect a Speaker of the House and continue to spout the [alleged] Big Lie to their MEGA constituents, has found another dead mule to take a couple whacks at. Eliminating DST, Daylight Savings Time completely.

Whoa! Wait a D.C. minute. Hasn’t the same idea been tried on a few occasions previously, without satisfaction? A clear demonstration of insanity... and federal bureaucracy. Best leave the decision to us. Grumpy or not, it’s a normal cycle we’ll deal with. Then move on.

StoryWalk Adventures

FRIENDS OF THE KETTLE MORAIN

Looking for an engaging outdoor adventure for you and your preschoolers and early elementary kids/grandkids?

Venture to the Kettle Moraine State Forest – Northern Unit to enjoy a StoryWalk!

A StoryWalk involves reading a story while traveling along an outdoor path.

The concept of a StoryWalk was created by Anne Ferguson of Montpelier, VT and developed with the help of Rachel Senechal of the Kellogg-Hubbard Library.

Today, StoryWalks can be found in all 50 states and more than 13 countries.

The Friends of the Kettle Moraine received two Natural Resources Foundation grants in 2021 that totaled $3,000. These grants helped pay for the installation of a StoryWalk at the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area and another at the Long Lake Recreation Area.

Each month throughout the year the book along with complementary activities changes at both locations.

'Love Lights for the Holidays'

SUBMITTED

Guess what? The two large evergreen trees are still standing tall like two centurions! The Campbellsport Village crew did not cut them down, so for the 11th year we can welcome the community and visitors to Campbellsport with the "Love Lights for the Holidays" community trees at Campbellsport Mill Pond Park.

We are so excited for you to help us light up the trees!

If there is someone special you would like to remember this holiday season, have a "Love Light" lit in their name.

You can purchase a "Love Lights for the Holidays" light for $5 each.

The "Love Light" can be for anyone you would like to remember this holiday season. It can be in memory of someone special; past, present or in the military.

"Love Lights" are available for purchase by sending a form and payment to:

*Shirley Simon
311 Windell Ave.*

Campbellsport, WI 53010

Lighting of the "Love Lights for the Holidays" community trees will take place at Mill Pond Park on December 2. Watch for details on the lighting ceremony in the coming weeks.

Funds collected are distributed to community programs. If you have questions or would like more information, call 920-979-8704.

Thank you for your support in the past years.

Let's keep the "Love Lights" burning in memory of your loved ones this holiday season!

Washington County Participating in Operation Green Light in Support of Veterans

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY EXECUTIVE
WASHINGTON COUNTY

In advance of the upcoming Veterans Day holiday, Washington County will illuminate county buildings in green lighting from November 6-12 as part of Operation Green Light for Veterans, a nationwide effort uniting counties in a show of support for our military veterans. The Washington County Government Center, Justice Center, Sheriff's Office and Public Agency Center will be illuminated with green lighting.

The initiative, led by the National Association of Counties (NACo) and the National Association of County Veterans Service Officers, raises awareness around the unique challenges faced by many veterans and the resources available at the county, state, and federal levels to assist veterans and their families.

"The green lights serve as a visual symbol to remind us of the ongoing support we need to provide to the veterans in our community," said County Executive Josh Schoemann. "They have served selflessly to preserve our democracy and freedom, and we honor their service."

In addition to lighting county buildings, bridges, and other landmarks, residents, businesses and other organizations are encouraged to participate by simply changing one light bulb to a green bulb. This can be an exterior light that neighbors and passersby see, or an interior light that sparks a conversation with friends. By shining a green light, we let our veterans know that they are seen, appreciated, and supported.

Counties and residents across the country are sharing their participation on social media using the hashtag #OperationGreenLight. For more information on Operation Green Light visit naco.org/program/operation-green-light-veterans.

The county role in administering services for veterans includes County Veterans Service Officers helping fellow former service members access more than $52 billion in federal health, disability and compensation benefits each year, as well as other services supporting the service members who transition into civilian communities annually.

If you know a local veteran who may need services, please refer them to our Washington County Veterans Service Office at the Public Agency Center, 333 E. Washington Street, Suite 3100, West Bend, or call 262-335-4457.

Check It Out!

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

My maternal grandfather was a pharmacist and owned a drugstore in suburban Milwaukee until I was a teen. I have many great memories of his old-fashioned drugstore. Besides the pharmacy with its locked glass cabinets of powders and pills up to the ceiling, it was a corner store. There were household items and gifts, a large greeting card section, racks of penny candy and a soda fountain where my Papa made the most delicious malts and other treats. However, my favorite area was in the back room where all the magazines, books and comics were.

I acknowledge that I don't read a lot of graphic novels, but apparently, I did at the age of 3, as shown in the photo, me reading a comic book. There are people who feel graphic novels and comic books are not the same. They may believe that graphic novels are a more advanced, complete story shown through illustrations whereas comics are usually less sophisticated excerpts from a narrative. For me, they are both literary forms that tell a story using illustrations. And stories can be in so many different forms, think of the different formats of stories told through pictures. There are picture books of course, but what about photographs or ancient hieroglyphics?

In library school, I took a course which required me to read several graphic novels which I did enjoy, and I understood their appeal. Back then, they were not as prevalent as they are now and certainly didn't cover the multitude of topics you see in our graphic novel sections. Currently, about five percent of our total circulating collection is graphic novels and keeps growing due to the demand for them. When I began my career, I recall parents complaining that their children would only want to read graphic novels and they wanted them to read "real books." I think graphic novels qualify as real books, especially how advanced they have become.

In a recent survey from School Library Journal, 26 percent of libraries that responded stated that readers of graphic novels only read that format. There are several benefits that these books provide. First, it improves visual literacy which is the ability to read, analyze and interpret images which is today's digital world is a valuable asset. Graphic novels can appeal to those who are reluctant to pick up a traditional book. Parents who were anti-graphic novels above but allowed their children to read these, most likely have grown readers. The visual cues along with the words help struggling readers and those who are learning the English language. Finishing a graphic novel can instill confidence in a child, especially those who have a hard time finishing a book.

