Women's Club to Judge Kewaskum Yards

The 27th annual Village Beautification program, sponsored by the Village of Kewaskum and the Kewaskum Women's Club, is being held this summer. Judging of front yards of area homes and businesses for beautification awards will be held on July 2.

The purpose of the Beautification Awards is to recognize and promote attractive residential and commercial front-yard landscapes. There are four categories in the residential awards:

- Creative use of landscape materials, shrubs and plants;
- Floral shrubbery and tree arrangement;
- Colorful floral selection of design; and
- Lawn ornaments and décor.

An honorable mention award will be given for the commercial property champion. Winners will be presented with plaques and a large metal award sign to place in winning front yards until October.

Kewaskum Women's Club members, along with the Village Board president, will present the awards at the village board meeting to be held in the temporary location of the Kewaskum Fire Department public room on Monday, July 15, at 7 p.m.

"We appreciate all the work put into the beautification of area yards in the Village of Kewaskum," remarked Gwendolyn Dreher of the Kewaskum Women's Club committee, which started in 1997 with the Village of Kewaskum board.

Grant Supports Disaster Volunteer Reception Center

FOND DU LAC COUNTY EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

Planning and preparing for a disaster are a whole community effort. This includes residents as well as all levels of government along with many community organizations and partners. Tornadoes, flash flooding, extreme temperatures along with the impacts of these type of incidents is something we all need to think about and prepare for. We are not in this alone and work is being done every day with response agencies to plan and train for the response to these types of events. We are also very fortunate that our communities come together to help each other when disaster strikes. This willingness to help and provide support to those impacted is an important part of the recovery process. One of the many examples of this community support includes the work being done by the Fond du Lac Area United Way in partnership with Fond du Lac County Emergency Management to plan and prepare for this response if needed. One piece of that partnership is a Disaster Volunteer Reception Center or DVRC. The DVRC has trained staff to assist with the coordination of volunteer resources which are available during disaster response. This includes things such as registering volunteers, identifying skills that volunteers have to assist in assignment of tasks as well as tracking time spent helping. Volunteers provide valuable services and help the community work towards recovery in a disaster.

County Executive Sam Kaufman commented, "Volunteers provide a great service to our community, whether in an emergency or in every day activities. This spirit of volunteerism is one of the many things that makes our community a great place to live and work."

As part of this partnership, Fond du Lac County is pleased to award a grant of $3,000.00 to the Fond du Lac Area United Way to support the DVRC. These funds will support the work of the DVRC to be ready to support response and recovery efforts if the need arises.

"The Disaster Volunteer Reception Center is a very important piece of response to a disaster. The funds received through this grant will help us train the staff we need to respond should the need arise," stated Amber Kilawee, Executive Director of the Fond du Lac Area United Way.

Fond du Lac County Emergency Management is committed to taking a "whole community" ap-

Unveiling the Echoes of Time in Shelley's "Ozymandias"

Dear Reader,

In Percy Bysshe Shelley's poignant sonnet, "Ozymandias", the reader is transported through the annals of time, encountering the echoes of voices long silenced by the sands of desert winds. Through the juxtaposition of various voices, the poem unveils the ephemeral nature of power, fame, and human existence itself.

The poem begins with a traveler's narrative, setting the scene of a vast, desolate landscape where only remnants of a once mighty civilization remain. The traveler recounts encountering a colossal statue, a monument to the arrogance and grandiosity of Ozymandias, a powerful ruler of ancient Egypt. Here, the voice of the traveler serves as a conduit, guiding the reader through the ruins of a forgotten empire.

Embedded within the traveler's narrative is the voice of the sculptor, whose artistry breathed life into the visage of Ozymandias. Through his craftsmanship, the sculptor immortalized the hubris and vanity of the ruler, capturing the essence of his reign in stone. Yet, even the most masterful of works cannot withstand the relentless march of time.

Central to the poem is the inscription on the pedestal, bearing the command of Ozymandias: "Look on my Works, ye Mighty, and despair!" This declaration, once intended to instill awe and fear in the hearts of onlookers, now serves as a poignant reminder of the folly of human ambition. The voice of Ozymandias himself echoes across the ages, a testament to the transience of power and the fleeting nature of fame.

