Life in a Sanatorium

ANNE TRAUTNER
JOURNALIST

Jim Westphal is a retired Kewaskum High School teacher. When covid hit in 2020 and people were quarantined at home, it made him think back to his childhood and the nine months he was quarantined in a sanatorium.

In 1960, Westphal was a freshman at Jefferson High School in Jefferson.

In those days, as Westphal recalls, one of the things authorities did at the beginning of the school year was test students for tuberculosis. So, Westphal and the other students were called to the gymnasium for a skin test.

"They injected a little something on the inside of your arm to see if there was a reaction to it. A few days later, the spot on my arm had turned red. Nobody said much of anything, but I had a knot there, so it was quite obvious. Even I thought that's not good," Westphal said.

But the bump went away quickly, and Westphal didn't hear any more about it for quite a while. He played freshman football and then started the basketball season.

It was around that time that he was called to have an X-ray. He went to downtown Jefferson to have it done in a bus that traveled around the area with an X-ray machine.

He didn't hear anything about the X-ray results for quite a while.

Then, shortly before Thanksgiving, his mother showed up at basketball practice, which was highly unusual.

"You've got to come home, Jimmy," she said.

So, Westphal went home, and his mother told him, "Well, Dad is already over in Madison, and you're going to have to go over there too, to the sanatorium."

Then, she drove Westphal to the Lake View Sanatorium in Madison. He didn't know it at the time, but the sanatorium would be his home for the next nine months.

The Sanatorium

Westphal was scared as they drove up to the building. He knew that tuberculosis could be fatal.

Tuberculosis is caused by bacteria and mainly affects the lungs. Like covid, it is spread through droplets in the air when people cough, sneeze or spit. Every year, it affects 10 million people around the globe. Although it is now a preventable and curable disease, 1.5 million people die from tuberculosis each year, making it the world's top infectious killer, according to the World Health Organization website.

Since Westphal had tested positive for tuberculosis, he was to be isolated in the sanatorium with other tuberculosis patients. Today, tuberculosis patients are treated with antibiotics. In 1960, Westphal and other patients received antibiot-

Outdoor Recreation Grant Application Process Beginning for Columbus PARC

CLARICE CASE
EDITOR

The Village of Campbellsport Board held a regular meeting on Monday, April 8 at 6 p.m.

Board Matters:

- The board approved a facade grant program for TID No. 2. Current TIDs are producing around $185,000 a year and were recently being used to make improvements in the industrial park. This program will now provide an opportunity to improve the look of Main Street. Village Administrator Charlie Kudy explained that 70% of funds would come from private investors or building owners and the village would fund up to 30% and up to $10,000. Money would be issued upon approval of design and completion of project. He also mentioned one drawing has already been received for the program.

- The board approved a recreational trails program (RTP) grant services agreement with MSA and the subsequent resolution for outdoor recreation grant application authorization. MSA will work with the village and athletic association on the grant that would incorporate trails, increase accessibility between parking lots and ball diamonds, and help with parking lot improvements and stormwater projects at Columbus PARC. The grant would fund about 80% of the entire project. The village currently has the 20% match set aside.

When Autumn Comes

Dear Reader,

There is an indescribable sadness in dying. Dying, while a solitary act, invites the many connections and networks of love a person has affected prior, to be a part of this final physical farewell.

Every being dies. All living things animated by the spark of life eventually will be extinguished. Those who die through some earthly tragedy or by the direct or indirect hand of others, elude the myriad of issues facing death. But for most, there is no art in dying. Most don't die gracefully or well, because the process is polluted by unceasing grasping for those last wisps of earthly life. One would think the Creator of life would have provided a better way.

Life has an unknowable expiration date, an autumn. We look back at the memories that nurtured us through the years. We summon all the childhood ones when we floated in clouds of love with our parents, grandmas and grandpas, and brothers and sisters. Then come the later memories after school was left behind, when we lived through joyful and sorrowful adventures with dear friends. Perhaps we had our own little ones; then came the day when they had their own progeny; and so on.

The question arises: Why are we here? If we are to love one another, why do so many find themselves without love? If we are here to lock arms and embrace as brothers and sisters, why do so many try to dominate their fellows? If we can't responsibly share and care for our brethren, will there be another Ark followed by a flood and renewal for the venerable ones?

Is there perhaps, as most Christians believe, a Hereafter when the Creator appears in tangible form again wielding an irresistible force of attraction that embraces the good souls with Him? At the same moment, does He release the unworthy into the abyss of oblivion?

Ruefully, autumn comes around for us all, and we weep for what once was but now is lost beyond recall. At the moment of departure, there's a profound sorrow attached to those who lived with a noble purpose; and possibly a momentary sigh of relief when the evil ones are gone.

So far this time round, April hasn't lived up its reputation as the cruelest month. That is, if you overlook the couple days of snow which blew in right after the holiday. Making the landscape round these parts appear more like it was closer to Christmas than Easter.

While the temperatures have moderated to pleasant, sunny, absolutely gorgeous Spring days, occasionally, the breeze still has a chill. Though it just might be the idea of an older fellow. The result of a slower metabolism as the years wear on.

But for some of us, there's also an excitement. How could we not feel enthused? For those who love words, just the sound of them, NatPoMo is a 30-day party. We understand how the subject brought groans in school. Especially when asked by a teacher to not only write but also read your poem.

Just when you thought, a body's finally escaped one of the terrors of childhood, someone up and proclaims it's National Poetry Month. What? Not again! Much of the dislike of the entire genre comes from how it was taught in the first place.

In some ways, kids are more practical minded than adults. How are we gonna use this in real life? Same thing's been said about math. Where daily routine is involved our ability to quickly add or subtract sums has proven quite useful. Poetry allows us to groove with our spirit. More important than ever these days.

Besides, there's a lesson in the thoughts of Langston Hughes. "My motto as I live and learn/ is dig and be dug in return." What better way for folks to get along? Only possible when we connect with our feelings on a deeper level. If that doesn't convince you, relax. In less than two weeks it's May.