I realize that the graphic novels we have on our shelves are very different from what I was reading in my Papa's drugstore. However, I believe it helped inspire a love of reading in me that has lasted a long time.

to restart the eminent domain process," he said.

Board Matters

- The board looked at designs and approved moving forward on a project that would build a new police and village municipal building on the same site of the current Village Hall and library. Estimates for the project came in at just less than $9 million.

- A motion to create a binding referendum regarding ATV/UTV usage on village streets died on a 3-3 vote. Several board members said it was the duty of the elected officials to make this decision, while others noted, after years of discussions, it was time to simply let the residents decide. Since the motion died on the floor, more discussion would be necessary in the future before any action was taken.

Shirley Mae Birkholz

On Thursday afternoon, November 2, 2023, Shirley Mae Birkholz, of The Cottages at Cedar Run, found eternal peace in the arms of her Lord and Savior at the age of 90.

Born on April 13, 1933, the daughter of Arthur and Edna (nee Reul) Birkholz, Shirley grew up in Boltonville and lived there her entire life until relo-locating to Cedar Ridge in 2012. She attended Kewaskum High School, graduated in 1951, and then embarked on her very successful career journey.

Shirley defied the status quo of her era. Straight out of high school, she began working for West Bend Mutual Insurance Company and saw all the growth and changes there for over 44 years – and she had a large impact on that growth. Shirley entered the company in a clerical position, was then promoted as an Inland Marine Underwriter, then department supervisor, and then Administrative Coordinator.

Shirley was smart; there was no challenge too great within her career that she could not overcome and outsmart. As technology became more prevalent in society, it was Shirley's responsibility to navigate that with her company – and she did great. So much so, that Shirley established the company's Methods and Procedures Department, and became Vice President in 1988, and served in that role until her 62nd birthday, April 13, 1995, when she retired.

Outside of her professional life, Shirley was an extremely active servant of God within the United Church of Christ area churches. She was a member of St. John's United Church of Christ in Boltonville, and when the congregations then merged with the UCC churches in Beechwood and Silver Creek, she was a proud member of New Horizon UCC in Boltonville.

As a take-charge type of woman, Shirley served as the first president of New Horizon and was a very engaged member of the congregation. She served on the Wisconsin Conference UCC Board of Directors from 1975 until 1981, when she moved over to the Conference Budget Committee until 1983. In 1999, Shirley was once again elected to the Board of Directors and served until 2005. Concurrently, she was a member of the Southeast Wisconsin Associated of the UCC, and became the elected Moderator of the Association from 1996 until 1998.

Shirley lived a very full and fulfilling life, always looking out for others with the best interest and God in her heart. Despite all of her triumphs and achievements in her life, she remained humble and dedicated to serving God and people in her communities. As we bid farewell to Shirley, we take solace in the memories we shared with her and the impact she had on our lives.

Shirley's nephew, Jeffrey (Peggy) Ramel, will cherish the memory of his dear aunt. Shirley also leaves behind her great-nephew, Josh Ramel; great-niece, Sara (Justin) Weninger; great-great-nephews, Jaxson and Harrison Weninger; and step-brother, Kenneth (Carol) Koth.

Preceding her in death include her parents; sister, Ruth Ramel; nephew, Steven Ramel; sister-in-law, Audrey Bartelt Jaraczewski; and step-brother, Ralph (Shirley) Koth.

Visitation: Shirley's family will greet relatives and friends on Friday, November 10, 2023, from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m. at New Horizon United Church of Christ, 9663 WIS-144, Kewaskum, WI, 53040.

Service: A memorial service will follow the visitation at the church with Pastor Bridget Hill officiating the service.

Inurnment: Shirley will be laid to rest at Boltonville Union Cemetery, next to her parents, on Friday, November 10, 2023.

Shirley's family would like to thank the staff at The Cottages at Cedar Run, for their care and compassion over the past few years.

Memorials directed to New Horizon UCC Church, instead of sending flowers, would be of great appreciation from the family.

Myrhum-Patten Funeral & Cremation Service has been entrusted with Shirley's arrangements. Additional information and Tribute Wall may be found at www.myrhum-patten.com.

Phyllis F. Rajek

Phyllis E. Rajek, 76, of Campbellsport went to her heavenly home on Sunday, November 5, 2023, at Serenity Villa in Campbellsport with her beloved family gathered around her.

She was born on April 26, 1947, in Campbellsport. On October 2, 1965, Phyllis was united in marriage to Alan R. Rajek at St. Matthew's Catholic Church in Campbellsport.

Phyllis was employed at Reliable Knitting as a supervisor and then at Wesbar Corp. before retiring. She was a member of St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Phyllis loved sewing and quilting and enjoyed cooking and her flowers. Most of all, Phyllis loved spending time with her family, especially her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Survivors include her husband of 58 years, Al; children, Jo Dee Frank, Scott (Jodi) Rajek, and Lynn (Lee) Heimke; grandchildren, Amber (Justin) DiVilio, Bradey (Abby) Frank, Jordyn (Kory) Gahan, Jamie (Roque) Arellano, Samantha (Trevor) Worley, Danielle Rajek, and Jon Rajek; great-grandchildren, Landon, Ella, and Easton DiVilio, Rafa Arellano, and Eloise Frank; sisters, Alice Lavrenz and Doris (Kenny) Schwartz; other relatives and friends.

Phyllis was preceded in death by her mother, Myrtle Horn; father, Howard Horn; brother-in-law, Erwin Lawrence; mother-in-law, Beatrice Rajek; and father-in-law, Ray Rajek.

Visitation for Phyllis was held Wednesday, November 8, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Twohig Funeral Home, 109 W. Main St., Campbellsport.

A memorial service was held Wednesday, November 8, at 5 p.m. at the Twohig Funeral Home. Rev. Mark Jones officiated and burial will be at a later date in St. Matthews Cemetery.

The family extends a special thank you to Serenity Villa and Preceptor Hospice for the love and care shown to Phyllis during these last years.