At its core, "Ozymandias" speaks to the brevity of our existence within the vast expanse of time. Like Ozymandias and his once-great empire, we too are subject to the relentless passage of years. Our triumphs and achievements, like the shattered visage of the statue, are destined to crumble into dust, mere footnotes in the chronicles of history.

Yet, amidst the ruins of empires, there is a profound beauty in the impermanence of human endeavors. It is a reminder that true greatness lies not in the accumulation of power or wealth, but in the enduring legacy of compassion, empathy, and understanding that transcends the confines of time.

In "Ozymandias," Shelley invites us to confront our own mortality and to ponder the legacy we leave behind. Through the voices of the traveler, the sculptor, and the enigmatic Ozymandias himself, we are reminded of the fragility of power, the transient nature of fame, and the eternal march of time. It is a testament to the enduring power of poetry to capture the essence of the human experience and to illuminate the truths that bind us across the ages.

CONTRIBUTOR

You'd think a fella born and raised in the country, in fact lived his entire life there, ought to know better. Leastwise the son and grandson of farmers. Whose maternal grandpa was also a hired hand. And you would, of course, be wrong.

Other than distinguishing a Holstein from a Hereford besides black Angus, haven't a clue about different breeds of cattle. Wouldn't recognize a Brown Jersey from a Brahma. Wait a minute. It's the one with a hump in its back, right? Familiar with Texas Longhorns. Seen enough westerns. Otherwise, not so much.

Really no excuse. While I never took an Ag course in high school, grew up in farmhouses on working homesteads. Though Dad was long out of the business by then. Working at Stella Cheese. Been in enough barns and the factory's intake to be more acquainted with a heifer's output. Watched my uncle and cousins during milking time on his place near Marathon. Admittedly, his equipment was outdated, he only able to handle two cows at a time. Not to mention cold storage being cans dropped into a water-filled slot in the milkhouse floor. Old days, old ways.

But ah, the product! Nothing quite the same as drinking it fresh from the livestock. Rather creamy and quite unpasteurized. A distinct change for those use to 2%. Not that we didn't get ours direct. Stella allowed each worker to fill a half gallon pail twice a day. Trudged through the vat room to collect a share. Helping my family scrape by. Until a large corporation bought Stella and new rules ended the practice. While it lasted, learned to taste the albeit slight variation in flavor depending on what kind of clover the herd ate.

If milk does a body good, to be sure, wasn't ever in short supply for my parents and their eight offspring.

| LETTER TO THE EDITOR |

I am a veteran and a retired teacher. Some events during Memorial Day each year trouble me. Maybe this little note will help folks.

Memorial Day is just as it implies. Memories, yes, some not pleasant. It is a day we give thanks to veterans and remember those who gave their life for our freedom. It is not a time to necessarily celebrate and shoot off fireworks. Fireworks are more appropriate around the Fourth of July, for obvious reasons.

Shooting fireworks is very disturbing to some veterans. It brings back horrible memories of war at its worst. Some cannot handle it. Shooting fireworks after 10 p.m. is inconsiderate. People need less frightening peace at this time.

Where I live near Haven and Moraine Drive, we hear fireworks during New Years, Memorial Day, and the Fourth, many at 11 p.m. and later. They [e.g. firecrackers, roman candles, bottle rockets and mortars] really are illegal, dangerous, and disturbing.

Milwaukee River Kayaking

A beautiful, slow, evening paddle... eight villagers recently got the opportunity to learn to kayak on the Milwaukee River from RiverHill Park north and back again. The free lesson and guidance was provided by RiverEdge Nature Center, who has an official partnership with the Village of Kewaskum, part of Community Rivers Program, to help residents be informed, engaged and inspired by the relationship with the river. PHOTO CREDIT: PEG KOBER

D.N.R. Announces 2024 Turkey Season Results

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced preliminary totals for the 2024 spring turkey season. Wisconsin turkey hunters registered 50,435 birds this season, making it the fourth-highest spring harvest on record and a 22% increase from the five-year average.

The 2024 spring season started on April 13 with the two-day youth hunt for hunters under 16 years old. A total of 3,967 birds were registered, a 37% increase from the five-year average.