No More Wet Feet!

JACKIE SCHARFENBERG
RETIRED DNR NATURALIST

For many of us who walk the Tamarack Nature Trail around Mauthe Lake, we remember often getting wet, muddy feet as we tried to dodge water puddles found between the campground and the bridge over the Milwaukee River – East Branch. As of this spring, this is no longer the case! The trail in that section has been reconstructed to raise it above puddle level and drain water through culverts under the trail.

It took some hard work on behalf of the Kettle Moraine State Forest – Northern Unit's staff to complete this project. The crew faced several setbacks caused by permit delays, wet weather, unfrozen ground, bird nesting seasons, and equipment failures, but they laid the last stone this past winter. The first step of the project involved installing many culverts to direct water under the trail. Next, the staff laid down large rock to form a foundation for the trailbed.

This was followed by a layer of medium-sized gravel. When funding becomes available, a third layer of finer gravel will be added to make the trail even more accessible to more people.

The financing for this remake of the trail came from many sources. They included two large donations from dedicated Tamarack Trail enthusiasts and many smaller gifts from other trail users. The Friends of the Kettle Moraine doubled their contribution with a grant from a Knowles/Nelson Stewardship Fund. The Kettle Moraine State Forest – Northern Unit covered the labor costs. As you can see, it took a whole team to bring this project to fruition.

As the two-mile Tamarack Nature Trail circles Mauthe lake, it traverses several plant communities including a floodplain forest, a pine plantation, and cedar swamp. It also crosses the East Branch of the Milwaukee River twice – at the spillway dam where the river leaves Mauthe Lake and upriver from where it enters the lake. With all this diversity, the trail provides a hot spot for birders, especially in the spring when those long distant migrants stop over to rest and refuel.

The Northern Unit is known for rugged trails, but the Tamarack Nature Trail proves the exception with its flat terrain making it a perfect trail for all types of walkers and hikers including families with children. The trail offers a great destination for your out-of-town guests to enjoy a bit of the Northern Unit while stretching their legs while visiting to catch up on local happenings. You can jump on the trail at the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area where there are bathrooms, a sandy swimming beach, shaded picnic tables, and playground. You can also access the trail from the Forest Headquarters by the maintenance shop in which there are also bathrooms. Remember that a Wisconsin State Park System vehicle admission sticker is required to park at the Mauthe Lake Recreation Area.

Lace up your walking shoes, leave your rubber boots at home, and head out to the new and improved Tamarack Nature Trail. No matter the season, you can always find something special as you travel along the trail.

Village-Wide Rummage Sales

The Campbellsport News/Kewaskum Statesman will no longer be the entity spearheading the village-wide rummage sales for Campbellsport and Kewaskum.

If there is an organization, person, or persons who would like to take over the special event in each community, they may do so.

One of the reasons why the paper is no longer spearheading the village-wide rummage sales in either community is due to the dwindling number of sales being advertised in the paper. There were two Campbellsport addresses and 12 Kewaskum addresses listed last year; and eight Campbellsport and 16 Kewaskum sales in 2022.

The organization, person, or persons who takes the reins may change the weekend they prefer.

You will, however, see that the City of Mayville rummage sales will appear in the paper on May 2. The Dodge County Pionier is a sister paper of the Campbellsport News/Kewaskum Statesman and covers Mayville. Mayville sales still warrant doing a page with the listings.

Happy rummaging!

ics as well. However, the main treatment at that time was complete bed rest.

Westphal entered the sanatorium with very few belongings. He had packed one pair of pajamas.

"I don't think I had a bathrobe, which was standard. That is what you were supposed to wear the whole time," Westphal said.

During the first few days, Westphal went through more testing. He had another X-ray done.

"Advanced tuberculosis patients oftentimes have phlegm; coughing was a sign. My father definitely had a cough, although it could have something to do with the Chesterfield cigarettes that he smoked. They highly discouraged that, but just about all the older guys in the sanatorium smoked cigarettes," Westphal said.

Westphal was unable to cough up anything to test, so he had a gastric test instead.

"It was like getting my stomach pumped. They ran a hose down my throat, which I wasn't in favor of at all, to draw up stuff that was in my stomach. Then they tested that," he said.

The Porch

Male patients were all placed on the third floor of the sanatorium, while females were on the second floor. Westphal's father was placed in a room near other patients with severe cases.

Westphal was put on the porch at the end of the hallway. There were about eight or nine other beds on the porch for patients who, like Westphal, had tested positive for tuberculosis but who did not have an active case.

One other teenager was placed on the porch: Bobby Sanner, a 14-year-old from Wonewoc.

"Bobby apparently was in the same situation I was. He was supposed to be going home soon, and they thought maybe I could go home soon, too," Westphal recalled.

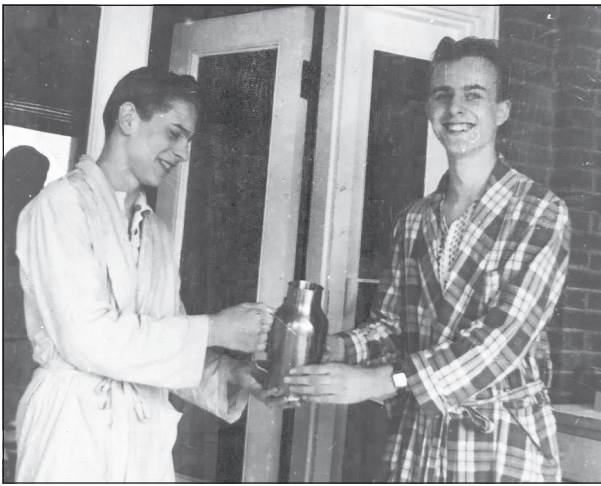

But that didn't happen. Westphal was not released for nine months. Sanner was still in the sanatorium when Westphal left.

Westphal vividly remembers staying on the porch day after day, night after night.