The Twohig Funeral Home is serving the family with online guestbook and condolences at www.twohigfunerals.com.

The Campbellsport Board of Education approved the tax levy and final budget at the October 22 meeting. A levy of $9,680,360 was unanimously approved. This gives taxpayers a mill rate of $10.36, which is a decrease from last year. The mill rate shows the amount per $1,000 of equalized value that taxpayers will pay in taxes.

Campbellsport School District is planning to annex the entire property of the middle/high school building into the Village of Campbellsport. Currently, a portion is in the village and a portion is in the Town of Ashford. District Administrator Paul Amundson is targeting January for that plan and figures it will cost $3,500 to $4,000. The expenses are for registering with the state, legal fees, and other miscellaneous expenses.

The Village of Campbellsport Board met for a special meeting on October 29 to talk about the 2019 budget. The board had to finalize the preliminary budget before the budget hearing that will be held on November 19. Three roof replacements are big items for next year: firehouse, wastewater treatment plant, and library. Village President David Krebs said the fire department has put aside quite a bit of money for its roof, the water utility has been putting money in an account and that money will pay for that roof, but the village will need to take out a loan for the library roof replacement. A tough decision was made regarding sewer rates. After looking at the sewer department's budget, the finance committee had agreed that the sewer rates need to be raised. The water department is starting to hold its own and stay in the black, but the sewer department is starting to run behind. Revenues are less than $500,000 and expenses have grown by $70,000. Part of that is because the Village has to pay a company to run the plant due to not being able to find an employee to operate it. If an employee could be hired to operate the plant, a lot of money could be saved.

Civil War Time Travelers, LLC, was formed in 2018 by David and Kay Wege. They had been asked for years to lead tours to Civil War sites. In 2016, Dave, who is principal and fifth through eighth grade teacher at Waucousta Lutheran School, took his students to Harpers Ferry, Antietam, and Gettysburg. The kids and chaperones had quite a historical adventure. Dave and Kay took an adult tour group on the same trip the following year. Seeing others sharing their passion for Civil War history, Dave took the plunge and formed the low-key, educational, and entertaining tour group.

Members of the Campbellsport VFW and VFW Auxiliary talked to students at St. Matthew's School on November 11 for Veterans Day. Each person told which war he fought in and the women told of the wars in which their husbands and other family members fought. They also recognized the winners of the Patriots Pen essay contest that was sponsored by the VFW.

Campbellsport Elementary School honored local veterans on November 11. The veterans, students, and visitors enjoyed an early morning greeting session which included coffee and donuts. The student body then sang songs and read essays to those in attendance. The Campbellsport Fire Department's Honor Guard was on hand to present the colors during the program.

Marya Haegler was named the State of Wisconsin Junior Olympics cross country champion on November 9 for the intermediate level. She will now advance to the National championship, which will be held December 13 in Mechanicsville, VA.

Neil Scannell of the Campbellsport High School soccer team earned All-State honors and First-Team honors on the Eastern Wisconsin All-Conference team. He was a midfielder for the Cougars.

Wade Roberts, Campbellsport youth wrestling coach, earned the Region 6 Developmental Coach of the Year at the State Wrestling Coaches Convention, which was held in Green Bay this past weekend.

Because a considerable amount of heat loss occurs in the ceiling of the Auburn Town Hall, a discussion about the problem took place at the November 10 meeting. The board would like to reduce the heating cost by insulating between the drop down ceiling tiles and the tin roof. A few contractors will be contacted and bids will be accepted.

A son, Garrett Raymond, was born November 4 to Jason and Laura Pickering of Campbellsport. A daughter, Camilla Dian, was born October 31 to Nicholas and Amy Kreif of Campbellsport.

Norma Reimer Bodden, 89, Campbellsport, passed away November 5. George P. Leonard, 84, Eden, passed away November 5. Bernice Salvera Dorothea Strohschein, 99, passed away November 5. Dorothy R. Ramthun, 83, Eden, passed away November 8. Clarence J. Rohde, 84, Campbellsport, passed away November 6.

Campbellsport School Board approved the 1998 annual meeting levy of $3,775,000, which included $100,000 for capital projects funds - roofs, boilers, etc. The board also adopted a new mill rate of 7.77, up from the 7.72 estimate at the annual meeting. The change is the result of a decrease in equalized valuation. This means the school portion on your tax bill will decrease by $20 per $100,000 of property value.

On a 7-0 vote, the Campbellsport School Board approved hiring Stubenrauch Architects to conduct a feasibility study. The preliminary study will cost the district $3,500. Should the school board decide to continue with the balance of the project, that $3,500 paid to Stubenrauch will be part of the basic fee should the company be selected.

Campbellsport's village departments will feel the restraints of a budget that must be reduced by $64,000. There will be $16,000 less in state aid.

A notice was published informing the residents and businesses in Campbellsport that a study of the sanitary sewer system will be made. A smoke test will be conducted in some of the sewers, and people may notice this simulated smoke coming from vents on their roofs. There is no danger.

Although a low voter turnout was predicted, that was not what happened as area voters turned out in record numbers for an off-year election.

On October 30, Ron VanderGrinten retired as the rural carrier for Route 1 at the Eden Post Office. He provided 38-1/2 years of accident-free mail delivery. In addition to a recognition plaque, Ron received a letter of recognition and a $100 U.S. Savings Bond.

Abby Russel and Sarah Glass had participated in the Campbellsport Knights of Columbus Punt, Pass and Kick event. The two girls advanced to the State competition, and Abby took first place in the 12-and-13-year-old bracket.

CHS sophomore Nick Martiny made his first appearance at the State Cross Country Meet last Saturday. Nick finished 43rd in the 112-runner field with a time of 17:20, one second shy of his second-best performance of the year.

Lisa Immel has been selected by the Flyway coaches to the First Team and Clarissa Immel to the Second Team. The two played volleyball for Campbellsport High School.