A total of 246,068 authorizations were available this spring, and hunters applied for or purchased 224,630 of them. The regular season is divided into six separate one-week periods, from April 17 to May 28. These separate periods help maximize hunter opportunities while minimizing interference for a more sustainable harvest. The robust participation and harvest numbers show ample opportunities across the state.

The deadline to apply for next spring's (2025) turkey season is Dec. 10. Hunters can apply for harvest authorizations online through the Go Wild license portal.

Learn more about turkey hunting in Wisconsin on the DNR's Turkey Hunting webpage.

Historic Tax Roll Project Complete and Live on County Website

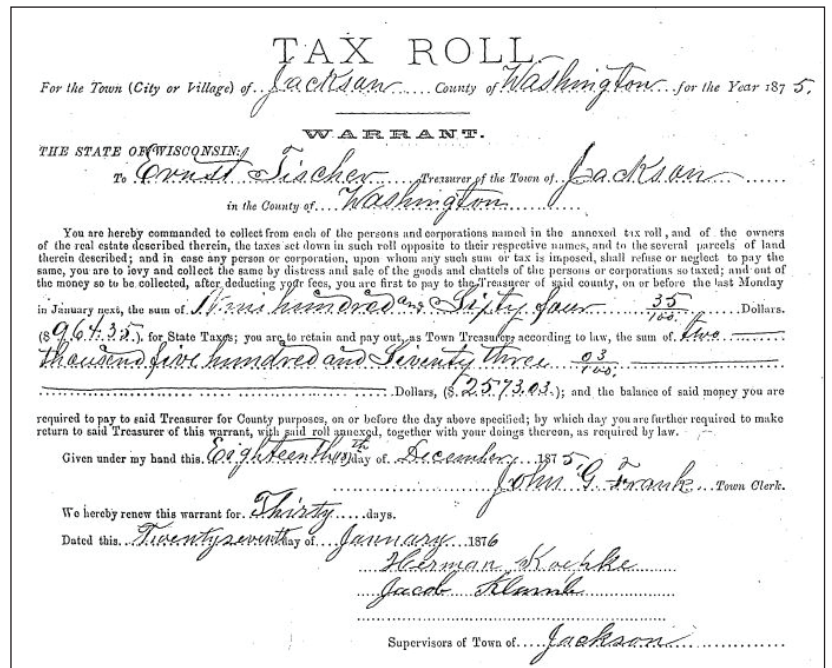

The Washington County Treasurer's Office has completed a historic tax roll project, scanning records from 1849-1984 to create a permanent online back-up and increase their accessibility to property owners and the general public.

Scott Henke, county treasurer, said, "This is very exciting that these historic records are available to the public at any time. Thanks to the Washington County Land Information Program (WLIP) and the County Board of Supervisors for the funding and support of this priceless project."

Many of the oldest original tax roll books were hand-written, fading, and starting to deteriorate. The 1985-1999 tax rolls are on microfiche, which are fading. These records have been scanned and will be available soon, making all records from 1849-2023 available online.

The County Board approved the project in 2022 Resolution 24 and transferred $225,000 from the Wisconsin Land Information Program (WLIP) Retained Revenue Fund to the Land Record Fee Expense for the Historic Tax Roll Scanning Project. Higher than anticipated WLIP revenue was received, and enough funds were accumulated to complete the tax roll scanning project at one time instead of the originally planned phased approach over several years.

WLIP is funded in part through a fee paid to record real estate documents by county registers

Combining Two Passions Leads To New Venture

GAYLE RYDSTROM
JOURNALIST

Growing up on a farm in the Iron Ridge/Rubicon area, Leah Weninger loved the dairy side of farming. She decided to attend Fox Valley Technical College and graduated in 2021 with an associate degree in Ag Business-Animal Science and Technology.

"I knew this is the lifestyle I want to continue," said Leah. "Farming runs in my blood. It is something that is and forever will be part of my life."

But farming isn't the only interest of Ken and Mary Weninger's daughter. Leah enjoys connecting with children. For five summers, Leah worked as a farm camp instructor and tour guide at Roden Barnyard Adventures. With continuous love and support from her family and the community as well as Jacki at Roden Barnyard Adventures, Leah is starting a new journey that she said would not have been possible without them.

Leah's new venture is The Farm Barnyard, which will combine her farm passion with wanting to give youngsters the experience she had while growing up.