"There was a guy out on the porch who also had diabetes. He had to have part of his lung taken out.

Even though he recovered from that, he still had a drainage tube in his chest, and he would whistle through it every night. You could hear him whistling," Westphal recalled.

Westphal's mother visited each week, but his younger sister, who was about 7 or 8 years old at the time, was not allowed inside the building. None of

Jim Westphal and Bobby Sanner became friends while living for nine months in a sanatorium when they were in high school. SUBMITTED PHOTOS

Westphal's friends were able to visit.

"My mother wore a mask when she came to visit. The nurses and visitors had to wear a mask," Westphal said.

Westphal was able to visit his father and other patients in the sanatorium. He also regularly saw an old doctor, who made rounds at the sanatorium every day.

"He looked amazingly like Col. Sanders. His hair was white, and he had a little beard," Westphal said.

Each day, the doctor would say the same thing to each patient: "How are you doing today? How are your bowel movements?"

Regardless of how patients answered either of those two questions, the doctor had the same standard answer for everything: "Drink more water."

"You could just bet he was going to say that. And we would put him up to saying that once in a while," Westphal recalled.

The staff did what they could to keep the patients healthy.

"They thought fresh air was good for me. Of course, not in the wintertime so much, but in the springtime, they made sure all the windows were always opened," Westphal said.

At nighttime, flying squirrels would climb the wall of the sanatorium, and the patients would feed them peanuts.

"They would eat the peanuts right out of your hand," Westphal said.

One night, Westphal was feeding a squirrel, even talking to it. All of a sudden, the squirrel bit

Jim Westphal's father, Elwood Westphal (second from right) poses with other patients in the Lake View Sanatorium in 1961.

Westphal and drew blood.

"Then it took off. With the peanut, by the way," Westphal said.

The next day, Westphal's father said they better tell the doctor. So, when the old doctor made his rounds, Westphal told him about the incident.

"Could you identify that squirrel?" the doctor asked.

"Well, he wears a little helmet with goggles...." Westphal answered, as he started to describe Rocky, the flying squirrel in "Rocky and Bullwinkle."

"Well, I will look into it," the doctor replied.

The following day, the doctor told Westphal's dad, "Mr. Westphal, we found out that there is some incidence of rabid flying squirrels. Very low. There aren't many cases ever reported, but it might be wise to have rabies shots."

Westphal was not happy to hear that because he had heard the shots are terribly painful. But, his father was all for the idea, until the doctor said, "Your insurance won't cover this. It's going to be about $300."

Money was extremely tight in the Westphal home, especially with two of them in the sanatorium. So, without missing a beat, Westphal's dad looked at his son and said, "Well, Jimmy, sometimes in life, you've just got to take a chance."

So, Westphal did not get the rabies shots. Fortunately, he did not get rabies, either.

Shenanigans

Westphal and Sanner were the only two children in the sanatorium; all the other patients were adults. Both teens had been in sports at their high schools, and neither felt ill while they were in the sanatorium. So, it was difficult for them to always stay resting in bed.

"Of course, being two 14-year-olds, we would wrestle and do all kinds of stuff that we weren't supposed to do," Westphal admitted.

Each day, staff would wake the patients at 6 a.m. and feed them breakfast.

"Like most institutional foods, it was terrible food from what I remember. They wanted to fatten you up; that was a sign that you were getting better," Westphal said.

Because the patients were confined to bed, nurses gave them "bed baths."

"I don't know if you've ever had a bed bath in front of seven or eight other people. There you are. They always kept something over you, pretty much. But some of those guys took every opportunity to give you the evil eye," Westphal laughed.

The minute the nurses were gone, Westphal

Gerald Alois Schill

Gerald Alois Schill, 86, of Campbellsport, passed away April 4, 2024, surrounded by his family.

He was born in Ashford on November 5, 1937, to Cornelius “Corney” and Rose (Neumeyer) Schill. By the age of eight, he was washing cars, sweeping floors, and surely causing a little mischief at his dad’s Ashford Service Garage. In 1947, the family moved to Campbellsport, bringing the business with them, opening Schill Motor as a Chevrolet and Buick dealership. To the end, Jerry could name off a parts number, and kept his daily tradition of a soda and a candy bar.

Jerry served in the Army from 1956 to 1958. Upon returning, he married Mary (Salter) Schill on July 2, 1960. Together they celebrated 56 years and the births of their five children. He loved to play cards with their friends, watch their kids and later grandkids play sports, and occasionally enjoy a brandy old fashioned with 3 “tree” cherries.

After retiring, Jerry filled his days with the love of gardening. He maintained meticulous flower beds, he planted over 100 flower pots of annuals every year, and found time to pursue his love of wood working. When he was ready to “take the day off” he loved to rummage, finding the “knicky-knacks” he’d spend hours arranging. His love of Christmas probably started in childhood when he would paint the store windows throughout town with beautiful scenes.

He is survived by his children, Timothy (Mollie), Thomas (Julie), Theresa (Chris) Lewzader, Todd, Troy (Lottie); his 11 grandchildren, Tyler, Trevor (Melissa), Tate (Bridget), Casey (Eva), Zachary, Wesley (Nathalia), Bryanna, Joshua, Carissa, Ellysa, and Lincoln; eight great-grandchildren, Tuscan, Tessa, Tia, Hannah, Silas, Esmac, Stetson, and Ophelia; a sister and brother-in-law, Majorie (Donald) Miller; a sister-in-law, Carol Salter; and many nieces and nephews.

A Catholic mass will be held at St. Matthews Church in Campbellsport on Friday, April 19, at 4 p.m. A dinner will follow. All are welcome. In lieu of flowers, memorials can be made to the Hospice Home of Hope.

The family would like to thank the Hospice Home Care providers and the staff of the Hospice Home of Hope. The exceptional loving care you provided to our father will never be forgotten. We would also like to thank the incredible neighbors Jerry had over the years, who shared newspapers, lawn work, and the mandatory Hamms and candy bar.