Dustin Drexel was a unanimous selection to the All-Conference Football First Team defense. Other Campbellsport players earning first team honors were Adam Bub and Clint Beck.

A daughter, Makayla Marie, was born October 22 to April Lefebber of St. Cloud. A daughter, Elizabeth Louise, was born October 23 to Amanda Kraus of Malone.

Edna A. Flitter, 90, West Bend, passed away October 28. Sister Harriet Louise Kuehne, 90, Campbellsport, passed away October 23.

As part of its regular business during Monday's village board meeting, the board adopted and authorized publication of a new traffic ordinance in order to bring traffic regulations in the Village up to Wisconsin statutes. At the same meeting, the proposed budget was adopted with minor corrections. The budget was published in this issue.

The clerk was instructed during the Village of Campbellsport meeting to find out if the League of Wisconsin Municipalities had a suggested dog ordinance that would better control dogs in the village. The present dog ordinance only controls dogs running at large. A new ordinance is needed to also control barking dogs as a nuisance.

The Board of Jt. School District 23 accepted a proposal during the regular meeting from Standard Oil Co. for delivering fuel oil to the school in 7,000 gallon lots at a price of .16132 per gallon. The district paid .1173 per gallon last year.

Ken Ketter was picked for one of the ends on the first offensive team of the Flyway All-Conference football team. Other Campbellsport players on the all-conference list are Butch Roth, Al Beck, Bruce Hall, Bill Smith, Tom Dwyer, Mike Gilboy, Dan Serwe, and Mike Benike.

William Narges, 83, Campbellsport, passed away November 2. Elsie Kohn passed away November 7. Otto Ebert, 90, Town of Osceola, passed away November 3. Laus Whitty, 74, Campbellsport, passed away November 6.

The budget hearing for the Village of Campbellsport is scheduled for next Thursday, and all residents are invited to attend. According to the article, the budget is $559 less than last year, but indications are that the total tax rate will be about the same. The reason is that the county and local school taxes are higher. The board will hear suggested changes in the proposed budget during the hearing, but are not obliged to follow them. The budget will be adopted at the December meeting.

Dan Uelmen began this week Monday as second man to assist Hugo Steinacker, village superintendent. As yet, he has not been appointed village marshal or taken the oath of office.

| KEWASKUM'S DAYS GONE BY |5 Years Ago*November 15, 2018

Luke Pallo, a 22-year-old Kewaskum resident, has claimed the title Mr. Badger Natural Physique Champion. To earn the title, Luke competed in the Amateur and Natural Bodybuilding show in Menomonie in October. He placed first in his division in Men's Physique and then took first place overall in the category. It was only the second time Luke competed in bodybuilding. Two weeks prior, he placed fifth overall in a Chicago competition. Luke took to heart the feedback from the judges about working on posing and losing a little more weight. Men's Physique focuses on being in healthy condition.

The Kewaskum Village Board has proposed a budget of $2.3 million for 2019. There is still some information from the county and state that will have an impact on the final village mill rate, but the current status of the budget equates to a 9.13 percent increase over the 2018 budget. That would add approximately $132 to a tax bill on a property assessed at $200,000. The increase is not related to the school district's building project; it's due to significant debt that the village incurred in 2017 and 2018 for road projects and the purchase of a rescue engine for the Kewaskum Fire Department.

When the Kewaskum School Board met on November 12, an extra seat was on the stage for Attorney Shana Lewis from Strang, Patteson, Renning, Lewis & Lacy. Lewis advised the school board throughout the meeting. One of the things Lewis stated was that email is permissible and under that statute, and since all board members had been sent an email with a notice of a meeting, the district had done nothing wrong.

During the November 12 Kewaskum School Board meeting, all school board members in attendance voted in favor of the motion to censure School Board Vice President Jim Leister and issue a letter of reprimand, publicly disavowing his behavior, acknowledging that the board doesn't approve of it, and adding the ability for the board to remove him from future games if another complaint is made. Attorney Shana Lewis read complaints that had been filed against Leister, reading rude remarks that Leister had called out during football games.

Members of the Town of Auburn Board discussed the possibility of allowing ATV and UTV use on town roads during the November 12 meeting. Town of Auburn supervisors have a few questions they'd like answered before making a decision. John Janz and Ken Depperman would also like to get as much input from residents as possible.

The Kewaskum High School chess team competed in the Wisconsin Junior Open at UW-Oshkosh. Of the 11 players who attended, five placed high enough to earn trophies: Logan Busalacchi, Ethan Allen, Luke Moris, Isaiah Cochran, and Nathaniel Gallecke.

Virginia E. Oppermann, 91, Kewaskum, passed away November 9. Eugene H. Panzer, 85, passed away October 24. Anton G. Strohmeier, 85, Kewaskum, passed away November 12.

Taxpayers will get an opportunity to see where their tax dollars are being spent in 2009 as area municipalities hold their budget hearings starting next week. The Village of Kewaskum will seek approval on a $2,607,528 budget on November 17. The Town of Kewaskum's budget hearing is on November 17 and will seek approval of a $485,278.75 budget. The Town of Wayne will look to approve a decreased budget of $564,500. The township is also seeking an additional $280,000 to cover road expenditures and capital improvement projects on November 19. The Town of Farmington budget meeting is November 25 and residents will consider a $671,447.01 budget.

The Sisters of St. Agnes is celebrating 150 years of service this year. On November 2, many of the sisters celebrated at Holy Trinity Church in recognition of 98 years of service to Holy Trinity School. Eight of the sisters who taught at Holy Trinity were there.

Conflicts with their former landlord and the need for more space sparked Wendell Weisensel and Sarah Stier to move their business to the Mauthe Lake area and into one of the area's most historical restaurant buildings. The two will open Forest Lake Pub and Grill on Saturday in the former Forest House. The building is five times larger than their previous business, Rustic Inn.

The student government officers for this school year at Wayne Elementary School include Alex Vogt, Peter Kurer, Emma Debelak, Bailey Schuetz, Skylar Graskey, Sophia Lightner, Caitlyn Gildemeister, and Ben Gonnering.