"My favorite memories on the farm growing up was the freedom to explore," said Leah. "Whether it was playing with the baby kittens, crawling around in the hay or sand pile, tractor rides that turned into naps, or just random games my siblings came up with, I value that because it just allowed me to grow and explore at a younger age."

This will be the first year of The Farm Barnyard. Leah has planned two opportunities for youngsters, and each will be fun and educational. Check out the information on The Farm Barnyard's Facebook page.

"It will give campers the opportunity to be hands-on with animals and the land," she explained. "To get an education on where food comes from and why agriculture is so important in our everyday lives."

Leah will be working with ages five to 12 this first year, but would love to expand the age group in the future.

"I hope to show them the passion, hard work, respect, and dedication that farmers have for their land and animals," said Leah. "I think it is important to understand agriculture and how food is produced at any age."

Pointing out the agriculture is the backbone of America, Leah said agriculture provides us with more essential things that people don't realize are produced by farmers: things people eat, clothes they wear, or fuel in their vehicles.

"Nowadays, kids are about three to four generations removed from a farm, so they don't get to experience that hands-on interaction or just simply knowing where their food comes from," said Leah.

She continued, "I want to give kids that experience I had growing up and connect them with the animals and the soil. I hope to show them the passion, hard work, respect, and dedication farmers

One of the visuals that Leah Weninger uses during a presentation is a portable milking cow. Depending on what the teacher wants Leah to focus on during her visit, Leah also has feed samples, tools that she uses on the farm, supplies for her cows and calves, live baby goats for a goat lesson, and more that she can show and explain to the youngsters.

Not only does Leah have experience with children through her time working at Roden Barnyard Adventures, she has three years of serving as the Washington County Ag Ambassador. She visits youngsters in kindergarten through grade four, teaching them a variety of ag-related lessons.

"I have seven different lessons that teachers can choose from for their age grade," said Leah. "All of my lessons are hands-on because I believe students learn and understand things better that way."

Also a hands-on learner, Leah sees the benefit of presenting information that way.

"Plus, it's more engaging for them as well and keeps them excited," she added.

The Farm."

Leah noted that her grandma, who was a city girl, was friends with her grandpa's cousin. The friend invited Leah's grandma to see "the farm" and grandma and grandpa fell in love. Leah's grandparents and parents meet at The Farm and her younger cousins ask if they can go to The Farm.

"So the name holds a lot of meaning in my heart," she said.

How did she choose the name The Farm Barnyard?

"The name holds a lot of meaning," said Leah. "To everyone, our farm is known as 'The Farm.' To my friends, family, and neighbors, it's

| CAMPBELLSPORT GLANCE BACKWARDS |

5 Years Ago

June 20, 2019

The first weekend of June was a big one for Campbellsport. The high school softball team was in the WIAA State Softball Tournament, placing second in Division 3. Campbellsport resident Joe Halbur was working during the tournament, as an umpire. This was the first time in 25 years of umpiring that Joe was on the field. He was supposed to umpire in the tournament last year, but his mother passed away the week of the tournament. Umpiring at the State Tournament is by invitation only. The tournament spans three days, and Joe umpired in four games during those three days. However, he did not umpire either of the games that the Lady Cougars played.

A group of residents attended the Town of Osceola meeting on June 11 to voice their concerns about the appearance of a former church site in the township. The site is where Our Lady of Angels Catholic Church in Armstrong used to stand. A petition with about 730 signatures was presented, asking the town board to require the property owner to clean up the lot. The person renting the location uses it for his construction business. With the renter's agreement, the board decided the members will visit the site before making a decision.

Many area residents have memories of stopping at the Bartoli Greenhouse every year to purchase plants and vegetables. The buildings that were part of the business for so many years were torn down on June 5. The property is being redeveloped and all of the buildings were razed.

Members of the Village of Eden board learned during the June 18 meeting about some projects that would be in the best interest of the village to take on in the future. Last year, the DNR told the village that something needed to be done with the amount of clear water going into its sewer system. The village was also informed that some upgrades or possibly a new treatment plant would be needed in the future. A study discovered that three residences had sump pumps connected to the sewer system, which is against village ordinance and state law. An estimated 15,000 gallons of water per day came from those three connections. Every residence will receive a letter explaining sump pumps cannot be hooked up to the sewer system and they will get two weeks to unhook their sump pumps. Representatives from the village will then go to residences to check sump pumps. A fine of $1,000 per day could be issued until disconnection is done.