“There are different kinds of gifts, but the same Spirit distributes them” ~ 1 Corinthians 12:4
With Dad and Mom both in Heaven, the family you created would like to thank the Spirit in both of you that has given us the gifts you taught us were important in life. We want to thank you for always being there for us no matter the time or day. We all will be forever grateful and continue the giving of gifts in your legacy.

MSA will work on the grant and enter the bidding process.

• Chief of Police Andrea Dowland was given approval to make an offer on a new squad that was available as of meeting time at Kayser Automotive. A purchase of a new squad was not to happen until next year, but the condition of the newer of the two squads is prompting the decision to try for one now.

• An ordinance was approved for establishing a municipal court with Eden after the resolution was approved last month.

• Discussion was held on removing ordinance 399-15, collection by person/firm, which prohibits garbage or waste disposal and collection without a permit. Dowland had an interaction with someone “dumpster diving,” which is what the ordinance refers to, prompting the discussion. She will be rewriting a new ordinance to address the issue.

• A second discussion was had on key lock box systems. Dowland will be working with the fire department to contact buildings without the systems and they will have 12 months to get up to code.

Public Meeting to Solicit Feedback on the Washington County Hazard Mitigation Plan Update

A public meeting will be held from 5-6 p.m., on Wednesday, May 1, at the Washington County Public Agency Center, Room 1113 A&B located at 333 E. Washington St. in West Bend.

Citizens are invited to this informational meeting related to the lessening of impacts from natural hazards in Washington County. Natural hazards include flooding, tornadoes, drought, extreme temperature events, and severe winter storms. Planning efforts are required by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) for local governments to receive federal funding for mitigation projects to help communities reduce the loss of life and property by minimizing the impact of disasters.

Citizens will have the opportunity to learn about, and comment on, the draft plan of the Washington County Hazard Mitigation Plan Update before it is submitted to be finalized.

In 2018, all of the cities, villages and townships in Washington County, along with the Washington County Board, adopted the Washington County Hazard Mitigation Plan. Hazard mitigation planning helps prevent/minimize future damages, promotes disaster-resilient communities, and reduces response and recovery resource requirements. Adopting the plan also allows municipalities and counties the opportunity to apply for mitigation project grant funds through FEMA. Hazard Mitigation Plans must be reviewed and updated on a regular basis to remain eligible for federal grants.

usually would sneak out and take a real shower.

Westphal and Sanner had some schooling during their confinement. Mrs. Marion Chatman was hired by the hospital through the city board of education to instruct the two quarantined students. She taught three subjects: Latin, mathematics, algebra and English.

“She knew nothing about Latin, and algebra she was pretty good at,” Westphal said. “Fact was it was kind of hit or miss. She would be there for about an hour a day, and I don’t remember learning a whole lot or studying.”

There were TVs in the sanatorium, which helped pass the time. The patients also had occupational therapy activities.

“For a while they had me making fishing flies. I made some of the worst flies you have ever seen. Being a fisherman, I said there is no self-respecting fish that would ever bite at these,” Westphal said.

He did better with other activities, such as tooling leather. It helped keep him busy during all that time he was forced to sit around.

“Mainly, I was just goofing around with Bobby Sanner and talking to these other guys, which was an education all on its own,” Westphal said.

The Patients

A bit of stigma is sometimes attached to tuberculosis, with some saying it affects people who live in crowded conditions and don’t have proper food.

“It hits all kinds of people, though. It can hit a big-time businessman in Florida, a nightclub owner, a Madison policeman. They were all in the sanatorium with me,” Westphal said.

Some of the patients were prisoners from Waupun State Prison. One was a bank robber and another had shot a man for “complaining too much.” Westphal got to know them and their stories.

“One of the patients was a jazz piano player when he wasn’t in jail, I guess. I got to hear him play – he was amazing. He taught me a lot about jazz, which I still like to this day,” Westphal said.

Another character in the sanatorium was Joe Urso, the owner of Urso’s Satellite Lounge in Monona, who had good connections with the outside world.

“If you wanted something, Joe would get it for you,” Westphal said.

Booze and cigarettes were common requests from the adult patients.

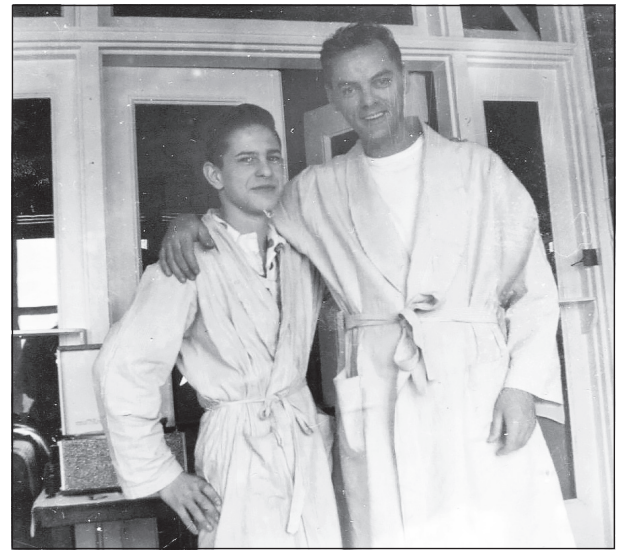

“They couldn’t smoke in their rooms, but they would go down and smoke in the bathroom. It was absolutely blue in there from the cigarette smoke,” Westphal noted.

Recovery

Westphal and his father were both released from the sanatorium on the same day in summer 1961.

A couple months later, Westphal’s father lost his job with Chicago & North Western Railroad, likely because of the high insurance costs from tuberculosis and the stay in the sanatorium. He struggled trying to get a good paying job the rest of his working life.

Westphal completed high school and went on to graduate from the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater in 1969. He received a draft notice, but did not need to serve because he had tested positive for tuberculosis.