Kelli Sullivan won a ride to school in a fire truck. The four-year-old kindergarten student at Farmington Elementary School won the special transportation during the Fillmore Fire Department's open house.

As of now, the Kewaskum High School dance team is considered a competitive club, but the team and new coach are trying to make it an official WIAA sport in Kewaskum. Kim Tesch has two years experience coaching both cheerleading and pom squads. The team already does much of what sport teams do at the high school, including practice time and following the athletic code.

Lauren Gonring was named to the EWC volleyball first team all-conference. Two other Kewaskum players earned recognition: Ericka Heberer on the second team and Elissa Miller on honorable mention.

Earning first team EWC all-conference for soccer was Nicholas Gutbrod. Nate Wendelborn is on the second team and Caleb Olla on the honorable mention list.

The Kewaskum football team beat Port Washington 33-15 to advance to the Division 3 State Semifinal Game. The Indians will face Waupaca in Ripon.

Bernetta A. Roecker, 90, West Bend, passed away November 6. Norma Reimer Bodden, 89, Campbellsport, passed away November 5. Joseph Murphy, 87, Kewaskum, passed away November 4. Dorothy R. Ramthun, 83, Eden, passed away November 8. Ronald M. Holland, 71, West Bend, passed away November 9.

Enthusiastic Kewaskum area residents participated in the first Kewaskum Visioning Workshop on November 7. There was a group photo and two single photos from the event.

The Town of Wayne Town Board met October 21 and learned from members of the Washington County Highway Commission that County Highway H no longer qualifies to be a county trunk. The commission asked the board to take over H as a town road from CTH W to STH 41. After some discussion, the item was tabled until a later date.

Brenda Kirchner, CBA of Balloons by Brenda, Kewaskum, recently earned Certified Balloon Artists status. She was one of 36 balloon professionals who successfully completed the series of written, oral, and practical CBA examinations.

Theresa Volm celebrated her 100th birthday on October 27 with 45 family members present. A five-generation photo was published that included great-great-grandma Theresa Volm, great-grandma Betty Schrauth, grandpa Dan Schrauth, mom Tracy Muench, and 21-month-old Lindsay Marie.

Kewaskum High School senior Mike Kertscher knows what it's like to have a winning season, although he doesn't have any magic formula for his success. He is the Wisconsin Mini Sprint Association's Rookie of the Year for the 1998 season. He is the youngest track champion at Chilton's track.

Rose A. Felix, 84, St. Kilian, passed away November 10. Lawrence Simons, 48, Batavia, passed away November 6. Erna Graebert, 81, Campbellsport, passed away November 5. Marcella M. Kannenberg, 94, West Bend, passed away November 5.

An unsuccessful attempted break-in was made at Coulter's Liquor Store in the Koch building on Main Street last Friday morning. By breaking a window in the basement door, the burglars entered the basement, but were scared off by police before they could get into the store upstairs. The burglars escaped. That same night, a window near the front entrance to the new Valley Bank on Fond du Lac Avenue was smashed, but apparently no entrance was made.

Mr. and Mrs. John Plavec of West Bend have rented the east part of the former A.G. Koch Store building at 357 Main Street in Kewaskum as of October 1. The Plavec store sells used furniture and appliances.

Rev. Dan Schowalter of Peace United Church of Christ, Kewaskum, recently returned from a month-long speaking and study tour in East and West Germany. He left Kewaskum September 19 and joined with 13 pastors of the United Church of Christ in the U.S. and five from Canada for the tour.

A joint concert will be presented by the Kewaskum Junior High and Kewaskum High School Concert Band on November 14.

Vandals pelted five or six school buses with red spray paint at the Johnson Bus Terminal at the east end of the village on October 26.

Five players from Kewaskum's football team were selected for the Scenic Moraine All-Conference Team: offensive ends Mike Koepke and Mike Donath, quarterback Doug Bilgo, interior lineman Al Schmidt, and defensive back Scott Koth. Kewaskum was rated 18th among Class B schools in the final Associated Press poll.

A daughter was born October 27 to William and Nancy Heckel of Kewaskum. A daughter was born October 30 to Robert and Audrey Bath of Kewaskum.

year, as well as cider.

While 2023 will be the last year of production, Fox said the apple trees remain and that an idea for the future of the property is still being developed.

"We had it on the market," she said, but ultimately, they decided to hold onto it. "We're going to use the property for something else."

Fox's grandparents, who emigrated from Germany, purchased the property in retirement after living in the Milwaukee area. They lived in Armstrong for many years, and when Fox was around 10, the family planted rows of apple trees and the property started operating as an orchard.

"All of our extended family came and helped plant the trees," recalled Fox. "They did a pig roast to help try and get everybody out."

Fox said her parents – Jay and Lisa Klein – had careers in the corporate sector but adored the orchard and the lifestyle required to run it.

"Their jobs were causing them to feel really worn out, and they liked the idea of coming back here," said Fox of Wisconsin and the Armstrong Apples estate. "They [got to do] things outside... work with their hands. So, they started putting their money and their efforts into [building] a business."

Around 2011, Jay and Lisa started making wine and cider and created a tasting and retail space at the orchard property. Christina and Chad – who helped for years while living in Michigan – moved to Wisconsin in 2017 and started helping full time.

Christina and Chad first met through a church choir program in their youth. A lifelong friendship eventually blossomed into marriage, as the pair were wed in 2004.

"When he met me, he knew about the apple orchard," said Christina with a laugh. "He knew pretty much all my vacations were spent coming over here and working. He helped a lot. He went to farmers markets, and he sat outside by the road and had a roadside stand selling apples. He's been part of the orchard, I like to say, pretty much from the beginning."

When Christina's parents reached out to her and Chad around 2015, they were facing a dilemma.

"[My mom said] we either need to sell the business or that [Chad and I] needed to do more," recalled Christina, who was working and raising five kids with Chad in Michigan at the time. "At that point, I had already been coming in the fall and helping as much as I could, even spending a couple months here."