Help Protect Turtles during Nesting Season

WIS. DEPT. OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) encourages the public to help nesting turtles by following a few easy actions throughout the nesting season.

This time of year, turtles emerge from rivers, lakes and wetlands to find a spot for their nests. Wisconsin's 11 turtle species lay eggs in shallow, buried nests from late May through June, where they are often along roads and in residential yards. Drivers can help reduce turtle road mortality — a leading cause of turtle decline throughout Wisconsin — by being mindful when driving near swamps, lakes and rivers.

"When turtles are more active during nesting season, they face added risks. Some are run over by vehicles, while others face predation from raccoons, skunks and coyotes. Some protected species are also taken illegally from the wild and sold in the illegal pet trade," said Andrew Badje, DNR conservation biologist. "Protecting adult females and turtle nests in the wild is essential for conserving Wisconsin turtle populations."

Here are some ways Wisconsinites can help turtles from now through July:

- Protect nests: Follow instructions and a step-by-step video on how to build a nest cage that keeps predators out and allows hatchlings to exit on their own.
- Drive cautiously: Slow down, be alert and reduce distractions, especially on roads near wet areas, lakes and rivers.
- Share your sightings: Report turtle observations, road crossings and nest sites using the DNR's Reporting Form to help us manage and conserve turtles more effectively. You can also report suspicious illegal activity associated with turtles to the DNR's Violation Hotline online or by calling or texting 800-847-9367.
- Keep Wildlife Wild: Help protect Wisconsin's native turtles by keeping wild turtles in the wild and not releasing pet turtles.
- Donate: DNR conservation efforts for endangered and threatened species wouldn't be possible without support from the Endangered Resources Fund.

Learn more about turtles in Wisconsin on the Turtle Conservation Program webpage.

LORI KREIS, DIRECTOR
KEWASKUM PUBLIC LIBRARY

I see myself as a semi-crafty person. By this, I mean I can create some things adequately and a few very well. Then there are those crafts I would not try because I believed I would fail miserably. When I became a librarian, I had no clue how much time I would be devoting to finding and trying new projects for our patrons. It has been a trial-and-error experience.

Library programs have become a foundation in library services. For adults, we have book discussion groups, recipe clubs, and outside speakers on a variety of topics. With crafts shown to be an integral part of therapeutic practices for more than a century, libraries have been offering these types of programs for many years. I have been implementing such programs since I began here, and not without trepidation because of my semi-craftiness.

When I started offering craft classes, I fell back on what I knew I could do well. Needlecrafts, easy artsy crafty series and having instructors present more complicated crafts is what I went with. Over the years, I have branched out and taught myself how to make DIY creations that I felt our patrons would enjoy learning about. Some of these included macrame, iris folding, and diamond art. With the Create-at-Home checkout craft bags we have been circulating for several years, I have had to come up with something new monthly. Talk about pressure! Not really, I enjoy challenges and researching for something new and different that would intrigue our adult users has been fun.

This month we have marbling as the take home craft for adults. With glass vases and nail polish, I was able to surprisingly come up with an attractive object that I will give to my mom. I say surprisingly because I am always astounded when a new project I try turns out. I have given my mom most crafts I have created, even when they turn out questionably. I am going to believe she loves everything I make since I was a child through my ancient years. I think sometimes she is not sure what the final craft is, but still displays it. I made her a diamond art bookmark one year and she hung it from her wall.

I also try to institute an adult craft night quarterly during the school year and monthly in the summer. This month, in tandem with our summer theme of Adventure Begins at your Library, we will be working with paracord material, which had an original use in the suspension lines of parachutes. The goal is to create bracelets and keychains by following the instructions of weaving and knotting the cord. This will be held Wednesday, June 26, at 6 p.m., and advanced sign-up is required.

I have yet to make my sample with the paracord but look forward to a creation that even if it is not perfect, my mom with display with pride.