SUBMITTED PHOTOS

Bobby Sanner, the other teenager who was quarantined for nine months with Jim Westphal, poses for a candid photo at the sanatorium in Madison.

He started teaching English at Kewaskum High School in 1969. For the first nine years he was in Kewaskum, he coached baseball. He coached basketball for over 20 years and coached football for over 20 years. He retired from teaching at Kewaskum High School in 2003.

Cars were parked along State Highway 144 as about 200 people gathered for the Town of Farmington's annual meeting on April 16. Town Hall is not large enough to house that many so, by unanimous show of hands, the meeting was moved to the Town Shop. The group was weighing in on whether the Town of Farmington should offer curbside garbage pickup on a weekly basis. The service would be added to the recycling pickup that is offered every other week. Residents would be charged for each service. After about an hour of discussion, an advisory vote was taken to see how many residents were in favor of adding garbage pickup. They voted 127-15 in favor of adding the service. The issue is a town board decision.

More than 300 people attended the Kettle Country District Pinewood and Blastcar Derby, which was held at Kewaskum Middle School on April 6. Wi-Fi is up and running in the town, but many people are still waiting to sign up. Discussion was held about selling the 1992 plow truck, which is currently in storage. A bigger shed to hold road salt is being considered. Salt purchase through the state is much cheaper than buying on the open market, but the township can't purchase through the state because the Town of Wayne does not have a big enough shed to store the minimum order.

Amy Dickmann of Kewaskum was announced as the winner of the 1,000,000 Pig Points Giveaway at Piggly Wiggly in Kewaskum. She used her points discount at BP of Kewaskum, paying only 14¢ for 15 gallons of gas.

Funding for an already planned bridge replacement in New Fane will come from the federal government through stimulus money. Town of Auburn officials made the announcement at the April meeting. Officials also proudly showed off the town's new, completely paid for, plow truck. It had cost $145,357.50.

The other two teams were Berlin at 186 and Campbellsport at 188.

At the April 14 track meet, the Kewaskum girls captured five first places. The 4x100 relay and 4x200 relay have the same runners: Jessie Liniewski, Nichole Kison, Haley Gregoriou, and Anna Butler. perstar becomes someone entirely unexpected in private moments – a thrilling crush, an ally in loneliness and a vulnerable best friend. The movie will be shown at 1 p.m. and 6 p.m. and is one hour, 53-minutes-long and is rated R. Popcorn will be provided.

The discussion will cover the prehistoric mound building periods in Wisconsin, how and perhaps why burial mounds were constructed and the tremendous concentration of Indian mounds in this region of Wisconsin.

The Horicon Marsh represents one of the greatest concentrations of effigy mounds found anywhere in the world! This program will also delve into the many sources of information that were relied upon to develop this book from unpublished historic journals to modern LiDAR imagery. The presentation will examine the unique archeological evidence that was discovered in Dodge County and greatly expanded our understanding of the Effigy mound building period in Wisconsin.

About our presenter – Bill Volkert is a naturalist and wildlife educator. He worked with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources at Horicon Marsh for 27 years, where he conducted more than 3,700 education programs for over 220,000 people. His broad audience included professional training for 66 delegations of scientists from 43 countries. Bill will have copies of his book, which has become the definitive word on Indian Mounds of Dodge County available for purchase at his presentation.

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

I was recently in a position where I had to give the phone numbers of my emergency contacts. It was a struggle to recall those numbers. Being involved in a traumatic situation did not help, but nowadays, who remembers phone numbers? If I need to call and speak with a contact as opposed to messaging or facetimeing, I find their name and tap the phone icon. I provided the numbers but did end up pulling out my cell phone and locating them in my contact list for confirmation.

I may not be able to promptly recite my children's numbers when asked, but I can remember my phone number when I was a child. Not only that, but I also know the exchange, which way back then, were letters. That is right, I am ancient and grew up during a time when my first two digits were actually FL for Flagstone. No lie, telephone numbers began with words. And you needed to insert a finger in a dial corresponding to the letter or number and rotate the dial for each digit to place a call.

Before sometime in the 1960s, most numbers were a unique five-digit combination within their service area. These numbers were preceded by two digits which were identified by letters denoting the exchange you were connected to. Turning them into words made it easier for switchboard operators to understand what number you wanted to be connected to. People did call zero to ask for assistance to place calls. So instead of saying FL or 35, it was Flagstone.

The popularity of telephone services eventually led to the dissolution of letter exchanges. With this high demand, seven-digit numbers were commonplace, area codes were added, and long-distance calls became easier to make. Now, calling out usually involves 10 numbers.

It is nice that you no longer need to change your number when you move, usually. For those with established numbers for many, many years, that is a blessing. Changing contact information on so many different platforms is a massive pain. I started updating the library's physical address earlier this year when we bought our new location. I knew it could take a while. We also purchased new VOIP phones which is a real savings on our phone bill. Porting our number that has been in use for possibly more than 50 years has been no easy task. I have been hindered by different issues every step of the way, which I will not describe because I would like to forget those.

I have made the decision to keep the temporary number we have been using for the past month and a half and will change our old number permanently to that. So, update your contact list, which is probably easy as I am sure Kewaskum Public Library is in your top five.

Our new and permanent number is (262) 667-2930. Give us a call and if you had a letter exchange in your past, let us know what it was.

CUB SCOUT CORNER

Scouts Celebrate Pi Day

KEWASKUM CUB SCOUT PACK 3744

March was an exciting month for us as we had Pi Day, and we headed into our Pinewood Derby.

We started the month off with Pi Day. We headed up to Fox Valley Tech in Appleton to complete STEM activities and work on a few belt loops.

After Pi Day, we moved into Pinewood Derby prep. Race Day was fast approaching!

Maple Syrup Days took place at Bear Paw Scout Camp, one of our council Scout Camps. Here they tap the trees and make delicious syrup you can buy at the scout shop. There were also lots of games and activities to do.