Christina said, after a lifetime of watching the apple trees grow and seeing her parents create a beloved local business, she wasn't ready to just walk away.

"I said to Chad, 'We can't let them sell this property. It means too much to me,'" remembered Christina. "I convinced him that this would be a great opportunity for us."

Over the last decade, Armstrong Apples has been a popular destination for locals and visitors. Throughout the warmer months, a large lawn on the property became a concert venue on the weekends. Equipped with a large playground, the space was also a community hang-out where families were encouraged to bring the whole crew.

It was a labor of love for the Fox family who had six children by the time they moved full time to Wisconsin in 2017. Christina's parents helped her and Chad initially before they moved to Arizona full-time just prior to 2020.

"We only had a couple months under our belt when COVID struck," said Christina. "We were trying to navigate this business while also being shut down for a little while, and it was just us. Chad was doing all of the stuff behind the bar, and I was mostly home with the kids, and we were homeschooling."

Added on, Chad suffered a knee injury, which severely hampered his ability to run day-to-day operations.

All things combined, it was a perfect storm that ultimately led the Fox family to their decision to wind down the winery this year. Added to it, the grand total for their family is now at eight kids (their oldest is in high school and youngest has yet to turn two).

Looking back, the pair are eternally grateful to the community for the support and patronage. Both Chad and Christina said the people were what made their effort so worthwhile.

"They were my favorite part of the business," said Christina. "So many people that walked through the door and ended up being like family. They come back year after year. That's been amazing."

The support, she said, was one of the greatest blessings of running the business.

"There's no point in trying to thank every single individual, because there are so many people who have helped us over the years," she said.

While there's no word, yet, on what the property will become in the future (though Christina says she hopes to keep it community-minded), the family is sure to have plenty of inspiration and ideas by 2024: since this summer, the Fox family has been travelling the world: from Europe, to the Middle East and Asia.

"We're taking a sabbatical as a family and traveling, so hopefully some new ideas!" said Christina.

The family of 10 has been active with updates on their Facebook page: Backpacking Foxes.

Just last week, they posted a video near Thailand.

"Getting to Koh Samui on the speedboat," stated the post, which shows Chad and the kids enjoying a scenic ride atop the ocean.

While it's a lot of change and there's surely more to come, Christina was happy that her family can now spend more time together.

It's the perfect environment, she said, to brainstorm a way to keep her family's legacy going in Armstrong.

"My grandma was so dear to me, and that is what brought us here," she said. "She contributed so much to me and my childhood, and she is somebody everybody knew in the community. People still tell me they remember her, and she was a very special part of this place."

Philippines does not have states, but rather provinces like Canada. There are many provinces on the island of Mindanao, but their experience was largely in the province of Bukidnon which is inland and is landlocked. Bukidnon's name is a reference to mountain dweller, and as one moves further inland from Talakag, more mountains became part of the story.

For condensed geographical reference, Talakag is approximately 40 miles south from the Pacific Ocean. It is in the Bukidnon Province on the island of Mindanao, which is part of the Philippines archipelago in the South Pacific, which in 1941 was still a U.S. territory since the Spanish-American War of 1898. This is where Lou Anne starts to remember. So although she was born in the U.S., she begins her life memories around Filipinos.

Corrugated Kohler

Talakag has more than 70,000 people living in it at this time, but in World War II, Lou Anne remembers it as a small town, probably not more than 200 people. That was hard to count, however, because there was a lot of people in the outlying areas. There was a Catholic Church, and there was also dad's church (which had to be built). "At that point, there was no industry. It was all farming." And the only reason one went to town was maybe a small store.

The first house she lived in she thinks mom and dad owned. Comparatively, it was a big house. Most people had houses that were 12- by 12-feet or 15- by 15-feet. Some had bamboo houses, others had wood. "And our house was bigger and it was wood."

Snakes were there, but not a problem. "We didn't have to worry about snakes getting in the house. Every house is built off the ground for that very reason. The pigs and the dogs and everybody else lives underneath, including the snakes and the critters." When dad went to the outlying villages, he slept there overnight on a mat he brought to cover up on the floor. That mat wasn't even a quarter inch thick, and was essentially grass and wedged

Bob and Grace Kohler dedicated their lives to missionary work in the Philippines, but it started out in the thick of World War II and the onslaught of the Japanese Empire. This photo was taken when they were still in New York. In between is their daughter Lou Anne, who submitted the photo.

Lou Anne Kohler (Daniels) was born in 1937 in Rochester, New York. This photo was taken in the U.S., approximately when the mission board approved her father's placement into the Philippines in 1939.

into the ribbed bamboo as dad would lay the mat on the bamboo floors. "Bamboo is curved. So the curve is like this all the way across the floor." She explained they were like half-moons put together, so it's not a perfectly flat floor because when bamboo splits it ends up curved. "There's no flat to bamboo. So he used to call himself 'Corrugated Kohler' when he got back from being out. He generally slept pretty decent. But you could sweep the dirt through the floor. They're very clean people."

Bamboo flooring wasn't always the case. "If you had a wood house, you were fancy. You had a little bit more money." Dad "slept on a lot of bamboo floors 'cause that's where he was. You did what you had to do, where you were."

Need for Carabao

Many came to the house for dad's mission work. "But a lot of it was out in the villages. I think he walked every place in Bukidnon. And it's a big province. There were no roads." To say he walked roads was inaccurate for the time, Lou Anne said, because roads were rare. "He probably hiked every trail in that province." If not every one, probably pretty close. Sometimes he'd be gone for a week.

He'd usually walk but on rare occasions he would ride a carabao (Care-ah-bow), or water buffalo. She has a picture of her mom on a water buffalo. Don't think riding one is a treat. "I'd rather walk than ride a carabao. They're hard to ride." The wideness of the creature makes them shift considerable power that the rider feels. However, Lou Anne said, "sometimes it was better than walking." Most of the time dad walked.