Wisconsin Residents Invited to Paddle Fox Lake in Search of Invasive Species on June 26

ROCK RIVER COALITION

Rock River Coalition and Fox Lake Preservation Organization invite paddlers for an educational and proactive tour of Fox Lake on June 26, 9-11 a.m. Participants will help protect this local water body by searching for invasive plants and animals that may threaten the state's wildlife and water ecosystems, including our valuable fish populations.

This event is part of an ongoing statewide effort by conservation groups to identify and monitor aquatic invasive species establishment in water bodies as well as educate local residents on these species. Many invasive species are currently found in Fox Lake such as Chinese mystery snail, curly-leaf pondweed, Eurasian water-milfoil, purple loosestrife, rusty crayfish, and zebra mussel, all of which can pose significant problems to those trying to recreate, fish, or paddle on the water.

Due to the recreational traffic Fox Lake receives as well as the proximity of several other popular lakes, events like this are key to not only tracking the aquatic invasives present but also informing the public of how to reduce or stop their spread. Information collected during these monitoring events provides the Wisconsin DNR with data to help them tailor response efforts accordingly for each site.

The morning will start at the Town Park Boat Launch, W10935 Blackhawk Trail. Rock River Coalition Staff will provide an overview about aquatic invasive species, how to identify, monitor, and report them, as well as how to prevent their spread. This will be followed by a paddling tour of Fox Lake, where volunteers will keep an eye out for the aquatic invasive species they learned about.

Kayaks, paddles, and life vests will not be provided. Participants are required to bring their own. We also recommend bringing along a hat, sunscreen, bug spray, water bottle, snacks, shoes that can get wet and anything else that you require to be comfortable as this event is outdoors for several hours. This is a free event, all minors must be accompanied by an adult.

Register and see all event details at rockrivercoalition.org/events/.

with the lesson. With teachers asking for Leah to visit more than once, Leah plans to work with the teachers to customize a lesson so it could possibly correspond to a lesson the youngsters are working on in class.

“Most of my lessons already correspond with the curriculum outline,” said Leah. “I try to incorporate STEAM (science, technology, engineering, art, and math) in my lessons.”

A typical visit to a classroom includes a wagon full of items such as feed samples, tools used on the farm, supplies Leah uses on the cows and calves, a portable milking cow, milking units, even a live baby goat for the goat lesson. Leah usually includes a PowerPoint of pictures to show the things she is explaining to the youngsters. Some lessons include a fun corresponding worksheet.

Leah has plans to expand and grow the Washington County Ag Ambassador program in the next few years.

“This job works great for me because it allows me to still farm and be a teacher to students, especially in the winter months when there is not much going on at the farm,” said Leah. “I love that I can share my story and passion about agriculture.”

Leah Weninger explains to a group of youngsters what this piece of machinery is used for on a farm. SUBMITTED

After one of her visits to a classroom through the Washington County Ag Ambassador program, Leah Weninger poses with the youngsters. Each holds a bag of treats that corresponds with the lesson Leah presented. SUBMITTED

She manages the Facebook and website for the program. During the summer months, Leah has done some library programs. She works closely with other organizations like FFA or Farm Bureau Ag in the Classroom.

“The Ag Ambassador is through the Washington County Dairy Promotion,” explained Leah. “So Breakfast on the Farm really helps fund this to be able to give back to our local community and county.”

Leah returned to the family farm in 2022 and manages the dairy herd. She keeps records of all the cows, cares for ill cows, feeds calves, does the daily chores, takes care of milking the herd twice a day, and also helps out in the fields with planting, making hay, harvesting, and other needs. During college, she not only helped on the home farm, Leah also worked on a 500-cow dairy farm where she managed the robotic calf system, helped with field work and the cows, and more.

The youngest of four, all of Leah’s siblings are involved in agriculture. Her brother, Derek, manages a beef farm in Allenton and Derek’s wife, Skylar, works for a feed lab. Her sister, Molly, and Molly’s husband, Jake, have a robotic dairy farm. Jake also has an ag mechanic business. Leah’s sister, Sheila, works for a John Deere dealership doing the AMS/GPS in the tractors, and Sheila’s husband, Mccoy, is a mechanic for Case IH.

“It’s really neat that all of us are still so involved in agriculture,” said Leah.