Our Pack Pinewood Derby took place in early April. We had a great turn out and lots of fun. We want to say a quick thanks to our local Scouts BSA Troop 744 for helping run the Derby. Our Top 5 for show and Top 5 for Speed go on to the District Pinewood Derby later this month.

Stay tuned for updates and to learn how our Pack does.

Scout BSA Troop 744 loads and runs cars up and and down the track. SUBMITTED PHOTOS

Some of the Bear scouts learned about static electricity at Pi Day. They rubbed a balloon on their head to create the static electricity and then stuck it to the wall. You can also see mazes they created for marble belt loop.

Winners who will be attending the District Derby.

One Venue, UNLIMITED POSSIBILITIES

The Schauer Arts Center is a true gem, a place where history and art come together in perfect harmony. Once a humble canning factory built in 1919, this architectural masterpiece has been transformed into an award-winning arts center that will take your breath away. The exposed rustic beams and soaring loft ceilings are a testament to its industrial past, while the modern design adds a touch of elegance and sophistication. Earth Day 2024

MARY KRIEGER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

For some, Earth Day is that one day a year you try to maybe pick up some garbage or plant a tree. For others, every day is Earth Day, and respecting Mother Earth is second nature. However, the notion of a day to celebrate the earth is relatively new. While Native Americans have historically respected and protected the environment, that wasn't true for the early white settlers who viewed nature as something to conquer and control. It wasn't until after World War 2 that the concept of protecting the environment gathered strength.

In the 1960's, scientists and environmentalists were trying to make the public aware of how some modern technologies and chemicals were negatively impacting the environment. In 1962, Rachel Carson wrote the book Silent Spring, which detailed how pesticides and herbicides were wreaking havoc on both animal and human health.

In 1969, a devastating oil spill occurred in California. An oil well off the coast of Santa Barbara, which had received a government waiver to use cheaper pipe for drilling, experienced what is referred to as a blow-out, allowing oil to escape into the ocean at a rate of 9,000 gallons per hour. By the time the blow out was repaired, an estimated three million gallons of oil had poisoned the ocean, spreading over eight square miles and contaminating over 100 miles of coastline. Thousands of birds, otters, seals and fish died because of the oil spill.

Wisconsin Senator Gaylord Nelson toured the site, and believing the nation needed to do something to prevent further environmental disasters, came up with the idea of a national environmental teaching day. The first Earth Day teach-in happened on April 22, 1970, involving over 20 million people from across the country, who came together to learn about the environment and ways to protect it.

Due to the efforts of Senator Nelson and others, the Environmental Protection Agency, or EPA, was created by the Nixon administration later in 1970. In addition, the Occupational Safety and Health Act and the Clean Air Acts were passed into law. In 1972, the Clean Water Act was passed and in the 1980's, the Endangered Species Act was created.

Recognizing that protecting the earth from pollution requires international cooperation, 175 nations came together and signed the United Nations Paris Agreement on April 22, 2016 with a goal of minimizing climate change by decreasing the use of fossil fuels.

Since the beginnings of the environmental movement, efforts to protect the planet have had some notable successes despite push back from those who are more concerned about profit margins. One success story is the resurgence of our national bird, the bald eagle. In the 1960's, the overuse of the chemical insecticide DDT was decimating the eagle population and only 500 pairs were alive in the entire U.S. After the chemical was banned in 1972, the eagles slowly started to resurge and a birding census in 2019 found over 1,684 pairs just in Wisconsin.

Another success story is the ozone layer. In the 1980's, a hole was detected in the ozone layer, which protects the earth from harmful sun rays. An international effort to phase out the use of propellants and chlorofluorocarbons has halted the destruction of the ozone layer and seen the hole become progressively smaller. Scientists believe the ozone layer will be fully repaired by 2050.

One of the current environmental challenges is the overuse of plastics. Plastics are everywhere-used for storage, beverages, building materials, furniture, toys and clothing. In the U.S., over one billion plastic beverage containers are used each year along with over 500 million plastic bags. Plastic can take up to 500 years to degrade into microplastics that can enter into our food, water and the air. Some studies have linked these microplastics to increased cases of cancer, Alzheimer's and heart disease.

According to ecocycle.org, only 9% of plastic is ever actually recycled. The rest ends up in landfills, rivers and oceans. Even plastics that you place in the recycling bin usually aren't recycled. Plastics marked with a number 1 or 2 are the most likely to be recycled into clothing or building materials. In 2023, ABC News placed tracking devices on 46 plastic bags and then deposited them in recycling containers at Target and Walmart stores across the country. Only four bags were tracked to a recycling center, while the rest found their way to landfills, incinerators or overseas.

There are things we all can do to decrease the amount of plastic that enters our environment. Using glass, metal or cardboard containers for food storage, beverages and cooking will greatly decrease the amount of plastic that is thrown away, as will using reusable grocery bags. For more tips on how to reduce your plastic consumption, go to www.greeneducationfoundation.org.

An old Native American proverb says, "When the last tree is cut down, the last fish eaten, and the last stream poisoned, you will realize that you cannot eat money." Wise words for us to remember on Earth Day and every day.

Kewaskum Kiwanis Students of the Month

Natalie Sebo

Hi, I am Natalie Sebo. I have tried to make the most out of my high school experience by being involved in many extracurricular activities. I have participated in volleyball all four years and was on varsity the last three years along with being a captain of the team my senior year. I also participated in track and field my freshman year. My sophomore through senior year I became involved in many clubs. I have been on the executive board for our student council for the last three years. I also am highly involved in Key Club, Kewaskum Impact Crew Mentoring and Peers for Peers; along with being the treasurer of our schools National Honor Society (NHS) and Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA).

Natalie Sebo

My experience with being treasurer for these clubs has piqued my interest in a career in business and finance. That being said, I am planning to attend University of Wisconsin-La Crosse this fall in the College of Business Administration. I am really looking forward to my college experience and being involved at college like I was during my high school years.