"They used them for cargo. They used them for carrying things, because they'd have baskets on either side of them, and you just guided them along." The water buffalo were much more common in the way of life in her first memories of the Philippines. In time, roads, motor bikes and cars came to the area. "But as a child, it was all forest. Except where people had a little open land to farm."

Mission Survival

The mid-century missions in the Philippines required barter and survival skills. However, Lou Anne thinks, "Our eating back in the day is probably better than it is now." They bought the rice, which was harder to get as one moved into the mountains. They may have traded for vegetables, but in time mom grew a garden. A lot of people would come to the house with items and food to trade.

She recalls, and still more recently, witnessed the cultural aspects of the Filipinos being welcoming in their house. It was common to walk into another's house, and vice versa. And with trade in conversation, so too did items and nourishment.

Some of the following might attribute to later years more than 1941. Nonetheless, it shows how the missions survived and became popular in mid-century Philippines. Lou Anne explained how they used to trade clothes. “We used to get barrels sent from the states to us of good, used clothes.” Well, the clothes were in all matters of sizes and shapes, from kids up to adults. So it was possible for the Kohlers to trade a dress. This was likely not in the first years the Kohlers were in the Philippines. Back in 1941, “My folks probably would buy most stuff. They rarely gave things away, because people don’t appreciate what they don’t pay for. It’s the same here. You don’t appreciate what you don’t have to work for.”

So as a child, she saw bartering. They also observed much creativity. “One of the things that was kinda funny – this is later on, my mom had a lady that would do the laundry, because you didn’t have a washing machine. They did the laundry down at the river. So she’d come on – on whatever day it was? Mom’s washday was probably Monday. But anyway, she’d come and she’d take all the laundry, put it on her head, go down to the river, and wash all the clothes, bring ‘em back and hang ‘em in the yard. At times – sometimes they would hang them at home, iron, and bring them back. All Done!” Lou Anne was impressed with the ingenuity she witnessed. “They can make something out of nothing... mom would say, ‘Hmmm, that dress that lady has on looks very much like mine?’ They would lay the dress out, and make a pattern of it, and then make their own. If they liked a certain kind of dress or whatever. We didn’t care.” They copied it because they didn’t have that much for cloths, and such differences probably resulted in trading, which improved the relationship between the natives and the missions.

The Filipinos called mom “mum.” It was one of those cultural cues Lou Anne observed as a child, which she has come to appreciate. The use of ‘mum’, however, was not like the British. Instead, it was more formal. “Mum” would be like saying “Mademoiselle” or “Madame” in a French Colony, or “Sir” and “Mrs.” As a whole, the culture Lou Anne was immersed in a child, had lot of respect for adults that was evident in the Filipinos who helped her family.

While mom allowed her dress to be copied, dad bartered and sold in many ways. This included selling bibles and books, and supplying his own medicines. “Part of his training, other than bible training, [was that] he worked at an emergency room in New York City.” This training for medical knowledge would have been around 1935 to 1937.

When it came to Talakag in 1939, “There’s no medical availability there. There’s nobody else that knows anything.”

As an example, when Lou Anne’s sister Joyce was born in 1941 on the nearby island of Negros, at Dumaguete. This is where they had a big mission hospital. This is just one example of the limited medical facilities on Mindanao.

And getting supplies such as topical medicine at their home in Talakag was unheard of, Lou Anne said. So besides the medical knowledge he picked up, “he would be able to get medicines from different companies – either free or reasonable.” Dad never gave them away, but he sold them reasonably to people. “They mailed them to my dad, and he would sort them and sell ‘em.” Dad became a type of dispensary. Whatever price they cost, dad “at least covered the price he had to pay for them in the first place.”

This trading, however, really evolved in later years. But the above examples helps one understand the difficulties a mission faced in 1941, and the progress and respect the Kohlers eventually earned over time.

SORRY!

Lou Anne doesn’t remember much until 1941. “I remember our house in Talakag a little bit before [U.S. entry into] the war.” There were two couples who were good friends of her parents, one of which was there that night in 1941. “And at that point, we were having blackouts a lot. So you’d hear a plane go over, and you’d hear the guys on the street, ‘BLACKOUT!!!’ And everybody would put their lights out. And we didn’t even have electricity. We had kerosene lights.” Well, her parents and friends were at the dining room table, playing the only board game they had.

“So my folks and this other couple were playing SORRY! And they called for ‘Blackout!’ Well, they’re in the middle of a game. So they moved the game under the table.” They put the tablecloth over the side, moved the lamp down there, and kept on playing. She laughed at a memory that could have been scary. She also defends her dad’s decision at the time. “And, I like SORRY! I enjoy SORRY! It was one of the first things I ever learned how to play.” This was during some of the first years the game had been manufactured and mainstreamed as a mass produced board game. The board games were both made in England and the United States by the 1930s. “That was something they would do. It is something my dad would do. You can’t interrupt [SORRY!]. But part of that is probably why I was never real fearful of anything.” She wanted to make clear that her parents weren’t careless. “They were cautious. Extremely cautious....But they didn’t show. ‘Uh ooh! [she gasped] fear’ that would pass on to us kids.”

That might have been one of the most impressive qualities of both of her parents. Here they were missionaries who came to the Philippines because of their faith, and now the Japanese Empire was spreading across the South Pacific. If there is one lesson to take from her parents, it was that they did a good job of keeping anxiety away from her. However, mom was a little more anxious – but with reason. “I mean, she could get anxious about stuff. And when I think back on it, they were in their middle to late 20s. That’s where they were in age when my sister and I were/would have been there. I’m thinking. In a foreign land? With nothing!” Mom and dad were both born in 1914, so they were 27 at the oldest in the board game memory.

However, the bombers still bother her. Those ones going to Oshkosh for the EAA? “Right. The bombers,” she paused. “With the very low rumble. I was out in the garden one day [in South Eden], and I heard one going across. And it caught me. I wasn’t afraid-afraid. But I knew it startled me. Like ‘ooh!’ It was that plane.” She said she could handle most planes flying low or loud, but “A bomber is entirely different.” The noise brings her back to that awareness needed as a child.