With everything already mentioned, you’d think Leah wouldn’t have time for anything else, but that’s not true. She volunteers for the Iron Ridge Fireman’s Picnics, has been honored to sing the National Anthem at various events, sings for church, helps 4-H and FFA clubs and at Breakfast on the Farm events, served as the 2022 Dodge County Fairest of the Fair, is a member of the Washington County Dairy Promotion and is also a current board member of the Washington County Farm Bureau.

And she still has time to have fun.

“I hang out with friends and family,” said Leah. “Whether it is four-wheeling, shopping, swimming, etc., I value the free time I have because farming is a seven-day-a-week job.”

But Leah knew farming was the lifestyle she wanted.

“Being raised on a farm taught me not only hard work, but working ‘till the job is done, being empathetic for animals, love, responsibility, and respect,” explained Leah. “Without the farm I would not be the person I am today.”

People sit on benches in a special wagon and listen as Leah Weninger uses a finger to direct attention to what she is explaining to the guests. SUBMITTED

AN OUTDOORSMAN'S JOURNAL

Bay City Campground on the Mississippi

MARK WALTERS
COLUMNIST

Hello friends,

This week, I headed over to Bay City in Pierce County and had a plan of camping on an island on the Mississippi River and paddle-trolling my canoe for walleye, and also fishing from shore. My 8-year-old golden retriever Ruby would be my companion.

Saturday, June 8

High 77, Low 54

Due to time constraints, this would just be a 36-hour adventure. I had never been to Bay City which is kind of crazy considering that I have been doing this job for 35 years. First kind of set-back! While driving, two separate friends told me all islands would be underwater. I also was given a report that the walleye and sauger were biting very well, and that made me smile.

Driving from the south on Highway 35 made me think once again that I really would like to live on or near the Mississippi. Folks, the point of this week's column is going to switch over to a, "I found a really cool place that you could visit story."

So, I pull into Bay City and then I pull into The Bay City Campground which has a boat landing and permanent as well as short-term campsites. There is a very clean shower and bathroom and fish cleaning house, and the scenery is beautiful.

Tall bluffs on the Wisconsin and Minnesota shorelines and backwaters of the Mississippi are your constant view. I got out of my truck and spoke with a shore fisherman who had a bucket of bass and a bluegill as big as a frisbee and a 13-inch-perch. This campground is also the main boat landing for the area and is peaceful and very busy. I arrived early in the day and for a while spoke with several incoming fishermen who had all done very well on walleye and sauger.

I checked out the tent camping area and there were several families doing the camping thing and all of the kids were having a blast either on the beach or shore fishing.

I picked out a site, threw out a bobber with a piece of crawler, and began hauling gear as you cannot drive to the sites. I built a comfortable camp; Ruby was in an excellent mood, and I then began rigging my canoe for paddle trolling in very high water conditions. One piece of information that I have held out is that all the boat fishermen were fishing a good 2-7 miles south of me and a very solid north wind was picking up.

When I began paddling, my plan was to pull two crawler harnesses and a crankbait. For the first two miles, I had lots of problems as my rigs were constantly getting weeded up which makes them worthless. Once I hit 12 feet of water that was not an issue but the north wind was pushing me south at warp speed and in the back of my mind, I kept thinking, how am I going to fish back to camp, or even make headway?

Once again, I want to remind you the theme of this column. I think I found an excellent place to fish, duck hunt, camp, and simply enjoy a great view that has big enough water, Lake Pepin, that a little problem like the wind was not going to bother me.

When I started paddling north it was everything I had to make headway and there were some fishermen around me that could probably see that. Good news did come my way when I had a hit on one of my crawler harnesses and then things got a bit nasty. I caught my trophy, a sheepshead, but all of my lines crossed because I was being pushed backwards, and before I had the mess taken care of, I had lost a hard-earned mile.

Until well after dark this was my story, I caught three more sheepshead and when I made it to the campground, shore fishermen were thoroughly enjoying life. I had a neighbor that had come by bike and I knew that I was home.

The following day, the predicted north wind was even stronger so I fished within a mile of camp and did not catch a thing. All day I watched the boats with motors heading south and I kept thinking, it's time to get the War Eagle out and give my arms and back a break. I just finished my fifth trip in a row by canoe, truly found a place that you will read about again, and that my friends is this week's learning experience.

Going from paddling to turning a key!