Outside of school, I work at Washington County Samaritan Nursing Home as a Dining Services assistant, and I enjoy staying active by playing pickleball and going on hikes with friends and family. I have enjoyed my years at Holy Trinity School and Kewaskum High School, but I am looking forward to my future.

Mackenzie Halvorsen

My name is Mackenzie Halvorsen and I am a senior at Kewaskum High School. I am honored to be selected for the Kiwanis Student of the Month.

Throughout high school, I have been involved in numerous clubs including the KIC Mentor Program, student council, Key Club, Spanish Club, Hope Club, and National Honor Society. I have also been involved in girls soccer for the past three seasons. Every Sunday night I volunteer at Kettlebrook Church where I co-lead a small group of sixth-grade girls from various churches and schools. It's encouraging to give back to the same youth group that impacted my life during middle school. I enjoy spending time with my friends and family, going to the gym, and snowboarding. I am currently enrolled in Youth Apprenticeship where I am employed at Kewaskum Family Dentistry. Having the opportunity to gain experience and observe the job environment has confirmed my decision to pursue a career in Dental Hygiene. In the fall, I will be attending Northcentral Technical College in Wausau. I am currently pre-program and awaiting admittance into the dental hygiene program.

Kewaskum School District Recommendation Score Improves

CLARICE CASE EDITOR

The Kewaskum School District (KSD) recently closed its second family engagement survey and discussed some of the results at the recent Board of Education meeting on Thursday, April 11.

The biggest takeaway from the survey is that the score for whether families would recommend the district to others jumped from 85% last year to 90% this year. The district also found its strengths were in culture, teaching and learning.

Board Matters:

- During his report, Dr. Mark Bazata, district administrator, presented new KSD seal designs after taking last month's feedback into account. The new designs incorporated evergreens and a wave to represent the Kettle Moraine Forest and Milwaukee River. The majority of the board decided on one design that they liked and Bazata will continue working with it.

- The board approved the purchase Skyward and ISCorp Skyward Hosting informational technology in the amounts of $44,000 and $10,360.
- The board approved several expense items falling under the Kewaskum Elementary School Civil Engineering Project totaling around $346,600.
- The board also approved the purchase of a grand piano and bench in the amount of $18,400.
- The reorganization meeting will happen before the regular May board meeting that would be on Thursday, May 9.
- Graduation will be June 5 at 7 p.m.

Campbellsport Boys Sweep K.M.L. Invitational

CLARICE CASE
EDITOR

On Thursday, April 11, the Campbellsport track team participated in the Kettle Moraine Lutheran Varsity Track and Field Invitational.

The boys placed first with 191 points out of 13 teams. The boys also took first in every relay. The girls placed fourth with 83 points out of 12 teams.

The top eight finishers collect points, and the top three receive medals.

Head Coach Derek Toshner said, "Garrett Pickering and Caleb Selbauer are both freshman and will be major contributors to the team this season. Caleb Smith and Evan Wilcox both placed in four events. Caleb was top three in all four. To our knowledge, Lexi Diels has the third farthest throw in school history behind former school record holder Dawn Zuengler from 1978 and Aubrey Koenings from 2023. Zuengler threw 119-3, Aubrey 126-8, and Diels 112-9."

Toshner added, "The Cougars haven't won a [conference] title since 1979, and the WLA Vikings have never won a title. Both teams appear to have a strong chance this season, and it will be exciting to watch it unfold. What's extra cool is it doesn't feel like a rivalry, but a strong mutual respect between the athletes. I believe you'll see a lot of competitiveness and sportsmanship at the same time, and it will be the type of 'feel good entertainment' people will want to watch."

Kewaskum Fastpitch Softball Takes a Win in Conference Opener

KHS FASTPITCH SOFTBALL
Kewaskum (8-1), 2 vs Waupun (2-2), 1
Thursday April, 11

A pitcher's duel defined Kewaskum Fastpitch's conference opener. Both teams were very strong in the circle as Kewaskum pitcher Macy Sabish went pitch for pitch with Waupun's ace, Addison Braun. Sabish earned the win as the Indians came out on top, 2-1.

Sabish surrendered five hits and one run over seven innings, while striking out seven. Braun went six innings, allowed two runs and struck out nine.

Kewaskum scored all of their runs in the first inning. Julia Prochnow led off with a walk and went all the way to third on wild pitches. Kyli Baka bunted, which scored Prochnow, and Baka's speed allowed her to reach first. Lauren Rettler was hit by a pitch which moved Baka to second base. Rettler and Baka executed a double steal which allowed Ellie Calliari to hit an RBI ground-out to score Baka. That would be enough as the Kewaskum defense and Sabish would only allow one run on the day.

"I don't feel like either team played their best ball, but a win is a win," said coach Chris Sabish. "We didn't get all of our bunts down, made some situational mistakes in the field and on the base paths, and in a game like this, you simply cannot miss those opportunities to move runners and score runners," added Sabish.

Waupun did play the game under protest due to slippery field conditions. As of press time, the win still stands. Once lawyers get involved and Robert's rules of order get executed, we will see if the win will remain intact. The coaching staff is expecting a certified letter on the situation, but historically these letters simply get framed or filed and nothing changes, as slippery field conditions are incredibly normal in the springtime. The WIAA has given no indication that this protest will be entertained.

Kewaskum was led offensively by Prochnow, Baka, Rettler, and Calliari, who all chipped in with hits. Baka led the way with two singles and an RBI, and Calliari had a triple and an RBI. Prochnow and Baka each scored one run.

Conference games get into full swing next week as the fastpitch team looks to defend their conference title.

Wisconsin Conservation Congress/Spring Hearings

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

Every once in a while, I have to get out of actual hunting, fishing, camping, canoeing and backpacking and write about something different. This week I am writing to you about the Wisconsin Conservation Congress annual spring hearings, and I will touch on a few of the 49 proposals that were voted on and will be sent to the seven-citizen Natural Resources Board, which sets DNR policy. Due to space constraints, I have to be short on each topic; I will give my thoughts on most proposals, and I feel it is important to inform you that what I mention, at least for now, will not become law.