There would be more strategy needed to surviving the next year of 1942, as the Philippines would be threatened by the Japanese even more as the U.S. fully entered the war. The war in Europe had been going on already for two years, but mom and dad never thought of it getting to them. The SORRY! memory was just the beginning.

Montana or Bust

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

This week's column, as well as next, are about a 110% go-for-it Montana/Rocky Mountain adventure with myself and lifelong friend Todd Cibulka.

Though Todd would not be hunting elk, he was along for a physical trip, nonstop laughter and incredible views with two buddies that clicked perfectly for 11-days.

We were near Bozeman, Montana, and we have two camps: one was our base camp at a USFS campground, and the other was 2.5-miles up the mountain in elk and grizzly country.

FRIDAY, OCT. 20
HIGH 67, LOW 44

There is so much to write about this experience that I am going to be very short on details so I can tell as much as possible.

Todd and I arrived on Wednesday, which is three days before the elk season opened. We did this because I believe setting up camps and scouting is as important as hunting.

On the ride here on I-94 in North Dakota, we were caught in a wind storm, which was an incredible display of nature, and it knocked our gas mileage down from 16 to nine.

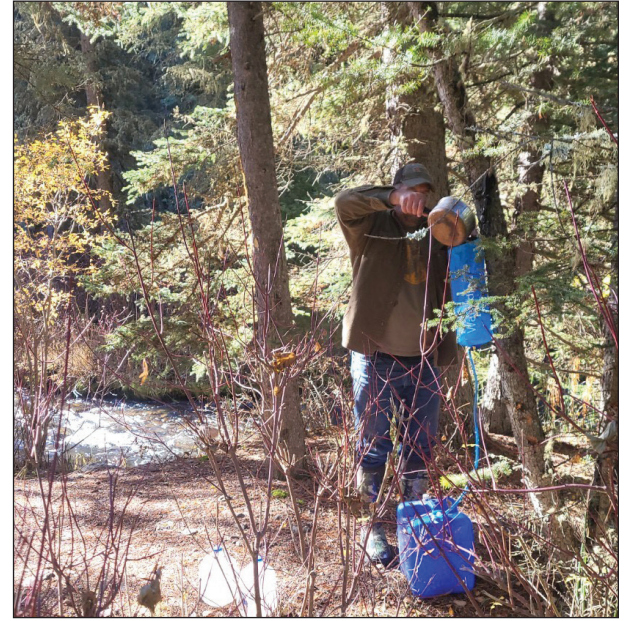

The ATV and trailer got some hard use on this trip.

We are in major grizzly country and there are a lot of rules regarding them, such as food at camp and approaching an elk kill (if a grizzly is at your kill, the grizzly gets your elk). We both carried handguns and bear spray.

The first part of this trip, the air temp was perfect. I was shirtless for much of it, but that would change on day eight.

Climbing mountains: I am 62, Todd is 59. For me, it's 30 steps up and a 15 second break, etc. Naturally, the spot I whacked my 6x6 last year is on the top of difficult climb, and sweat, as well as lung and leg pain (feels like both could blow out), are a regular part of life.

Camp fires at night: Todd and I ran around with the same crowd as kids and still do, we are also part of the same deer camp. Most nights we had campfires, and I would cook supper between nine

Strobel Inducted into Rock River Hall of Fame

KEWASKUM A'S

Jason Strobel was officially inducted into the Rock River Baseball League Hall of Fame on October 28. He joins Dave Donath, Terry Koth, Doug Gonring and the late Teddy Miller to the growing list of former Kewaskum A's to be inducted into the Rock River Hall of Fame in recent years.

Jason began his career with the A's back in 1998 as an unassuming 16-year-old, but thanks to a changing of the guard found himself in the middle of running the team by his 21st birthday.

Those early 2000's seasons were some up-and-down years for the A's, but Jason quickly turned himself into one of the league's premier outfielders as the team slowly ascended into Rock River relevancy, culminating in a 2012 Rock River Grand Championship.

His name will forever be found all over the A's record book for the offensive numbers he put up in his 19-year career - over 2000 plate appearances, 500 hits, 500 games played, 60 home runs - as he will go down as one of the best to ever wear a Kewaskum A's jersey.

However, his biggest impact on the A's may have been helping lay the foundation of what is still the fabric of Kewaskum A's baseball - an environment of guys who just love to play baseball, and a lot of it.

Congrats, again, #5!

- 2012 Rock River Grand Champion
- 2011 Rock River Runner-up
- 4x Rock River Northern Division Champ (2011, 2012, 2013, 2014)
- 2016 Player of Merit
- 2012 Rock River MVP
- 2011 Manager of the Year
- 5x Rock River All-League Out-field (2008, 2009, 2012, 2014, 2016)

and 11 and at night. Laughter and talks of 50 years ago as well the recent past were nonstop.

Todd recently purchased and rigged up a Rock River Arms X1 in a 223 with a Vortex scope and was hoping to hunt coyote. We were both pleasantly surprised when we found out that he could purchase a wolf tag for $50 and buy up to five.

Scouting: Though we were not seeing elk, they were everywhere we went, especially on the top of the mountain, tracks, droppings and their smell had me higher than a kite at 30,000 feet.

Our base camp was made up of a 10x12 canvas tent that was covered with a 30x20 tarp. My friend Pat from Rice Lake donated it last winter and it was perfect for the job. Our spike camp was made up of two tents, one was an Eskimo pop-up ice shelter that we slept in the other was a 10x10 basic tent for hanging out in. We moved up to the spike camp the afternoon before season opener.

On opening day, I was as dedicated as I could be to every part of this journey. It has been on my mind since I was awarded a tag "$1,267" on April 15th that allowed me to shoot one deer and one elk. I was literally sitting exactly where I harvested my 6x6 last year two hours before daylight. I was sweated up from the climb and had zero cares as I was on top of my game and had eight days to harvest my quarry.

One minute after sitting down on the root ball of a long since fallen pine tree the first wolf howled within two football fields of me.

Talk to ya next week!