A proposal to change the opening of trout inland stream, spring and spring pond opener from the first Saturday in May to the first Saturday in April. If this becomes law, the reasoning is that more opportunities would be offered for trout fishermen. I agree 100%. My energy for trout fishing is not nearly as strong in the summer as it is in the spring.

Here is a common-sense advisory question. Currently, if you harvest a whitetail deer under Wisconsin's quartering rule and, this is primarily for public land hunters, you also have to haul everything but the entrails back to your vehicle. Allowing some parts of the deer to be left in the field, forest, and marsh will allow hunters to hunt further from the car and actually help with CWD as those parts will not be distributed in an area where they possibly should not be distributed.

"Keep Cats Indoors" education! One of the greatest causes of unnatural mortality in wild birds is house cats allowed to roam free. The current practice called TNR (Trap-Neuter-Release) involves releasing trapped cats back into the wild after neutering them. Even when declawed, one cat can kill several dozen wild birds a year. My feelings, and this will get me some hate mail, are feral cats are an enemy in the forest, they are a non-native species that are very good at killing.

Ban live scopes and 360-degree imaging in all Wisconsin waters. This is a tough one. This technology enables fishermen to find fish in a reliable way. The end result could result in lower bag limits and with time that honestly could happen. On the other hand, what other technology would you allow or ban? My thought: no action on a ban for now but leave the door open.

There is a chance that lake sturgeon could be put on the Federal Endangered Species list.

Voluntary asset tag on canoes and kayaks. This proposal has been around awhile. In the world we live in, non-motorized watercraft are one of the simplest, most inexpensive, and least maintenance ways to enjoy the water. Ask someone from Minnesota how much they enjoy registering their kayaks and canoes. I'm not a fan of this one.

FYI, the new Wisconsin inland walleye limit is three daily, but if you go to another body of water to catch your fourth and fifth walleye, it is 5. I learned that at this meeting and was impressed. Bottom line - now the law.

Finally, there is a fair chance that lake sturgeon will be put on the federal endangered species list. This is not a state issue, but the state would have to follow the Endangered Species Act. This is similar to wolf being on the endangered species list which means the state WDNR in our case has no say over harvest or, should I say, no harvest.

The walleye and sturgeon topics are just to make you think and read subjects.

Get outside, have some fun!

Kewaskum Baseball Split a Pair of Games Over Weekend

KHS BASEBALL

The Kewaskum Indians split a pair of games over the weekend dropping the first game to Lomira but bouncing back to defeat the Port Washington Pirates 9-3. Strong pitching led the way as starter Sam Ciriacks went the distance using all 100 pitches in his complete game. He had a shutout through six innings until a pair of errors in the seventh inning followed by three consecutive singles allowed the Pirates to score their lone three runs. Ciriacks scattered three runs (zero earned) on six total hits while walking two and striking out two.

The Indians waited to score until the third inning when they were able to score five runs thanks to an RBI double by Andrew Reichert, RBI single by Kingston Grisolono, a pair of walks allowed Austin Reichel (RBI) and Karter Fell (2RBI) to hit back-to-back run-scoring singles.

After a 1-2-3 top of the fourth highlighted by a double play, the Indians scored two more in the bottom half on a Grisolono RBI double and an Austin Loehr RBI single. The final scoring for the Indians came in the bottom of the sixth when Austin Loehr hit a one-out triple and then scored on a Dylan Soyk triple two pitches later. Soyk was able to score on a wild pitch to give the Indians their final run.

Kewaskum is back in action Monday vs Kiel, Thursday vs Cedarburg, Friday at Winnebago Lutheran and Saturday vs New Holstein for a double header.

Kewaskum Baseball Falls to the Chargers on the Road

The Kewaskum Indians (1-3, 1-1) fell 8-2 to the Kettle Moraine Lutheran Chargers on Thursday, April 11 despite out-hitting them 7-3.

The visiting Indians scored two in the top of the first to take the lead but unfortunately that was the end of the scoring as the host Chargers answered with a run in first and second innings, followed by a five-run in the third and then one insurance run in the fifth. The Chargers capitalized in the third inning scoring five on six walks, a pair of hits and a hit batter. The Indians did get an unassisted double play on a line out to Karter Fell to attempt to limit the damage.

Tyler Stray pitched well in relief allowing just no earned runs, one hit, and one walk in three innings while striking out one. The Indians were led offensively by Dylan Soyk and Sam Ciriacks who both had a pair of singles.

The Indians hosted Lomira and Port Washington on Saturday, April 13 in a triangular.

Kewaskum Baseball Takes a Win Over Kettle Moraine Lutheran

The Kewaskum Indians (1-2, 1-0) were triumphant over the Kettle Moraine Lutheran (KML) Chargers (0-3, 0-1) 8-6 on Tuesday, April 9 at their home field. It was a back and forth game until the bottom of the fifth inning when the Indians took the lead for good after trailing 6-4. After Cale Heinonen got hit by a pitch to lead off the inning, and Dylan Soyk singled, the Indians looked to be in business with two on and nobody out. After a fly out and groundout to advance the runners, Liam Stoffel drew a walk to load the bases for Sam Ciriacks. Ciriacks took the first pitch fastball to deep center to clear the bases and take a one run lead. Fellow junior Andrew Reichert came up and singled him home and that was all the support the Indians pitchers would need to secure the 8-6 victory in the conference opener.

The Indians were led offensively by Andrew Reichert, Dylan Soyk, and Karter Fell who each had two hits while Kingston Grisolono and Sam Ciriacks had a hit a piece but led with two and three RBIs respectively. On the mound, Everett Donath started the game scattering six hits and three earned runs while walking three and striking out four after three and a third innings. Cooper Petermann earned the victory on the mound. He came in and shut the door for the remaining three and two third innings allowing one earned run on two hits while striking out five and walking two.
